Congratulations KC

Four years ago when a student was asked what college he attended he would either quickly change the subject or shyly reply, "I go to rinky-dink Kennesaw." Now students hold their head high when Kennesaw College is mentioned. Within a few short years Kennesaw turned from a small community college to one of the ten largest senior colleges in the University System.

This year gives us special reason to be proud. For one thing, we've added a new five story 100,000 sq. ft. library to our campus. This huge structure will hold the distinction of being one of the first libraries in the entire nation to be constructed without a card catalogue. Instead, it will be entirely dependent on a microfilm system known as the Computer Output Microfilm Catalog (COM CAT).

Another reason why we should be proud is the addition of the long awaited psychology major to the Social Science Department curriculum. This new major will join recently added majors in Chemistry and Music Education giving Kennesaw baccalaureate degrees in 15 major areas.

The biggie of this year is the appointment of our new president, Dr. Betty Siegel. Dr. Siegel holds the honor of being the first woman president in the history of the Georgia University System. Based on comments made by the Presidential Search and Screen Committee and the Board of Regents, Dr. Siegel will be more than just a good or great president—she'll be an outstanding one. Those who've talked with her say that she contains an incredible amount of enthusiasm, vitality, and vigor. With Dr. Siegel running the ship, Kennesaw can go nowhere but forward.

Since this year seems to be the year for improvements, additions, and changes, we would also like to see a few more things occur. One thing we would like to see is the beginning of a successful book swapping program. For years, students have been complaining about overpricing and unfair practices done by the bookstore. With a book swapping program, hard working students may save some money and the bookstore might be encouraged to become more responsive to student voices.

Another thing we would like to see is the implementation of a child care service. The percentage of working mothers and fathers has increased dramatically since Kennesaw became a four year institution. With a child care center, kids wouldn't be running wild in the Student Center, parents would have more free time, and they'd have less headaches.

The main thing that we'd like to see become a reality is the final resolution of the drop date controversy. This drop date dilemma has been hanging over our heads since early 1979. The topic has gone through administrative circles more times than hurricanes have gone through the Gulf, yet it is still unresolved. Hopefully, with the addition of a new president and more experienced S.G.A., the issue can finally be put to rest.

The Weasel's Web:

A spider's web is for catching flying insects. In this column, we hope to catch those elusive thoughts about life at KC and some ideas of improving same; ideas and thoughts which we all entertain upon occasion but which, unfortunately, seem always to disappear with the dawn. The Weasel's Web will never pretend to have all the answers, but we will comment now and then on KC's lurching progress toward becoming a true educational community of university standards.

The Weasel has keen ears: suggestions for improving existing facilities, questions regarding non-existing educational amenities, criticisms of student-administration relations—all these and other subjects discussed on campus will be grist for our mill, or to remain within the same metaphor, fit prey for our web. So beware when waxing eloquently over a third cup of caffeine in the local ptomaine palace. Your observations just might appear in print. Bearing, of course, the imprint of the Weasel's sharp tooth.

Future columns will look into the health of KC clubs (moribund), student projects (unexciting), student government (President Mike Garner must be the loneliest guy on campus), student athletics (are you kidding?). We'll also examine the state of the curriculum. Granted, there is not much demand for, say, ballet instruction, but doesn't anyone on this campus want to learn how to speak effectively? And the state of the physical plant: are we the only college in America that does not use its pool in the winter? We hardly envision an Olympic swimming team rising like Venus from the steaming waters, but it would be nice to get in enough practice so that come spring, we could go rafting on the Chattahoochee without fear of drowning.

The problem is student apathy. But don't expect the Weasel to be another Jeremiah, denouncing those for whom Dante reserved the hottest places in Hell. Apathy among students is universal, but the apathy itself is more often encourage high citizenship responsibilities, and foster creative and critical writing.

The purpose was realized in the Spring Quarter activities of the group with a careers program by the Placement Department, followed by two literary presentations by the English faculty. Also, a professional writer, Doris Reidy, provided inspiration for or even three organizations. This seems rather strange to me, considering all that there is to gain from participating in these organizations.

The most immediate and possibly the most rewarding gain comes in the form of personal fulfillment. The more actively involved you are in a club, the more responsibility you have and it gives you a great feeling of self-esteem.

Becoming a member of a club is a great way to meet people who are interested in the same things as you. Once you start working with a club, you start associating with a great number of people - ones you wouldn't ordinarily meet.

All of the planning and actual labor involved in presenting a product, whether it is a Coffeehouse, a lecture, or a publication, is more often than not lost on the majority of people.

Never having helped in the actual production, it is hard for someone to comprehend just how much time and effort is spent to offer a service. But once you have worked in any kind of organization, where your main goal is to present a cohesive, intelligent service to the public, you understand all of the work involved and can therefore appreciate the product more.

The most important profit from an organization, in terms of employment after graduation, is experience. Since there has been such a large amount of college graduates in the past few years, employers often require one to two years of experience as a way to narrow down their applicants. In some instances, experience is more important than grades.

There is no better, easier way to get experience than through a club or organization related to your major. The heads of the organization know that new people are inexperienced and they are very patient and willing to help you learn. It is also very easy for them to work around your class schedule and still leave you plenty of time for studying and fun. You would be lucky to get this kind of cooperation at a regular job, although the college experience could be just as important to a potential employer.

Probably the most useful reason to join a club is one that can affect the rest of your working career. Many people decide on a major graduate from college, and get a job, (if they are lucky), only to find that they aren't as happy with their position as they thought they would be. They are either stuck with a boring job or else they must go back to school to learn a new trade.

This major problem can be prevented by getting experience in your area of work while you are still in college. If it turns out that you aren't satisfied with that job, you can always change your major. This way, by the time you graduate, you know that you have chosen a line of work that fits your needs and lifestyle.

Becoming actively involved in clubs and/or organizations may very well be a giant step ahead in your learning process. Not only do you learn how to organize and carry-out a service, you gain an insight to your personal needs and job preferences. With all of the benefits that go hand-in-hand with being a member, it is a puzzle why people aren't flocking to the doors of our student associations here at Kennesaw.

directional. Thus, the school that couldn't care less about athletics, is often gungho when it comes to the debating and chess teams. One College will fly into a frenzy over football, another will stop just short of assassination in student politics. But the KC student, with his benign policy of innocuous destitute, has neither zeal for study nor ardor for play. Even a passion for beer drinking would be preferable to a life of boredom.

So, much of the Weasel's writing will be directed to the incoming Freshman class, not to the graduating Senior class, of which old dogs, we too are a member and equally adverse to the learning of new tricks. But the new arrivals have four full years in which to break ground, initiate ventures and in general, improve the status quo. Which sadly needs improving.

Thus the Weasel greets the new students: get involved in a number of things, don't settle for half a college career. If you don't know whether a certain club will accept you, be advised that Nature abhors a vacuum and there's no activity on campus that isn't yours for the taking. Education is more than passing certain required courses and if you want a full education, you have to do more than sit in a classroom. We'll discuss some of the clubs and their activities when we next spread our web.

Dear Editor

In the May 20 issue of the Sentinel an article, "Clubs Tie Into College Life," appeared which indicated "No description available" for the English Honor Society. Since description is our business, any of our members could have provided a sketch of our society.

The English Honor Society Constitution states that the society's purpose is to confer distinction for high achievement in studies in English language and literature, provide cultural stimulation on the Kennesaw campus, further community interest in the Kennesaw English Department, encourage fellowship among members and the Faculty, and the group invited the English faculty to accompany members to the Shakespeare exhibition at the High Museum.

We would like to join the other clubs at Kennesaw College in "tying into college life." Please note that we are now affiliated nationally with Sigma Tau Delta and known by that name.

Cheap Books For Sale

By Jodie Trail

Tired of paying high prices for books? Now there's a way to avoid the costly expenses involved with buying load of books a quarter only to use them once. If you've ever returned a book to the bookstore, you'll find that it's only worth a tenth of its former value. Of course, if you like memorandums of your college life, it's most likely that half of the books you buy will end up on your shelf gathering dust, and you've blown more money than was ever necessary.

Now, as a cooperative effort of SGA and Sigma Phi Epsilon, a book exchange board has been built for students to buy, sell, and trade books. This is undoubtedly a smart way to fight inflation around Kennesaw College. The board will be located at the bottom of the staircase near the bookstore. Students wishing to buy, sell, or trade books can pick up cards from the information booth.

which will look like this:

There are six sections labeled Business Administration, Humanities, Nursing, Social Science, Natural Science, and Education. Each section of the board will have 35 hooks on which the cards can be filled out and placed. Students are allowed to handle their own cards, but a card can not be removed. Information must be copied down. Cards will be removed every 2nd Monday, regardless of sale, but new cards can be filled out. This will do away with any confusion.

Please take advantage of this attempt to avoid ridiculous prices and refunds at the bookstore. Special thanks goes to Mike Garner, President of SGA, for building the book exchange board.

Leadership Conference

By Jodie Trail

Every fall quarter Kennesaw College offers a weekend of workshops, relaxation and fun to any student wishing to attend. So far, every year has proved to be informative and helpful. On October 2, 3, and 4, KC students and faculty members will pack up and head out for Tumbling Waters in the North Georgia mountains. Dr. Paulk and Chuck Goodrum will be heading the workshops. They did a peachy keen job last year.

This year the subject of concentration will emphasize group communication. There will be 3 objectives; to give students and faculty the opportunity to interact on a personal basis, to observe and participate in a working group, and to have a good time. The weekend in the mountains will be devoted to how people participate in group settings and how to make people more effective group members. Groups will be formed to work on areas of problem solving, decision-making, leadership roles, and group goals.

All students are invited to attend this weekend event. No fees are required. Just sign up at the information booth.

Kennesaw College Welcomes An Enthusiastic New Leader

By Todd Daniel

In succeeding former president Horace Sturgis, Dr. Betty L. Siegel has been named the new president of Kennesaw College. The decision came after an eight month search by the Presidential Search and Screen Committee and an approval by the Board of Regents.

As our new president, Dr. Siegel will become the first woman president in the 33-school University of Georgia System. Dr. Siegel comes to us from Western Carolina University where she served for five years as dean of the School of Education and Psychology.

Dr. Siegel was chosen only after a long and vigorous selection process had been completed. Even before former president Sturgis left, the Presidential Search and Screen Committee, headed by Dr. Fred Roach, began searching for a new president by advertising in professional trade publications and mailing flyers. The Presidential Search and Screen Committee was a 19-member committee comprised of students, faculty, and prominent members of the community. After initial screening, there were 147 potential applicants. After numerous interviews and evaluations, 13 semi-finalists were invited to the campus for two days of interviews and meetings with various segments of the college community. Finally, three finalists were recommended to University System Chancellor Vernon Crawford for a final recommendation to the Board of Regents. Dr. Siegel then was unanimously approved by the Board of Regents during their August 19 meeting. In a letter sent to Dr. Siegel, Chancellor

Crawford stated that though the fact that she was a woman was "a plus" it was not a deciding factor.

PROFILE

Dr. Betty Lentz Siegel

Birth Date: January 24, 1931

Education: A.A. from Cumberland Junior College, B.A. from Wake Forest, Masters of Education from Florida State University.

Accomplishments: Highest ranking woman administrator in Florida University System, co-author of a book, Problem Situations in Teaching, has served as special assistant to the president for affirmative action for the University of Florida, immediate past president of the Southern Council of Teacher Education of the Southern Association of State Colleges and Universities, served as an educational consultant for six states, first woman president in the history of Georgia University System.

Dr. Siegel's background is adventuresome and lengthy. She was born on January 24, 1931 in Cumberland Kentucky and later received her A.A. degree from Cumberland Junior College. Later, she received her B.A. degree in English and history from Wake Forest, her Masters of Education from the University of North Carolina and finally her Ph.D. from Florida State University. Her doctorate degree includes areas in psychological foundations, administrative supervision, and teacher education. One of Dr. Siegel's major interests has been in child psychology. In this area, she has written books, published articles, and given numerous lectures. Presently, she is now working in the area of "life-span" psychology. She has held jobs ranging from a high school teacher in Kannapolis, North Carolina, to the dean of academic affairs for continuing education at the University of Florida, which made her the highest ranking woman administrator in the state university system at that time.

As Kennesaw's head administrator, Dr. Siegel plans to make no big overnight changes. However, she does plan to work on programs for middle-aged women and working professionals. As Dr. Siegel stated, "I'm not coming in to undo anything—only to advance it."

First impressions of Dr. Siegel have been extremely positive. Faculty, students, and members of the community have all expressed their favorable impression of Dr. Siegel. Many people have noted that she has an enthusiastic radiance and a warm and humanistic nature. She is also an excellent speaker.

Dr. Siegel will officially be in office by the beginning of Fall Quarter. She has two sons—Michael, 13 and David, 14. Her husband, Joel H. Siegel, is currently an English professor at Western Carolina University.

College Union Plans For Fall

During this past summer, the Kennesaw College Union summer Council has been planning programs for the Fall Quarter. The coffeehouse and movie agenda, for example offers just about something for everyone. Musical entertainment is scheduled every week except the week of pre-registration.

The first act to appear will be Doug Jansen, from Huntsville, Alabama. He will appear on Wednesday, October 7 from 11:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. on the balcony (same time for all coffeehouses).

Next comes a real treat—the Nee Niny Band. This group of five musicians from Chapel Hill, N.C. plays a variety of instruments such as fiddle, mandolin, jaw harp, double-tub bass, etc., to produce a variety of traditionally-based music.

A popular artist at Kennesaw, Elaine Silver, hails from Montville, New Jersey. She will offer her brand of traditional American music, early jazz, and blues classics on Wednesday, October 28th. Pete comes from Nashville and is very popular with college audiences. November 4th brings Carrollton native, performer and song writer, Mike Manion.

Next comes Pierce Pettis. Pierce also is from Chapel Hill. He describes himself as a "singer, instrumentalist, writer, and gatherer of songs." Sample: "I feel like a stray dog who lives on the road...no place to stay, nowhere to go, lost on some damn old highway."

Mark November 25th on your calendar—that's the day Steve Gipson returns to campus. Steve is an old favorite. He is the wizard of comedy and cartoons. If he can't make you laugh, God forgot to give you a funny bone.

The final coffeehouse features Jay Hunter on December 2nd.

MOVIES for the Fall should whet the appetite of even the most discriminating movie goer. The series begins with "Fame" on October the 2nd. This 1980 blockbuster traces a group of students at celebrated New York Performing Arts High School from their auditions in dance, voice, drama, and music through their graduation. The film highlights their personal triumphs, tragedies and competition as they pursue the elusive dream of success.

Next is "Lumiere" scheduled for Oct. 9. This film is a woman's frank, personal vision of herself, other women, and their relationship to the world at large (French with English subtitles).

October 23rd we see "Family Life". Based on an actual case study, "Family Life" dramatizes the struggle of a young woman who wants to break away from the overpowering influence of her well-meaning parents. Speaking of this film, R.D. Laing said, "The need for the truth is a basic human need that our society denies. This film satisfies that need."

The remainder of the quarter is filled out with "The Howling", "Airplane", "Hopscotch" (Walter Matthau, Glenda Jackson), and "Seven Samurai"—Akira Kurosawa's internationally acclaimed film of seven warriors defending a farming village against a bandit army.

All movies are presented at 11:00 a.m., 2:00 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. and are shown in the Activities Room unless otherwise indicated, in which case they are presented in the Humanities Lecture Hall/Auditorium.

A very important service being re-instituted by the Union is the KIDDIE MOVIE SERIES. Parents are invited to bring their children (none under three years old, please) to room 234 of the Carmichael Student Center during the evening movie. Attendants will be available to supervise the children. Appropriate "G" rated movies or cartoons along with popcorn 'n' cokes will be provided. This is a free service.

The Union also has planned entertainment during registration. During both days, Mason-Roller Line—a popular Virginia duo, will be performing on the patio between the Student Center and the Library. In addition, the mime trio, Touch, will be performing. Plan on taking advantage of this quality entertainment after you have completed registration.

The CHAUTAUQUA LECTURE SERIES for the Fall is tentatively entitled "Religion in Politics: Too Much—Too Little?" The program will include Father Robert Drinan, former congressman from Massachusetts, and the Rev. Nelson Price. This program is scheduled for the latter part of October.

The Winter Program tentatively calls for dealing with the issue of the social implications of present day trends in public education. Tentatively scheduled to appear on this program is John Holt, noted author and lecturer. His most widely acclaimed book is entitled, How Children Learn, How Children Fail.

The moral and ethical implications of technological/genetic research will be the issue addressed in the Spring. Speakers will be announced at a later date.

The Cultural Affairs Committee once again presents the Musical Arts Series in association with the Department of Music. This Fall brings a comprehensive program. The entire program is listed on page 5. One special program of note features Ron Hudson, internationally famous guitarist and recording artist. You don't want to miss this one scheduled on October 20th.

The Cultural Affairs Committee has several other programs under consideration including a possible appearance by the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra as well as professional drama. Negotiations for the Symphony now center around a date in October.

The Forum, Nature Bound Program Committee, and other Union Committees will begin considering program offerings soon. Students should look for sign-up sheets, for example, for Recreation Committee sponsored tournaments within the first and second weeks of the quarter.

Serving on the Kennesaw College Summer Council were Kathy Gildea, Chuck Ward, Cindi Dobbins, Gail Dalton, and Director of Student Activities, Frank Wilson. Professor Tom Keene participated in the film selections.

taken in 1977 and 1979 proved to be quite informative. In the two years a total of 18% of the students polled supported a psychology major; a projected 200 students based on a student body of 4,000. In all actually, psychology was the most highly requested BA/BS degree that Kennesaw did not offer.

Also, in justifying the need for a psychology major, the US Department of Labor (Bureau of Labor Statistics) and other associations have put together publications concerning the value of psychology and the opportunities available by having a degree in psychology. As a liberal arts degree, its emphasis lies in material that is transferable to real-life situations, such as communication, research, and observation skills. An undergraduate degree in psychology offers a broad area of educational experience and employment opportunities in government, business, and industry in activities such as counseling, employee assessment and training, and market research.

In addition, by offering students a psychology major, student recruitment will rise. Atlanta has excellent opportunities for employment and Kennesaw offers a geographically attractive area for those not wanting to travel a long distance to school.

Now that Kennesaw College has a psychology major, a Psychology Club has been formed. The goals of the Psychology Club are "to encourage academic scholarship in psychology and to develop an atmosphere conducive to an exchange of ideas between faculty and students of psychology," as stated in the constitution. There are over forty members in the club and expect to grow more. A major goal of the club is to become a chapter of Psi Chi, the National Honor Society in psychology. Information concerning the Psychology Club can be obtained from any member of the Psychology faculty.

The Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Science degrees in Psychology at KC can offer many different opportunities of interest from a devoted, excellent staff.

We Have The Answer

By Gail Dalton

There are questions being asked on our campus. Where do freshmen, being a little overwhelmed by the campus, find friends and become part of the college life? Where do transient and older students find that sense of belonging that is so necessary to a new way of life?

The answers to these important questions are simple—Join Circle K. Contrary to campus rumors, Circle K is not, I repeat not, a dude ranch or a child's kindergarten! The Kennesaw Circle K Club is the club where all students, new or old, meet new friends and strengthen old relationships. Circle K is the club where leadership experience is utilized and new skills are taught. Circle K is the club where things happen by giving service to our college and to our community. Circle K is the club where, only nine weeks after given its national charter, was presented this year's 1st place award for the Jack E. McGraw Club Achievement Award at the 22nd Georgia District Circle K International Convention, (our competition being Emory and Georgia State).

This year Circle K is continuing to sponsor the Red Cross quarterly Blooddrive on campus Wednesday, October 30 and 31. Also Circle K is working with the Salvation Army for another heartwarming Cobb Christmas. At our international convention this summer in Philadelphia it was announced that part of our new Theme and Emphasis two-year program will be helping the handicapped, both on campus and in the community. As Student Government Chairperson for the handicapped on Campus, both the SGA and Circle K will be working together to plan programs to assist our handicapped become more a part of student life. One project underway is a Handicapped Awareness Day on campus.

Circle K has parties, socials, ski trips, seminars, and conventions—The Georgia District in April at Columbus, Ga., and our international in summer of '82 at Dallas/Fort Worth, Texas. There are also many projects Circle K has with its K family—The high school Key Club and our sponsoring Metro Kiwanis.

Our meetings will be every week, starting Monday, September 28 at 2:00 and Wednesday, September 30 at 5:00, both upstairs in the Student Center workroom. The first meetings will be open, informal and social, (free eats), in order to familiarize students with Circle K and to find out what projects and programs they want for the college and community.

For more information, contact Circle K advisor, Pat Devine, ext 212, Frank Wilson, Student Activities Coordinator, ext 268, or drop me a note in our Circle K box next to the Information Booth, upstairs in the Student Center.

Come and see Circle K in action—it is the total club.

Kennesaw Offers Historical Sites

By Todd Daniel

What can you do at Kennesaw besides just attending college? Well, right off hand here are two things to do, Kennesaw Mountain Park and Big Shanty Museum. Instead of spending your breaks between classes by hanging around the Student Center, why not do something different for a change?

The Mountain is located just two miles west of the campus on Georgia Route 293. Eating lunch on top of a mountain is a unique way to brighten up an otherwise boring morning. Be different for a change, and enjoy this interesting historic site. Besides offering an ideal place to eat lunch, Kennesaw Mountain Park also features a museum, nature trails, and areas for public recreation. Just looking at the shrines and monuments located throughout the park can be interesting. In one area you can stand at the very spot where a brave Federal Captain was shot from his horse. At another, you can see the field where a company of Illinois troops vainly tried to break the Confederate line. By visiting Kennesaw Mountain, you can enjoy both its natural beauty and its historic heritage.

Big Shanty Museum is also a 'must see' attraction. If you're going to attend school here why not at least get familiar with the area? The Museum houses the famous locomotive General, and right across the street stands the original train station.

In case you don't know the story, Big Shanty is the place where a group of Northern bandits stole a Confederate train. Their mission was to drive the General north, leaving as much destruction behind them as possible. But thanks to a group of Confederate soldiers, their mission was foiled. Several Confederates boarded the locomotive Texas and pursued them until their capture. This event became one of the most famous locomotive chases in history and it became known as the Andrews Railroad Raid. By paying a nominal fee you can relive this historic event by viewing the descriptive exhibits, the engine itself, and a narrated slide film.

Come on, get away from those books and enjoy Kennesaw. There's more to it than just a college.

Blondie: Music Will Wake Up The 1980's

"I think music is going to become less of a tranquilizer for the masses and become more of a message carrier like it was in the 1960s," James Destri, keyboard man of the rock group Blondie, predicts.

Blondie drummer Clement Burke compares it "to a record playing over and over. I mean it's cyclical and the same sound is heard again and again."

Destri and Burke explained the cycles in an interview with the "Erlanger Rock Classics To Come" radio series, sponsored by Jos. Schlitz Brewing Company.

"The '80s are the '60s all over again. We have a conservative regime in office again, and youth is going to wake up again," Destri says.

Destri explains this return to the '60s as part of a never-ending cycle. "He describes this unique evolution that he believes will take place in the next 10 years.

"Music is going to have a very strong influence again," he said. "The leading artists coming out of this new wave genre are going to start making music that 13 and 14-year-old kids will live to.

"Music will become a philosophy again as it did in the '60s."

Burke also sees a repetition in the sound.

"The thing that's happening to music now is the black influence," he says. "The mixture of black and electronic meeting somewhere in the middle is what we'll continue to hear for the next few years."

In fact, Destri and Burke say that Blondie's roots are black.

"I don't think there would have been a Blondie if there wasn't a Supremes or a Motown sound," Destri says.

"Obviously, the Blondie sound has changed, but I think that was necessary because of the imitators or emulators," Burke adds. "There was a tremendous backlash in new wave music and, instead of people trying to be original, they're trying to copy what is proven hitwise."

He sees Blondie as "a true melting pot group in that we assimilate various styles and incorporate them into Blondie sound."

But Blondie has never been a typical rock band. The band has had an identity crisis of sorts because former Playboy model and lead vocalist Deborah Harry is generally considered to be Blondie.

"Everything has worked out for Blondie as we had pictured in our wildest fantasies," Burke says. "We were prepared for what's happened over the past five years, so we took for granted how popular Debbie would become."

"In fact," Destri asserted, "Debbie became such a label that we instantly recognized."

Destri contends that the attention Debbie Harry got helped not only the band's popularity, but the other band members' private lives.

"I can go outside my house, which is as big as Debbie's, and play around and nobody bothers me," Destri says. "But Debbie can't even leave her house sometimes because someone will always be there. So we accept everything that's happened."

What has happened is success after success and the group's expansion into movies ("Union City Blue" and "Roadie"), and the sound track for the movie "American Gigolo." The title song from that movie, "Call Me," was Billboard magazine's number one single of 1980.

"American Gigolo" was a big step for us, and came at a time when we needed it," Burke says. "We hope to do more with movies in the future, perhaps the life story of the band."

The expanding horizons of Blondie have caused the group to become, like most groups, a tightly-run business.

The KC Union Has Something For Everyone On-Campus Report

The Kennesaw College Student Union is an organization whose primary purpose is to offer a variety of out-of-classroom programs to the campus community. These activities take the form of entertainment, educational, and recreational offerings all initiated, coordinated, and sponsored by the Union. In addition, the Union is charged with making recommendations to the Director of Student Activities and the Director of Auxiliary Enterprises concerning the operations and services offered in the James V. Carmichael Student Center.

The Union plans activities primarily by means of a system of standing committees. These committees are nine in number and consist of The Entertainment Committee (general), The Cultural Affairs Committee (general), The Chautauqua Committee (lecture), The Forum Committee (lecture), The Cinematic Arts Committee, The Recreation Committee (in door), The Hospitality and Decorations Committee, the Publicity and Public Relations Committee, and The Nature Bound Program Committee (outdoor recreation). Each committee elects its own chairperson and establishes its own operational guidelines. The chairperson and of each committee, by virtue of holding this position, becomes a member of the governing body of the College Union, the Union Board.

Anyone can and is welcome to participate on any committee or committees he or she would like. There is absolutely no prerequisite to or requirement for committee membership other than a desire to be involved. In order to serve on the Union Board a student must be in good academic standing and not on scholastic or disciplinary probation. In order to serve as or be appointed chairperson of a committee, one must also have been an active member of a Union committee for at least one quarter or be presently serving on a committee.

Overall, the Union is the campus organization whose responsibility and charge it is to add that dimension to Kennesaw College which makes school more than a simply a classroom. The Union might be called "The Spice of Life" organization.

As stated earlier, the governing body of the College Union is the Union Board. Making up the Union Board, in addition to the committee chairpeople are the Chairperson, the Vice-Chairperson, the Secretary, two students elected at-large (this election taking place each Fall Quarter), one member of the Student Government Association appointed by that body, two faculty representatives, and the Director of Auxiliary Enterprises. Like all other campus organizations, the Union derives its authority from and is responsible ultimately to the Student Affairs Council.

As is stated in its bylaws, the Union's purpose is to contribute to the educational, cultural, social, and recreational development of the students, faculty, alumni, and service community. As has been seen this challenge is being met in a number of creative and exciting ways. The Union is a program to be taken advantage of by the student body, faculty, staff, and community. Most of all the Union is people. People working together for a common purpose.

People contributing to their campus community. The Union is students gaining personal organizational skills. Students enjoying the satisfaction of working with other students to provide a quality out-of-classroom experience for their classmates. Many Union alumni, now graduated and successful in their chosen fields, report that their association with the Union was not only the most memorable campus activity in terms of the enjoyment they derived and friendships they developed, but that their association with the Union contributed to their personal, academic, and professional growth and development as well. There is plenty of room for you too. The Union Board meets every week in the organization area on the upper level of the student center. Although one must be a member of the Board to vote on matters before the Board, visitors, and particularly committee members, are not only welcome but encouraged. There is a role for you to play in the Kennesaw College Union. Come on and be a part of this dynamic and most worthwhile organization. Like the old military recruitment poster said, "We Want You." Join the team. Join the Kennesaw College Student Union.

A GEORGIA TECH FAN won his bet with the U. of Georgia athletic department, when the latter failed to sell 50,000 Georgia bulldog mugs by the end of the last football season. After hearing Georgia football coach Vince Dooley praise the spirit of U Ga. fans, a Savannah restaurant owner wagered that the 50,000 mugs couldn't be sold quickly- and backed up his bet with the promise of a $50,000 contribution if he lost.

TUESDAY BECAME FRIDAY at the U. of New York- Stony Brook recently. Because students missed a large number of Friday classes for holidays, school officials declared recently a Tuesday to be Friday, for the purpose of attending class only, that is.

AN INCREASE IN HIRING of college graduates is expected this year, according to the Endicott report. Hiring of bachelor's degree graduates should rise 16%, while master's degree hiring will increase 10%. The overall rise in job opportunities will be 10%, says the report.

A PIANO DROP was one highlight of the Tulsa U. Springfest. For the second straight year, an old piano was painted black, decorated appropriately for "death", hoisted on a crane 100 feet in the air and ceremoniously dropped before a crowd of cheering people. Students then rushed in to claim souvenirs of the destroyed instrument-ivory keys, strings, etc.

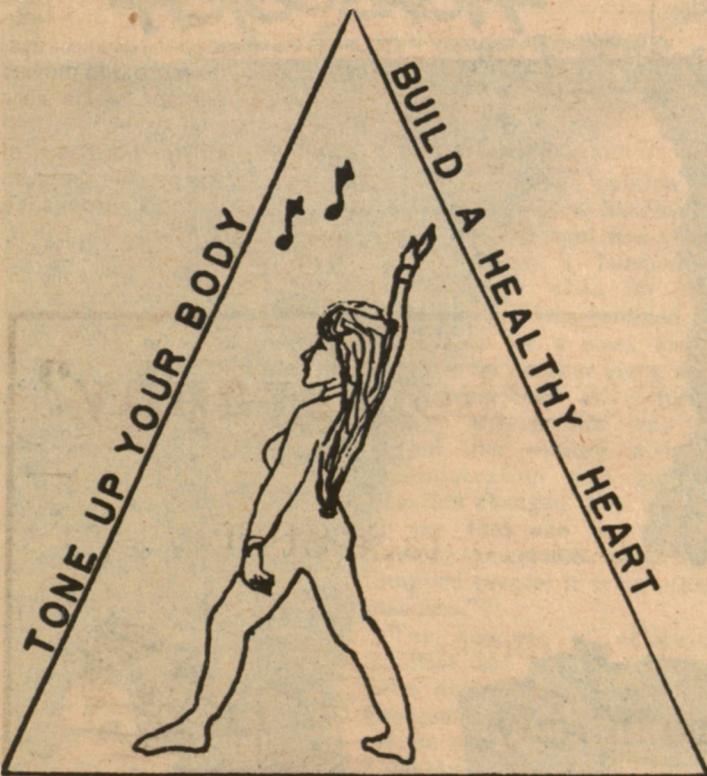

BY OPENING A SNACK BAR ON THE LIBRARY'S GROUND FLOOR, U. of Oregon officials hope to cut down on the amount of food illegally taken into the library. Crumbs left behind by students attract bugs that then damage books, says the school's librarian.

COFFEE CAN HELP extroverted people perform better on test but has the opposite effect on introverts, say two Northwestern U. psychologists. The professors say that by drinking a cup of coffee just before taking a test, outgoing people received better marks, while shy students tended to receive worse marks.

A COLLEGE DIPLOMA MEANS CREDIT At Harry White Ford Inc. of Atlanta, through Ford's unique College Plan. To qualify, students must be graduates or near-graduates, must have a job lined up already, and cannot have a previously bad credit record. They need not, however, have any credit record at all, nor do they need a parents co-signature. Most who apply are accepted, says Carol Miller, and the firm has financed three to four students a month under the plan. So far, she adds, there have been no repossessions.

LEONARDO DA TOENAIL, the mystery man who painted the toenails of U. of Southern California Students as they sat in the campus library, was apprehended recently by campus police. The male suspect, whose identity hasn't been revealed, was spotted by a male student while hiding under a library table. He could be charged with misdemeanor battery.
