Nursing Representatives Visited KJC Campus

Representatives from the National League for Nursing visited Kennesaw Junior College during the month of July to determine whether the college's two-year nursing program could receive reasonable assurance of accreditation.

The visiting team was composed of Miss Margaret Collins, assistant director, Department of Associate Degree Programs, National League for Nursing, Inc., New York City; and Mrs. Doris Bates, director, Department of Nursing, Armstrong State College, Savannah, Georgia.

Their purpose was to evaluate the nursing curriculum, meet with members of the college faculty and staff, and visit Kennestone Hospital, which will be one of the clinical facilities used in the program.

When reasonable assurance of accreditation is received, a college may apply for federal funds for loans and scholarships for nursing students, and projects and buildings, according to Mrs. Charlotte Sachs, director of the nursing program at Kennesaw Junior College.

The associate degree program in nursing, approved by the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia last December and scheduled to begin in September, is designed to prepare men and women for registered nursing at the technical level. Upon finishing the program and successfully completing the State Board Examinations, graduates will be eligible for licensing as registered nurses.

Clinical experiences and training will be offered at Kennestone Hospital and other selected community facilities. Approximately one-half of the curriculum will be in the areas of general education required of students in other programs of study.

MONTAGE Takes Pictures At Registration

The Kennesaw Junior College MONTAGE staff for the 1968-69 college year has announced a new policy to be initiated this fall.

David Acuff, editor of the yearbook, and his staff members have developed a better way of insuring almost 100 per cent participation in student photographs. Each student will be required to have his picture made on registration day. Failure to comply with this policy will prevent the student from receiving his identification card, a formality which will prevent him from completing registration procedures.

As a result, students are asked to dress appropriately for the photography.

It is hoped that this policy will help insure almost total participation in the MONTAGE and will help to make the yearbook an essential part of the campus publications.

BULLETIN

The 1967-68 MONTAGE, the Kennesaw Junior College yearbook, is now being distributed in the Student Services Building. It is suggested that all students who attended KJC during the previous school year pick up their annuals as soon as possible. Students must present an I.D. card.

Date For Freshman Dance Set During Orientation Program

On September 20, Kennesaw Junior College will host a dance in the Student Services Building on campus, thus culminating the fall quarter freshman orientation program.

The dance, which will be set in an informal atmosphere, will begin at 8:00 P.M. and end at midnight. Dress for the evening will be casual.

Entertainment will be provided by one of the most successful professional bands in the metropolitan Atlanta area. Currently playing at the Domino Lounge, Vic Waters and the Entertainers have developed their own special sound. Mr. Waters, who is the lead singer, is backed up by a band composed of ten musicians. Together they specialize in popular music of today.

The dance will be sponsored by the Student Government Association.

Preceding the dance on Friday night will be a two-day freshman orientation program on September 18 and 19. This program will be organized to assist all entering freshmen in familiarizing themselves with the campus and with the registration procedures at Kennesaw Junior College.

A number of student leaders who will represent the various clubs and organizations on campus will hold a leadership conference on September 6 and 7 in the mountains of North Carolina. They will discuss plans for the orientation program. Tentative plans already include a series of information booths to be set up in the Student Services Building on registration day to show the freshmen the types of activities which exist at KJC. Each club and organization will occupy a booth where a representative will discuss plans, purposes, and meeting times.

It is felt that freshmen can gain much more valued knowledge about beginning college experiences from these student leaders who have already participated in them. Therefore, the administration is acting as an advisor and not as a director of affairs for this 1968-69 freshman orientation program.

The dates for fall quarter deadlines at Kennesaw Junior College have been announced by Dr. Derrell C. Roberts, Dean of the College.

Deadlines Announced For Fall Quarter

Registration day for fall quarter will be on September 23. Current plans state that no pre-advisement program will be available for returning students and, as a result, registration for courses will be on a first come-first serve basis. Students wishing to obtain early classes should be present at the college as early as possible on registration day.

Classes will begin the following morning on September 24, beginning the fall quarter schedule. Late registration fees will apply on September 25.

September 30 will mark the last day for registration. This date also is the last day for adding a course and for payment of tuition and fees. Fall quarter, 1968, will end on Friday, December 13.

Developmental Students Perform Dramatic Plays

Kennesaw Junior College students presented two dramatic performances on Wednesday, August 14, at 2:00 P.M. in the private dining room of the Student Services Building. The public was invited.

The performances were a recognition scene from the play "Anastasia" by Guy Bolton and a Readers Theatre Interpretation of "A Good Man Is Hard To Find" by Flannery O'Connor.

Sky Brown was the narrator of the scene from "Anastasia," Angela McEntyre played the part of Anastasia, and Miss Charlotte Stephenson portrayed the Dogwager Empress. Miss Stephenson is an Instructor of English at Kennesaw Junior College.

Narrator for the interpretation of "A Good Man Is Hard To Find" was David O'Shields. Other roles were played by Barbara Flournoy, The Grandmother; Ken Barrett, Bailey; Debbie Mann,

The Mother; Richard Scarbrough, John Wesley; Louise Bishop, June Star; Edward Dobranich, Red Sammy Butts; Jane Durden, Red Sammy's Wife; John Hansen, The Misfit; Larry Denson, Hiram; and Rawn Shaw, Bobby Lee.

Miss Stephenson was director of both these productions which were presented as part of the summer Developmental Program at Kennesaw Junior College. Each of these students who participated in these productions was either a student or a tutorial aid in this program, the purpose of which was to help prepare these students for a valuable higher education.

Students should accept the responsibility to vote

Richard M. Nixon and Spiro Agnew have received the Republican nomination for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency of the United States. The Democratic National Convention will be convening next week to nominate their choice for our nation's first and second highest positions in government.

Then all of America's voters will be called upon to voice their opinions which will direct our legislative, judicial, and administrative policies.

This election will perhaps be one of the most important in our nation's history for it will mean the beginning of a new administration which will assume leadership in the peak of one of the most crucial times for America. Therefore, it is the duty of the voter to make his choice carefully.

The basis of our democratic life revolves around the voter. Without his response, the nation cannot survive. Yet, all too often, Americans are too absorbed in their own daily routines to take the time out to go to the polls. This is truly a tragedy.

For many of the students here at Kennesaw Junior College, this will be the first presidential election in which they will have the opportunity to carefully judge the platforms of each candidate and then decide which man is best suited for the job of chief executive. However, and unfortunately, there are those students who will be too busy or unconcerned to even bother to register for voting privileges.

These students who neglect their right of freedom of choice are endangering the rights of those who do care enough to vote. They will become the apathetic men and women of the future who will indirectly allow corrupt politicians to overtake certain phases of local and national government by not voting in our elections.

Many students here at Kennesaw Junior College feel that a change in our administrative leaders is mandatory if our nation is to maintain its position of leadership in the free world. They are eager to elect new officials who will help ease the tensions and relieve the crime in our cities as well as take immediate and decisive action on the war in Vietnam. Numerous college students are in the wake of the political band wagons, pushing the policies of the candidates of their choice because they are so dedicated to relieving these critical problems.

Because our nation is currently involved in some of the most crucial times of our history and because this election will be of the utmost importance to our prestige, it is vital that all of the students in our country realize their responsibility to consider the questions and policies carefully and then vote for the candidate of their choice. It is their duty as Americans to accept the challenge of voting and help guide our leaders in the administrative policies which will alleviate the problems of our times.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Nursing profession has need for older women

(Editor's Note: The following is a letter to the editor which was printed in the August 5, 1968, edition of the Atlanta JOURNAL. It has been reprinted here by permission of its author.)

The Editors:

While reading the article (in the Atlanta JOURNAL) on "The Emancipated Women No. 8 -- Alcoholic Females 1 in 10," I felt compelled to write a letter to you. I think the findings in this article have a great deal of validity. Women, many of whom started with their post-high school education and dropped it to become housewives and mothers, are now middle-aged with children off to school most of the day. They frequently don't know how to deal with their spare time constructively.

Your article also mentions the shortage of qualified people in many areas of the helping professions; medical technology, medicine, nursing and others.

The area I am most interested in is the field of nursing. For many years, once a woman married, nursing education was impossible to achieve. Today all schools of nursing in the hospitals will let young women complete their education or even start if they are married. Other types of schools, i.e., colleges and universities, never imposed a ban on education because a woman was married. With the advent of the junior college, and consequent programs of nursing in this educational institution, more and more women are attracted to prepare themselves, even in middle age, for a useful role in society. Under the aegis of the Board of Regents of Georgia, 12 junior colleges in this state will begin programs in nursing education this fall; after successful completion of these programs, men and women will be eligible to take the State Board examinations. Passing those entitles them to affix R.N. (Registered Nurse) behind their names. I cannot think of a finer way to spend one's time usefully than to help people regain their health, assist them in preventing illness, in addition to fairly comfortable living.

I am sure if some more of the "older" people would know of these opportunities they would reach for them, thus enabling them to lead a full, satisfying life, as well as relieving the critical nurse shortage.

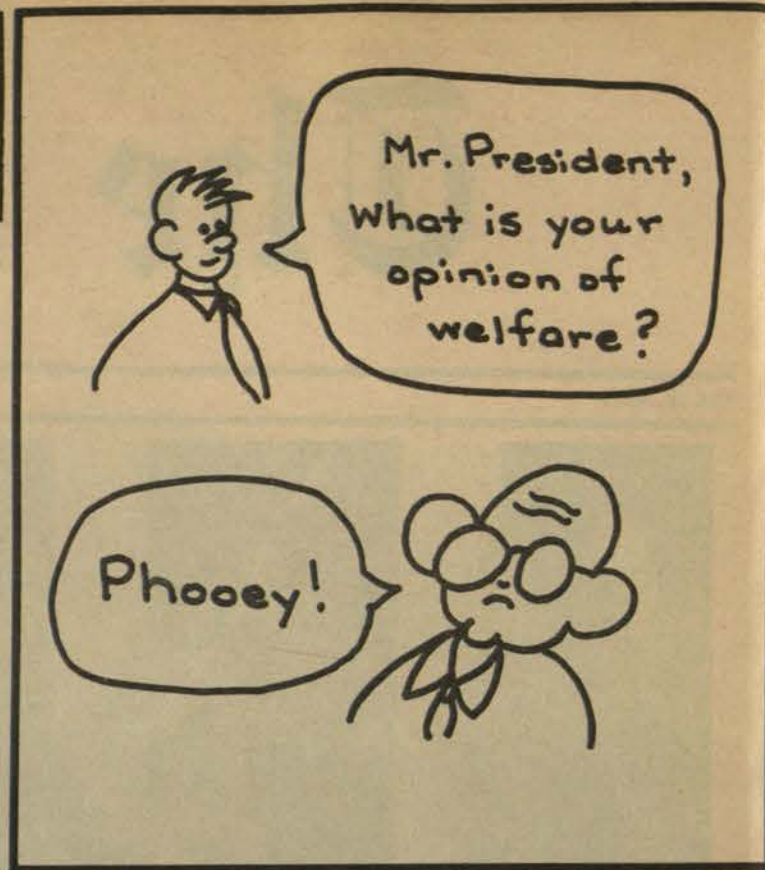

Charlotte S. Sachs
Director of Nursing Education
Kennesaw Junior College

Dear Editor:

This letter will be brief and to the point. It is only interested in asking one simple question: Why do the students who have on-campus jobs at KJC have to spend their hard-earned money on campus meals?

I sit in the student building every day and watch these students pay out their salary on meals which they buy at the campus snack bar. It seems that the administration should at least provide some type of discount prices for these campus employees. At any rate, something should be done to help the situation.

Sincerely,
A concerned observer

JACKIE HUDSON

Sophomores should learn from freshmen's initiative

Freshmen coming to KJC this fall will bring with them loads of energy and unscheduled time. Their eagerness to tackle any job always impresses me. It doesn't seem to matter to the freshman how high a wall is; he will try to vault over it. They even tackle enormous reading assignments with vigor. But it seems to me that we of the "seasoned" generation should help the freshmen channel their energy into productive campus activity instead of becoming professional bridge players.

Many of the clubs on campus need officers with initiative who will inspire the club members to get on the ball. The newspaper and annual staffs also need industrious additions. Students who have unique ideas and the initiative to do interesting things on their own would be welcome. There are also many on-campus jobs which will be available to students who are interested enough to apply.

Mu Alpha Theta, the mathematics honorary society on campus, plans a membership drive at the beginning of fall quarter. They are also hoping to have another program in which high school seniors will be invited to visit the KJC campus. Civitans need help on their service projects such as giving gifts to the needy, washing cars, and presenting political rallies. But these clubs and organizations cannot succeed unless all the student body is willing to support them in some way.

The "seasoned" generation can help the freshmen by directing them to club officers or sponsors. And, if the officer or sponsor is not known by a student, the freshmen can always be directed to the Administration Building for information. Let's make an all out effort to help the freshmen and, in return, let them help us.

Tennis courts are not provided with lights

A familiar sight to all students who have attended summer quarter classes at Kennesaw Junior College this year is the building of the tennis courts next to the gymnasium. These new courts will be available to all students at the college.

Previously, students who took beginning and intermediate tennis courses at the college had to arrange facilities for transportation to and from off-campus tennis courts. Now students will only have a short walk from the gym to the courts.

Schedules will also be arranged so that students who are not participating in tennis courses will be able to use the facilities.

This is all fine and dandy. However, word has it from reliable sources that there will be no light fixtures on the courts, thus eliminating the possibilities of playing at night.

Of course there are many disadvantages to the idea of providing lights for night games; however, it should be possible to make arrangements with the security officers to clear the courts when evening classes are ended or either at a designated hour each evening.

Tennis is a popular sport at KJC. For many students it is a year-round hobby. And the only time that many of these students can play is after their jobs, in between classes, or in the late afternoon or evening hours. Therefore, the SENTINEL feels that the administration should attempt to alleviate this problem in some way.

Developmental program increases educational spectrum of students

The Developmental Program at Kennesaw Junior College this summer consists of fifty-two students who want the opportunity to have a higher education.

These students did not meet the necessary requirements for admission because of low high school averages, low college board scores, or a lack of prerequisite courses.

These students are enrolled in non-credit courses which will allow them to have a quarter of study on a college campus and then decide whether college life is for them. If the summer program is completed successfully, the students will be admitted into the regular college program in the fall.

This summer program is one of the three experimental summer programs approved by the Board of Regents. Albany Junior College and South Georgia College are the other participants in the program.

Dr. Ted Miller from the University of Georgia College of Education is coordinating the three programs. Dr. Miller conducted a workshop for the staffs prior to the beginning of the program.

Special funds to permit the inclusion of reading specialists, speech teachers, and tutorial aids have been made available by the Board of Regents. The pupil teacher ratio in classes varies from nine-to-one to eighteen-to-one.

The overall objective of the program as explained by Dr. Carroll Martin, Dean of Students Affairs, is "intimately involved with bringing students to advanced levels of skill and interest." Emphasis is placed upon the student in determining which post-secondary direction he is best suited.

The Developmental Program on campus this summer has a curriculum which includes communications, mathematics, and problem solving. Innovation is a key word in the program and each of its phases has introduced new ideas and methods.

The communications department includes English, speech, and reading. The English is concerned with the improvement of composition skills. The speech classes are doing work in public speaking and in creative dramatics. One group of students is presenting a reading of Flannery O'Connor's "A Good Man Is Hard To Find." The reading is concerned with the improvement of reading speed and comprehension.

The mathematics program is an enlargement of the Math 020 course which has been offered at Kennesaw Junior College in past quarters. The classes are almost all informal, and students are encouraged to participate in discussions.

Following each class there is a scheduled one-hour mathematics skill laboratory in which each student has access to one of the three mathematics tutorial teaching aides.

The counselors in the Developmental Program serve two functions: providing intensive group counseling and conducting creative problem solving laboratories.

The counseling program guides students toward better self-understanding, improving study skills, minimizing emotional factors that inhibit success, establishing educational and vocational goals, and developing objective methods for effective problem solving.

A wide variety of activities are offered for the students' enjoyment and cultural enrichment. The students toured the Governor's Mansion, the Art Gallery, and the Fernbank Science Center of Astronomy. Two plays were slated for the students also. The group saw "The Sound of Music" and "My Fair Lady" at the new Theater of the Stars.

At the end of the program the students will be evaluated with an "S" for satisfactory or a "U" for unsatisfactory. If some students are not admitted into the college program they will be assisted in finding a vocation or other education which would be suitable for them.

The students, regardless of whether they are admitted into college, will have learned three important lessons: better methods of effective communication, objective thinking, and their own best innate qualities as individuals.

Campus Coed

KAY LONG

Campus coed for August is Kay Long. Kay is a Sophomore at Kennesaw Junior College and plans to transfer to the University of Georgia at Spring Quarter. After getting a B.A., she hopes to go to graduate school and get a master's degree in order to teach college English or Spanish. Kay graduated from North Cobb High School. She enjoys sports and going to unusual places on dates. She is employed as a typist in the Division of Natural Science and Mathematics.

Summer dance is big success

One of the major events of the summer quarter this year at Kennesaw Junior College was the dance which was held on July 19 in the Student Services Building on campus.

"The Cloud Nine", a local band which contains nine members, provided the musical entertainment for the evening. Everyone present agreed that this was the best local band which had ever performed at the college.

The atmosphere for the dance was extremely informal, due to the fact that most summer students occupy positions of employment and must come to campus activities directly from their jobs.

Dress was casual and decorations were light, providing a relaxed setting for an entertaining evening at Kennesaw Junior College.

A CANDIDATE POSES questions at a recent Civitan political rally.

Civitans present political candidates to community

For their summer program KJC Collegiate Civitans are hosting political candidates for the House of Representatives, Post 6, representing Cobb and Paulding counties. The candidates invited to the College are Mrs. Farris N. Freeman, Mr. George Kreeger, and Mr. George Lankford.

Mrs. Freeman, Democratic candidate, addressed the club on Tuesday, July 30. In her speech Mrs. Freeman said she would support legislation on improving education, health and welfare services; highways and highway safety; job opportunities; industrial, business and professional growth; and free-enterprise. On traffic laws, Mrs. Freeman said she would not propose any new laws, but work for stricter enforcement of the existing ones. Urban renewal was considered by Mrs. Freeman to be an increasing necessity for Cobb County. She said that she would like to see KJC a four year College and would work for this while in office.

Mrs. Freeman, a member of the State Democratic Executive Committee, said she voted not to change the method of choosing delegates to the national nomination convention. Delegates are now selected by the state party

Mu Alpha Theta begins new year

Mu Alpha Theta, the honorary mathematics society at Kennesaw Junior College, is currently organizing plans for the 1968-69 college year. Under the direction of Jackie Hudson, the newly elected president of the society, discussions on new policies are proceeding without delay.

Tremendous success marked the society's first year at KJC in 1967-68. The faculty advisor of Mu Alpha Theta is Mrs. Linda May, Instructor of Mathematics at Kennesaw Junior College.

Dr. Derrell C. Roberts, Dean of the College, has announced the following list of educators who have joined the faculty at Kennesaw Junior College:

Mr. Ralph Charles Bowden has assumed the position of Assistant Professor of History. He received the B.S. degree in electrical engineering from North Carolina State University. Mr. Bowden also received the M.A. degree from the Queen's College in New York where he majored in modern European history and minored in American history. He has recently studied at the University of North Carolina toward the Ph. D. degree.

Mrs. Emma Clark, Instructor of Nursing, holds the B.S. and M.S. degrees from the University of Alabama where her major field was nursing. She also attended the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville where her major interest was in psychology.

Miss Marguerite L. Hagler is a new Instructor of English at Kennesaw Junior College. She received the B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Kentucky where her major field was English and her minor studies were speech and drama. She is currently doing graduate work at Georgia State College in Atlanta, Georgia.

Mr. Charles F. Martin, Assistant Professor of Economics, received the B.A. degree from Wayne State University in Detroit, Michigan. His major was in economics and his minor was in biology. Mr. Martin earned the M.A. degree from the University of Mississippi where he

Fagg and Smith accept new posts

The Social Science Division is losing two faculty members at the end of Summer quarter. Mrs. Fagg, History instructor, will be going to Arkansas College in Batesville, Arkansas; and Mr. Dale Smith, History instructor, will go to Northern Michigan University in Marquette, Michigan. Mr. Smith will be a political science instructor at his new position.

Mrs. Fagg is going to Arkansas with her husband. He will be Associate Professor of History there and she will be teaching Russian history part time.

continued his studies in economics and changed his minor to business. Mr. Martin has also completed the course work necessary to receive the Ph.D. degree from Louisiana State University.

Mrs. Frances R. Morgan, Instructor of Nursing, holds the B.S. degree in nursing and the M. N. degree from Emory University. She has also attended LaGrange College.

Mr. Samuel F. Roach, Jr., has assumed the position of Assistant Professor of History. He earned the B.A. degree from Georgia State College, majoring in history and minoring in education. He received the M.A. degree from Villanova University in Pennsylvania. Mr. Roach has also completed the course work necessary to earn the Ph. D. degree from the University of Oklahoma.

Mrs. Charlotte S. Sachs is the Director of Nursing Education and Assistant Professor of Nursing. She received her R.N. from Newark Beth Israel Hospital School of Nursing. She also received the B.S. degree in nursing and the M. N. degree from Emory University.

Mr. Donald J. Sparks, who has assumed the position of Instructor of Mathematics, received the B.S. degree in education from the University of Georgia. His major field was math education. Mr. Sparks also received the M.Ed. degree from the University of Georgia.

KJC names nursing instructors for fall

Two instructors of nursing will join the faculty at Kennesaw Junior College this fall.

They are Mrs. Emma Clark, Marietta, instructor and public health coordinator at Piedmont Hospital School of Nursing, and Mrs. Frances R. Morgan, Roswell, chief liaison nurse, Maternal and Infant Care Project at Grady Memorial Hospital.

These two additions will complete the faculty for the associate degree in nursing program which is scheduled to begin in September. Mrs. Charlotte Sachs, Atlanta, assumed duties as director of nursing on May 1.

Mrs. Clark holds the bachelor of science and the master of science degrees from the University of Alabama. Her major field was nursing. She also attended the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville where her major field was psychology.

She has had experience as an instructor of psychiatric nursing at the University of Alabama, as a staff nurse at the Good Samaritan Hospital, and as an office nurse.

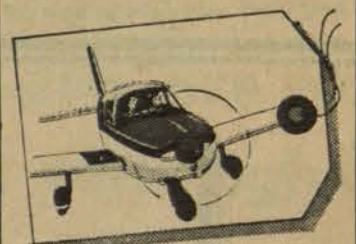

Mrs. Clark is a member of Kappa Delta Pi and Sigma Theta Tau. She is married to Jim W. Clark and is the mother of three children.

Mrs. Morgan holds the bachelor of science in nursing and master of nursing degrees from Emory University. She also attended LaGrange College.

She has held the position of instructor of medical surgery nursing at the Crawford W. Long Hospital School of Nursing and was a staff nurse in the recovery room at the Crawford W. Long Memorial Hospital and at the Walton County Hospital.

Mrs. Morgan is a member of the American Public Health Association, Sigma Theta Tau, and the National League for Nursing. She is married to James Edward Morgan.

KJC summer students attend cultural events

Cultural events, both on and off the campus, provided impetus for the summer development program which was attended by 54 students at Kennesaw Junior College.

Boyd McKeown, director of the Marietta High School Band, visited the campus on August 15. He discussed various musical instruments and gave examples of the variations which are possible to achieve with each instrument.

Off-campus events planned during the month of August included tours through the Governor's Mansion, the State Archives Building, the State Capitol, the Regency - Hyatt House, the High Museum of Art, and the Atlanta Memorial Culture Center. Events also included attendance at the Theater of the Stars productions of "The Sound of Music" and "My Fair Lady". They also attended the Chiefs vs. Mustangs soccer match at the Atlanta stadium.

Other cultural events included in the summer program were a slide lecture on experiences with The University of the Seven Seas by M. Thomson Salter, III, assistant professor of art, Kennesaw Junior College; a lecture on interior decoration by Dean E. Dreyer, professional interior designer and teacher of design; presentation of slides and a discussion on art and culture by Ouida Canaday, Atlanta artist; and an illustrated slide lecture on Williamsburg, Va., by Mrs. James T. Anderson, Jr., of Marietta.

The first off-campus event was a trip to the Fernback Science Center and Planetarium on July 21.

The cultural events program was coordinated by James F. Whitnel, assistant professor of English at Kennesaw Junior College.

Publications need help

In every college and university, the heart beat of the educational system lies in communication between student and faculty, student and student, college and community. At Kennesaw Junior College, the campus publications are an essential part of this communication.

However, publications cannot survive without students and, because Kennesaw Junior College only maintains a two-year program, experienced reporters are continually transferring from the ranks of the SENTINEL staff after their sophomore year is completed.

Therefore, it is necessary to issue a plea to all interested students that they take a part in the heart beat of Kennesaw Junior College and apply to work on the SENTINEL staff. It is truly a rewarding experience. Apply to the publications offices immediately.

Father Ian Performs Folk Mass Here

Father Ian and Caroline Mitchell brought a concert of folk, pop, and liturgical music to the Kennesaw Junior College campus on June 29, 1968, at 8:30 P.M.

This concert, the summer cultural events program sponsored by the Student Activities Committee, was held in the Student Services Building. Father Ian, an Episcopal priest, and his wife Caroline both sang, while Father Ian accompanied on the guitar.

Internationally known as the originator of the Jazz Mass, Folk Mass, and the Rock Mass idiom, Father Ian has been seen on international television and has performed in the largest cathedrals in the country.

The Mitchells have performed for the old and young, music critics, students, church and non-church goers, in schools, concert halls and churches. They have toured in Okinawa and Japan as well as the United States.

These advocates of the Folk Mass movement have succeeded in leaving their influence on our campus. Their purpose was to reveal a new type of religious atmosphere which can perhaps bring new spiritual awakenings to many of the new generation who could not previously accept the old doctrines of the church.

KJC initiates literary magazine

One of the major projects for the 1968-69 term at Kennesaw Junior College is the initiation of a literary magazine. Under the direction of Jim Cahill, a student at the college, it is hoped that the interest in this cultural activity can broaden.

The magazine will feature the literary achievements of the students at Kennesaw Junior College, both in the fields of the arts and literature, and will aim to increase the cultural interests on the campus.

Any students interested in working on the staff of the literary magazine should contact Jim Cahill at the publications offices.

Summer quarter enrollment announced

Summer school has been more popular with men than with women at Kennesaw Junior College this year.

There were 410 male students enrolled for the summer quarter as compared to 166 females.

The students represented 19 counties. Six area counties accounted for the large number of students: Cobb, 402; Fulton, 91; Cherokee, 24; Bartow, 20; Paulding, 11; and DeKalb, 10.

The 576 was an increase of 58 students over the summer quarter of 1967.

Tentative course schedule released by administration

The Physical Education Department at Kennesaw Junior College has announced the tentative course schedule for fall quarter, 1968. Some of these courses will include the following:

P.E. 106 - Soccer. Because of the current popularity of the game of soccer in the Atlanta area, KJC will be offering this sport at the college this fall in an attempt to interest both male and female students in this activity.

P.E. 107 - Gymnastics. This coeducational course will instruct students in the basic tenants of gymnastic skills.

P.E. 109 - Tumbling and Trampoline. A beginning course, this course will also be open to both male and female students.

P.E. 110 - Flicker Ball. This new and exciting course will be offered for the first time at Kennesaw Junior College this fall. It will be for male students only.

P.E. 115 - Volleyball. This popular team game that is simple enough to be played for general exercise, yet demanding enough to be played as a competitive sport, will be offered to both men and women this fall. It is one of the most popular courses at Kennesaw Junior College.

Some of the remaining courses include P.E. 131 - Square Dance, P.E. 120 - Beginning Swimming, and P.E. 220 - Intermediate Swimming. All of these courses will be coeducational.

P.E. department announces new policy

The Physical Education Department of Kennesaw Junior College has announced the new policy for all freshmen who enroll Fall Quarter, 1968.

To be eligible for a degree from Kennesaw Junior College, a student must satisfactorily complete six hours of physical education courses. Previously, the choice of courses was left strictly to the student's discretion; however, the new policy will limit this choice to an extent.

an elective in which the student may select any course that interests him from these five divisions.

The physical education program will be divided into five major areas from which the student may select one different course per credit hour. These groups will be aquatic sports, such as swimming and life saving; rhythm sports, such as folk dance and square dance; team sports, such as volleyball and softball; self-testing sports, such as weight lifting and tumbling; and individual sports, such as golf and tennis. The remaining one course hour may be used as year. A series of tennis courts is being constructed adjacent to the Physical Education Building on the campus.

The new tennis courts will be completed in such a way to provide ample space for tennis classes. The courts will also be available at scheduled hours which will not conflict with classes for students who wish to use the course facilities to play tennis.

This is only a beginning to the increasing physical education facilities which will be made available to the students in the future.

Civitan hold car wash

On Saturday, August 3, the Kennesaw Junior College Civitan Club held its first annual car wash. Several of the club members, gaily dressed in their Saturday worst, enthusiastically spattered soap suds over many automobiles for the glory of the cause and the fun of it all.

The car wash took place at two local gas stations in Marietta, the Bells Ferry Enco Station and the Town and Country Enco Station.

The event began precisely at 10:00 A.M. and proceeded for endless hours in the hot sun. The crew at Bells Ferry soon developed difficulties as fewer and fewer motorists decided to take advantage of the members' efforts. As a result, the Bells Ferry Car Wash closed early. However, the Town and Country Car Wash continued with high spirits and tireless enthusiasm until way past the 3:30 closing time.

The Kennesaw Junior College Civitan Club, despite overloads of soap suds and aching muscles, did succeed in collecting a sizeable profit from the venture. The money will be used by the club to further the purposes of the Civitans.
