Emery King reviews Reagan's record progress at lecture

by Doug Stoner

Emery King, NBC's Chief White House correspondent, finally arrived at Kennesaw last month to give a lecture he had planned to give on February 9. The delay was mainly due to coverage of the President's trips to California and Iowa. King's lecture mainly was concerned with President Reagan's record in office, its affects on black Americans, and a rare view of the behind scenes of the White House Press Corp. Before his lecture students were given the opportunity to ask questions of the newsman at a breakfast given by the Black Student Alliance. When asked if he had to overcome any racial barriers to break into broadcast journalism he responded by saying, "I don't believe that I faced any racial barriers. I did have to overcome built-in barriers in journalism that all journalists must overcome. I don't believe that I faced any more racist attitudes than any other black professional encounters in other fields." King also commented on his job as White House correspondent saying "that covering the White House makes it hard to set aside time for family and friends but that it also allows for a front row seat in seeing history in the making."

In his lecture, King reviewed the record of President Reagan and his effect on America. He talked of Reagan's positive effect on the economy to the negative effects on black Americans, especially his firing of members of the Civil Rights Commission who opposed Reagan's view and replacing them with members who supported his views. King also brought up the fact that black Americans have not recovered equally in economic terms since the recession of 1975. Blacks have trailed whites two to one in income percent-gain since 1975 and possibly more since the last recession. Because of two back to back recessions there are black teenagers today who have never held a steady job and probably won't when they move into the adult job market. King did not blame the creation of these problems on Reagan but showed through his record that he had not tried to improve or even stop the widening margin between black and white incomes. Mr. King conceded that Reagan has a good chance of winning reelection even with this poor record of black support.

Besides his lecture on Reagan, King also gave a first hand view of working in the White House Press Corp. He described how 150 reporters, cameramen and technicians are crammed in the press conference room of the West Wing of the White House and how you learn to live with these people in such cramped quarters. He also described the three ring circus in covering the President on trips around the country and the world. King explained how the White House Press Corp must rush ahead and set up in time for each presidential coming and going and the confusion to which sometimes it leads.

After his lecture Mr. King participated in a panel discussion with faculty members and Maynard Eaton of 11 Alive-News. Later in the day, a luncheon was held for Emery King before he left for Washington, D.C. that afternoon.

In Chautauqua's winter quarter lecture, Emery King spoke to a packed gymnasium. He detailed many of the events surrounding life as a White House correspondent. King is NBC's chief White House Correspondent.

Dave Harris will assume coaching duties for the new Kennesaw Men's Basketball team after a 14 year hiatus from coaching. His work will begin this spring quarter.

Dave Harris named men's basketball head coach

The adage "good things come to those who wait" was recently proven true at Kennesaw as Dr. Dave Harris was named men's head basketball coach for the latest addition to the Golden Owl sports program.

Harris definitely qualifies in the "those who wait category." After coaching in basketball and baseball for one year at Middle Georgia College, Harris came to Kennesaw in 1966, the first year the school opened its doors to students. He has been at Kennesaw since that time, working with students in his physical education classes and hoping that one day the school would take part in intercollegiate athletics.

"I came here believing there would soon be an athletic program at Kennesaw," Harris said. "But 'soon' took a lot longer than I thought it would."

"Soon," in fact, took 18 years to come about, but Harris has been anything but dismayed with the school during that time. "Physical education for the students is just as important as any intercollegiate program," Harris said referring to the classes he teaches. "In my time here I have met a lot of good people and worked with many students. I have nothing but good feelings about Kennesaw. Coaching basketball though is something I have wanted to do for a long time."

Harris will get his chance to do that next year as his team will begin competing against other schools in the fall. In the meantime, the newly appointed coach is busy looking for the talent he needs to compete against schools with established programs.

Instead of going out of state to find the "right talent," Harris is staying close to home, focusing his sights on local talent. "There are a lot of good players close to home," he said. "Our search for players will primarily center around Cobb and the surrounding counties."

And why would a talented player want to play for a team of unknown quantity with a coach that hasn't coached on the varsity level for 18 years? Harris answered the question by explaining, "Some players simply want to stay close to home. Kennesaw offers a student everything he needs to find a job after graduation. I would stress that to every player I talk to. As far as my coaching ability is concerned, I have watched game after game for the past 18 years and I have noticed one thing. Fundamentals still win games. That is what I will emphasize with my players."

Respect is something Harris will not need to demand. His students are quick to point out their respect for their teacher. But, as one student was quick to point out, "I can't see him yelling at anybody. It's just hard to imagine."

Only time will tell how much yelling Harris will have to do and after 18 years of waiting, he is ready to find out.

Briefly

The Kennesaw Association of Accounting Students (KAAS) is having a donut party at 10:00 a.m. on Tuesday, March 6 in the Student Activities Room.

KAAS is an organization dedicated to the promotion of the study and practice of accounting and the self-development of those interested in this discipline.

The members of KAAS will be available to discuss the advantages of membership in this organization and all of the interesting activities and programs sponsored by KAAS.

If you have declared a concentration in accounting, or if you are still undecided about your future career, we would welcome this opportunity to acquaint you with KAAS and the possibilities for advancement in the field of accounting.

Congratulations are in order for Prof. David M. Jones, Jr. who was elected President of Robert Burns Club of Atlanta for 1984. The Robert Burns Club is a literary society.

The B.S.A. has proved once again a little hard work and lots of cooperation can bring about success.

Our valentine celebration titled "AFFAIR OF THE HEART" was sensational!!! We were entertained by the DISCO SOUND, INC. of Atlanta, who was magnificent.

We would like to express our thanks to Mercer and Oglethorpe Colleges for their participation and attendance. In addition, we would like to congratulate the officers of B.S.A. for their diligent efforts in making the party a success. Also we would like to extend our appreciation to the members of B.S.A. and our Advisors.

Dr. Tina Straley was erroneously referred to as Asst. Prof. of Math in last issue. She is an Assoc. Prof. of Math.

The Sentinel apologizes for the error.

BSA enjoys performance

In a tribute to Black history month the B.S.A. sponsored a talented group from the Atlanta area, "Christ on the Move." The production offered an exhilarating God experience through a spirit filled journey with Christ, using human personalities to fulfill this awesome mission. "Christ on the move" presented the Gospel of Christ in an objective and unbiased fashion using a combination of song, dance, drama and dialogue.

Delores St. Amand, teacher and artist performed a moving tribute to Harriett Tubman that left the audience spellbound.

Calvin C. Haynes Jr., a native of Birmingham, Ala. and a graduate of Alabama A & M University, performed a contemporary dance to religious music. Aside from performing with "Christ On the Move", he is presently instructing exercise to religious music at the Hillside Chapel and Truth Center in Atlanta.

Michael Wilkinson, Monica Pervn and Donald Brewington presented a religious reading on "Customs and Traditions." Michael Wilkinson is a native of Washington, D.C. He is a graduate of Dartmouth College.

Donald Brewington, director & coordinator of the group is a native of San Antonio, Texas. At present

Donald is a master of Divinity student at Interdenominational Theological Center.

We as a black people find that religion plays an important part in our history. The BSA wants to thank "Christ On the Move" for rendering us their talent.

UGA announces Summer Abroad deadlines

by Irma Bassion

Get moving NOW if you would like to spend next Summer Quarter studying abroad. The University of Georgia, for example, has an April 1 application deadline on its 1984 London program. In this study program you can earn 10 quarter hours of undergraduate credit while you experience the real education of living in another culture. Financial aid for study under this program can come from funds normally available for study here in Georgia or through the Georgia Higher Education Assistance Program.

Here at KC, our campus representative for UGA is Dr. Judy Holzman. Telephone her at 429-2846, or see her in Room 122, Humanities Building.

UGA is only one of many colleges and universities which sponsor credit courses in study abroad programs each summer. The Institute on International Education now has an Atlanta office (telephone 523-7216) which can give you information on many of them. Also, the Council on International Educational Exchange is a good source of information for students interested in a wider range of summer programs. Write for their 1984 CIEE Student Travel Catalog which, despite its name, includes information on legitimate paid and volunteer work abroad programs as well as study abroad programs. The address is 205 East 42nd Street, New York, N.Y. 10017.

This is reality — Scarface

by Bruce Wotring

"Violence is extremely beautiful," is a quote by Brian De Palma, director of the movie Scarface, which appears in a recent issue of Rolling Stone magazine. If this statement has any truth to it, De Palma can credit himself with having directed one of the most beautiful movies in history. Even though some of the extreme violence in this film is, in my opinion, unnecessary, there is a powerful message that transmits itself through the red wall of dripping blood.

As I was leaving the theatre my only thoughts on the picture dealt with its violence. The movie has a delectable smorgasboard of ghastly murder scenes; there is something for everybody - yes, even you chainsaw fans. Although the message of Scarface is written in blood, I now understand its grave importance. The explicit violence in this picture serves to accentuate and define this theme, as a glowing, torrid flame illuminates objects furtively lurking in darkness. The message is...this is reality. Reality - a Cuban refugee, Tony Montana (Al Pacino), with a criminal record is allowed to enter Miami's drug-infested society. The result of this action has an affect similar to injecting deadly, murderous poison into the bloodstream of a healthy, strong, person. Reality - through buying and selling drugs and making lasagna out of people who try to get in his way, with a business-like efficiency, he is able to acquire wealth, prestige, and influence. Tony Montana now relaxes like a proud, bold king, sitting comfortably in his throne, surrounded by opulence and luxury, reveling in his success. But at his feet are the lifeless corpses of his victims, their stench filling the squalid air of his palace. All too soon, his throne, being constructed of cocaine, a most unsteady, weak substance, begins to shake and shift. The false dreams of success and prosperity invested in a white powdery drug start to crack and crumble. The glittery, flashy fantasy-world of Tony Montana, built on illusions and hallucinations, like those caused by the drug itself, is eventually slapped violently into sobriety by the hand of fate, sending his artificial paradise crashing to the ground.

Pacino does a remarkable job portraying this kingly character, adding a pungent, stone-hand vividness to the bellidant world of drugs and crime. Scarface succeeds, through shocking, blood-curdling means, in conveying the terror and fury of organized crime. You see the problem, uncovered, from the inside. The movie makes you think - really think. This is not like a three-minute special report on the six-o'clock news. Reality is Scarface.

Kennesaw College's Toastmaster's Club is looking forward to an exciting and busy spring quarter. All Kennesaw students are encouraged to attend a meeting to see what Toastmaster's is all about.

Toastmasters welcomes all

The Kennesaw College Toastmasters Club was formed on the campus January 1983. It is chartered by the prestigious Toastmasters International and is open to everyone. Toastmasters is recognized by business leaders everywhere as a valuable tool in communication and many companies sponsor their employees' participation in the program. The program helps you to learn to express thoughts, ideas and opinions and develop your leadership potential, as well as learning to listen to others effectively. Competitions are held on the local, state, national, and international levels. They provide opportunities to meet new people and allow people to get a feel of what public speaking is all about.

The 1984 officers of Toastmasters are: Eva Moreland, President; Bill Perkins, Educational Vice-President; Deborah Davis, Administrative Vice-President; Allison Pidgeon, Secretary/Treasurer; Dean Haskell, Sergeant-at-Arms.

The Kennesaw club is not large but is an enthusiastic group. They meet every Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the Student activities Room of the Student Center. All students and non-students are invited to all meetings.

SGA displays a striking lack of direction

O.K. Guys.
 Let's get serious for a second.
 For quite a while now, the SGA has been suffering from a terrible problem.
 It has no mission.
 The SGA has not stated or shown in a Constitution, a by-law, anything, that it has a specific purpose for its existence. We don't want to suggest that the SGA doesn't do anything-far from it. The SGA aggressively pursues many different activities.
 We are just wondering exactly who these different activities are intended to be for. Quite obviously attendance at many of these activities leaves much to be desired.

 It might be interesting to note here that West Georgia College recently dissolved its student government for two reasons. One was that the SGA didn't actually "govern" anything. The other was that it has no clear cut purpose. The success of their proposed Student Congress remains to be seen.
 These are two valid points that might well be leveled at our SGA.
 What exactly, then, is our SGA supposed to do?

 The proposed by-laws for the SGA state the SGA's purpose as follows: "The purpose of this organization is to promote understanding and involvement among all members of the college community, promote honest and ethical conduct, encourage meaningful participation in student affairs, represent and encourage student interest in community affairs, and represent and legislate the interest of the student body in accordance with the faculty statutes, student rules, and regulations and the policies of the Board of Regents."

 "Legislate the interest of the student body..." This might even suggest that the SGA has as a purpose determining the interests of the student body. How then is this to be accomplished?
 The SGA has conducted some opinion research to determine how they can best "legislate the interest of the studentbody." In spite of these limited surveys, can the SGA claim at this point that they have even a fair grasp of what the students on this campus need, much less what they want? The realm of night students raises even more questions...Granted, there are several officers and senators who are on campus for night classes, but to what extent do they try to "feel out" student ideas, input etc.? What kind of quantity of respondents is the SGA getting?

 We know that SGA is instrumental in appointing students to administrative committees for the college. We know that SGA represents KC at the Regent's Student Advisory Council.

Reverberations

Wait just a minute

by Sandra Washington

If State Representative Joe Mack Wilson, D-Marietta, has his way then most of us who attend Kennesaw will find themselves taking Larry McDonald Memorial Highway before they reach this college. If you, by some remote chance, haven't heard, Rep. Wilson proposed a bill to rename the section of Interstate 75 from the Chattahoochee River to the Tennessee border the Larry McDonald Memorial Highway. An amended version which limited the length of the section to be renamed to that which winds through Cobb County passed in the House but has yet to pass the Senate.

Thank you but no thanks. To be honest the proposal seems to be a pointless and expensive maneuver in semantics. The Department of Transportation would have to erect signs to indicate the new name (i.e. spend more of the taxpayers money). And how many people are going to call the interstate by a cumbersome title of Larry McDonald Memorial Highway? Not me, that's for sure. I have enough problems giving directions with all the different highways, interstates, parkways, loops and expressways that tend to go on ad infinitum. For those people who liked and admired the man and who believe he should be honored, can even they be satisfied that is this is really a fitting memorial?

What I really want to know is what is the purpose behind renaming the interstate. McDonald's record as a congressman was questionable at best. If McDonald is being honored because he died in the Korean jet shot down by the Soviets then it's a mistake to have a memorial. His death was sad and ironic. I can't and I won't even try to refute that fact. But I ask you, if McDonald had died in a car accident in Washington or of a heart attack in his home would this effort to form some sort of tribute to the late congressman still be made? Maybe-maybe not. But those who would still support such a memorial would be forced to judge the reasoning behind the effort on the man himself and not on the circumstances of his death.

If the renaming of I-75 is supposed to be a reminder of the tragedy of the Korean airliner than the Larry McDonald Memorial Highway is the wrong name-perhaps Korean Flight 007 Memorial Highway would be a better tribute.

Fall commencement held...

by Don Elliott
Business Manager

("FALL COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES HELD.....") was the lead story in Georgia Southwestern College's winter issue of "The Aiolian". Fall commencement sounds like a good idea, especially to those students who complete their programs of study after spring quarter. Why are these students forced to wait six to nine months in order to participate in graduation ceremonies? Fall commencement is available at most colleges within the university system. Why not at Kennesaw? In searching for the answers to these questions, some very interesting facts were discovered.

Kennesaw College was compared to Georgia Southwestern in the numbers of bachelor degrees awarded in the last three years. The results are as follows:

1980-81	1981-82	1982-83
GSW 299	GSW 261	GSW 482
KC 239	KC 267	KC40 +

Although the degrees awarded by both colleges were very close in number, only one college, Georgia Southwestern, offers a fall graduation.

Last fall quarter, the Student Government Association was approached with the question of why Kennesaw College did not have a fall graduation ceremony. The answer to this inquiry was that the administration felt there was no need for another commencement. Yet last spring, Kennesaw had over 400 graduates, and only 225 students showed up for the ceremonies. Why a no-show of 50%? When polled, many students stated that they finished at the end of summer or fall quarter and had no desire to return in the spring just to go through a ceremony for their diploma. Other graduating students had accepted positions of employment and were unavailable to return for commencement.

In further evaluating the need for fall commencement, it is necessary to look at who comprises the student body at Kennesaw. Many believe that the non-traditional student, one who atten-

Why this lack of concern?

by Doug Stoner

It has been thirteen years since the ratification of the 26th Admendment to the Constitution. What's the 26th Admendment you ask? Come on now it hasn't been that long since you had American Government in high school. Well I won't keep you guessing. The 26th Admendment set the voting age at eighteen for all elections. So what's the big deal of writing a column about the voting age? It has become apparent to me that this generation of eighteen to twenty-four year olds seems to have little interest for input in process of self-governing. The recent SGA elections showed the lack of interest of the student body in that organization. Less than ten percent of the student body participated in the election process. Of course, students may have little concern in a commuter college about the SGA. I'll leave that argument to some one else to debate. Actually the SGA elections do not really concern me but because of the poor turnout it started me thinking of the local and national turnout of eighteen to twenty-four year olds. From various studies of the last three presidential elections in voter turnout this age group has consistently declined in voter participation of its eligible voters.

Why is this decline happening? What's the reason for it? I have no clear answer for this decline.

Maybe we're too busy with school and our careers to pay any attention to what is going on in our government. We're more concerned with our economic situation and working to improve it than to be bothered by politics. We might as well be labeled the silent generation of the 80's just as the generation of the 50's was called. I really do not understand the lack of interest in politics and our government by people of my generation. This lack of concern is even more troubling in the light of this being a presidential election year. Democracy is not working when a major portion of the population chooses to abstain from its privilege and responsibility of voting.

The economic and career concerns that we all have are directly and indirectly affected by the people we elect to run our governmental bodies. By abstaining from the process we may actually be hurting our chances in the future for the well-being of ourselves and our nation. My only hope for this presidential election year is that this decline will be reversed by my generation. Hopefully they will choose to participate in democracy this year. The first chance to participate will be on March 13 when a presidential candidate primary will be held in Georgia to choose delegates to the Democratic Convention this year. It's up to you to change this decline and you will have the opportunity in a few days. Then we will see what your decision was.

where student government was abolished several years ago, student appointments to faculty committees are handled through nominations and applications.

The overall worth of the SAC is another story...

We also know that the SGA spends a lot of money—a lot of student money.

This past year $30,000 was allocated to the SGA to fulfill the above purposes.

The point here is not whether or not the SGA is doing anything. Our point might well be "what good are these activities doing for the students at KC?" Unfortunately, there seems to be a striking lack of direction, an ill-defined sense of purpose, a weak idea of what the SGA should be doing.

Example: At a recent SGA meeting a motion was made to amend the proposed by-laws to require a 10% turn-out from eligible students in order to validate the election. Regretably, this motion was withdrawn without a vote.

We would not be naive enough to think that such an amendment would change the level of apathy at KC, but it would certainly make the SGA and the candidates involved put more effort into getting the vote out. And that couldn't be all bad...

One might also conceivably ask if the SGA is doing anything that genuinely impacts on the day to day lives of the students it ostensibly serves.

While The Sentinel may cast doubts on the SGA's ability to perform its duties, we certainly won't question the optimal worth of having a student representative-government organization. We would, however, make one or two final observations.

The Sentinel would suggest that the SGA examine its current programs and activities to determine if they effectively serve its constituency.

The Sentinel would also suggest that the SGA slow down a second and ask itself exactly what it should be doing, where it should be heading, and what its overall mission is here at KC. Once this is done, our SGA might not be taking the shotgun approach to students and their needs that presently exists.

Last, but certainly not least, The Sentinel would direct your attention to the proposed by-laws printer later in this issue. We would direct your attention to page 8, Article XI, Section A, paragraph 2a. As you will see, unless 27 students raise an objection, these by-laws will become effective without a student vote. While The Sentinel prints these as a service to the SGA and to KC students, we are curious about the mandate (or lack thereof) that would be necessary to ratify these.

If anybody out there is hunting for signatures to force a referendum, pop on by The Sentinel office—we'll sign...

ds part-time and usually at night, will soon out-number the traditional day student. The non-traditional student is much more likely to complete a program of study at a time other than spring quarter.

Commencement exercises are held for the benefit of the students, those students who have reached a milestone in their lives. After four or more years of hard work, it is a proud moment for students, their friends, and their families to hear their names and degrees publicly and formally announced to the world. It is at that moment when times lost with friends and families and missed opportunities pay off. It is your recognition for an achievement. It is your commencement, not to be missed because you do not complete your own personal goal within the realms of a time-table set for the masses — a time-table set without regard for who the masses are.

There is a need for fall commenment. An SGA-sponsored petition is being circulated asking if students at Kennesaw would support a fall graduation ceremony. The majority of responses have been in favor of it. In answer to the question "Would you attend a fall graduation ceremony?", an overwhelming 99% of those questioned said yes.

If you, the student, do support a "new tradition" here at Kennesaw College, your signature on the SGA-sponsored petition would help administration know that their students sincerely ask that another legitimate need be met. Petitions are available at the student center information booth. A table will be set up in the student center for those having any questions concerning fall graduation. Please sign — help your fellow students have more than one opportunity per year to receive recognition for their personal triumph.

SGA details changes in proposed by-laws

by Tom Fulton

After debating for several weeks, the SGA voted to adopt a new set of bylaws in the meeting of February 9. The main purpose in rewriting the bylaws was to streamline them and to update them so they reflect the structure of a senior college student government. The major changes that are in the proposed bylaws are:

1. Change the time of election for the executive officers from the middle of winter quarter to the middle of spring quarter.
2. Change the composition of the Senate from 15 senators elected at large to 10 senators elected at large and 2 senators elected by each school.

3. Establish executive assistants as nonvoting officers for students who cannot hold another office but wish to be involved in student government.

4. Establish a policy manual to govern the day-to-day operations of the SGA.

5. Redefine a quorum from one-third to two-thirds of the voting officers.

6. Define summer procedure for the SGA.

7. Change the ratification and amendment process.

8. Include referendums, recall, and initiative in the bylaws.

The new ratification process consists of three parts:

1. Two-thirds of the voting officers of the SGA vote for ratification.

2. Either:
a. No more than one-half of one percent of the student body objects to ratification after the bylaws have been well-publicized for at least one month.

ARTICLE VIII. Rules of Order

A. Parliamentary Authority

The latest edition of Robert's Rules of Order shall govern the proceedings of the SGA in all cases not provided for in these bylaws or the policy manual.

B. Quorum

A quorum is defined as two-thirds of the voting officers.

C. Bills

Any main motion shall be designated as a bill.

D. Veto Override

If the President vetos a bill, it becomes the first order of business at the next regular meeting. A two-thirds majority of the voting officers is required to override a veto.

ARTICLE IX. Removal from Office

A. Resignation

Any officer must resign from office if for any reason he/she cannot or will not fulfill his/her duties as stated in these bylaws.

B. Impeachment

1. A majority vote of the voting officers shall be required to initiate the impeachment process.

2. A three-fourths majority of the voting officers (excluding the accused officer) shall be required to remove an officer. The accused officer shall have no vote in the matter.

3. The procedure of the impeachment hearing shall be as follows:

a. Minimal due process shall be afforded the accused and shall include but not be limited to:

(1.) The right to be notified in writing of the date, time, and place of the hearing, and the charges, including a summary of the evidence upon which the charges are based, at least 72 hours in advance of the hearing.

(2.) The right to present evidence and witnesses in his/her behalf, and to have an advisor of his/her choice.

(3.) The right to remain silent and have no inference of guilt implied by such silence.

(4.) The right to cross-examine witnesses.

(5.) The right to procedural review by the Student Judicial Committee. Any irregularities of minimal due process as herein defined shall be cause for the Student Judicial Committee to declare the hearing null and void.

b. A chairman of the impeachment hearing shall be appointed by the President.

c. The chairman shall not be an officer of the SGA and shall have no vote.

d. The latest edition of Robert's Rules of Order shall govern the hearing.

ARTICLE X. Summer Procedure

A. Emergency legislation shall be defined as any bill which in the judgement of the President must be acted upon during the summer session.

B. A vote may be taken on any emergency bill by mailing a copy of the bill to each officer of the SGA. The votes are to be tallied one week after two-thirds of the voting officers respond.

ARTICLE XI. Ratification, Amendments, Referendums, Recall, and Initiative

A. Ratification

These bylaws will become effective when:

1. Two-thirds of the voting officers of the SGA vote for ratification.

2. Either:

a. No more than one-half of one percent of the student body objects to ratification after the bylaws have been well publicized for at least one month.

b. Two-thirds of the votes cast by the student body in a special election are for ratification.

3. Two-thirds of the Student Affairs Council vote for ratification.

B. Amendments

1. Any student, faculty member, or college administrator may propose an amendment to these bylaws.

2. Proposed amendments must be submitted in writing to the Secretary of the SGA.

3. The SGA shall begin considering the proposed amendment at the first regular meeting following its submission.

4. The proposed amendment may not be voted upon until the second regular meeting after its submission.

5. The amendment will become part of the bylaws when:

a. Two-thirds of the voting officers of the SGA vote for amendment.

b. Either:

(1). No more than one-half of one percent of the student body objects to the amendment after the amendment has been well publicized for at least two weeks.

(2). Two-thirds of the votes cast by the student body in a special election are for amendment.

c. Two-thirds of the Student Affairs Council vote for amendment.

C. Referendums

A referendum on any question may be called by a petition signed by at least ten percent of the student body, or by a majority vote of the voting officers. A majority of the votes cast by the student body is required to pass the referendum.

D. Recall

A recall election for any officer may be called by a petition signed by at least ten percent of his/her electing constituency. A special election shall be held in which the electing constituency shall vote on whether or not to maintain that officer in his/her position.

A majority of the votes cast by the student body is required to recall an officer.

E. Initiative

An initiative on any question may be called by a petition signed by at least ten percent of the student body. The SGA must consider and vote on the initiated question.

Sports Spectrum

The Greeks and Romans had their golden age. King Aetes had his golden fleece. Matthew had his Golden Rule.

Now, after years of waiting, the event that will change the look of our campus for years to come. Yes, believe it or not, Kennesaw is getting a Golden Owl!

And why not? The University of Minnesota has a Golden Gopher. Who the hell wants to watch a Golden Gopher in action? To say I am in favor of having a Golden Owl is an understatement. I can't begin to count how many times I have heard someone on campus say, "You know, what we need around here is a good ole' Golden Owl to brighten things up."

WHO SHOULD HOOT?

Before anyone jumps on the Golden Owl bandwagon, there are some questions that should be answered. First, does anyone on campus possess the qualifications an applicant will need in order to fill the "bill" as the main hoot? According to Webster's Dictionary, an owl is "chiefly nocturnal, with a large, broad head, a strong talon and preys on mice for survival."

What kind of freak are we looking for here? It sounds a lot like Jason from "Friday the 13th" to me. I mean, I wouldn't mind the broad head part, or even the guy preying on mice. But anything that only comes out at night and has a strong talon (I don't know what a strong talon is and probably am better off not knowing) has got to be a little strange. We may be talking transvestite here.

SOME SUGGESTIONS

According to cheerleader co-captain Julia Johnston, the Golden Owl will perform at all home basketball games. Assuming security will let it in the gym, what will the Golden Owl do? Perhaps the owl could be in charge of special event nights featuring the Golden Owl himself.

The events would need to be based on a theme that everyone on campus could relate to; something that would draw the crowds to the games. One event sure to pack the gym would be:

"The Golden Owl Lights the Security Cat On Fire and Jams It Night" - With the lights turned down at half-time, the Golden Owl douses our loveable little security cat with gasoline, lights him, then jams him with a Dominique style slam.

Although the event may not please anyone, it would definitely draw attention to the college.

Someone suggested the Golden Owl simply be an average person dressed in a Golden Owl outfit, cheering along with the cheerleaders. Whatever happened to realism?

Golf team gears up for Spring action

by David Poteet
Sports Writer

When Lester Williams became the golf coach for Kennesaw he was prepared for the problems his team might encounter while on the golf course. His team's ability to compete against bigger schools during the fall season is a testimonial to that.

However, the biggest problems haven't occurred on the course, but rather in the classroom, and eligibility is the team's biggest handicap.

"Out of the five players I counted on during the fall season, two are left," explained a dismayed Williams. "If we can get some people and keep them eligible, we'll be alright."

While Williams knows the loss of some key players does hurt, he still has hopes that the spring season can be a successful one.

Much of the team's hopes will be resting on the shoulders of John Browne, a left-handed freshman from Knoxville, Tennessee. "John was our best player in the fall and he is also our leader," Williams said. "Every aspect of his game is strong, but his driving ability is what he depends on the most."

Another long driver is Kirk Beilke, a player Williams feels could help out if he can get consistent. "Kirk can drive the ball long as well as anybody," said Williams, but he needs to work on his short game. If we can improve his chipping and putting, he could be tough to beat."

Following Browne and Beilke will be a group of golfers that could make or break the Golden Owl's season. Both Mike Cole and John Draper should become eligible in the spring, along with John Hough. Cole transferred from Georgia State in the fall, and missed the fall season. Draper is a golfer Williams believes in, and will be counting on if he becomes eligible. "I saw John play in high school and I know what he can do," Williams explained. "He just has to get himself together and do it."

Hough is a player Williams is especially high on and compares his game to that of Browne's.

The team rounds out with Rob Williams, a sophomore who will be competing in college for the first time and Rob Adamson, who will be transferring to Kennesaw from Spartanburg Junior College in the spring.

Yes, Lester Williams is prepared for his team's problems on the golf course. He feels with their ability he won't have to help too much. The eligible part is up to the players.

Crystal Brown Makes Finals

Crystal Brown, president of Kennesaw College's Black Student Alliance, was one of 10 finalists in the Miss Atlanta Dogwood Festival Pageant, held earlier this month.

Crystal, a sophomore majoring in chemistry, was one of 24 candidates from colleges in the metro-Atlanta area who competed in the pageant. The 10 finalists were selected in February, and three top winners selected in early March. Crystal will receive several gifts to reaching finals.

Contestants were judged on appearance, poise, speaking ability, achievement and scholarship.

Crystal and Jo Ann Carter, a Kennesaw sophomore, were selected by a Student Union committee from 11 applications.

The competition is sponsored by the Women's Chamber of Commerce of Atlanta.

Circle K Club Revives at K.C.

An effort is underway to revive a Circle K Club at Kennesaw College. We had such a club on campus two or three years ago but it died out for some reason or another (probably lack of a sponsor). The new club is being sponsored by the Marietta and Sweet Mountain Kiwanis Clubs jointly. Circle K is the college level version of the Kiwanis Clubs which consists of adults living in the cold cruel world. There is also a high school level known as Key Clubs. All of these are service oriented organizations intent on lending assistance to certain elements in the larger community.

This year we will help sponsor the Special Olympics, for example. Anyone interested in joining Kennesaw's Circle K please express an interest to Dr. James McDuffie, 429-2942/429-2946 or drop a note to him at Social Sciences 213-C. Please include your name and phone number.

b. Two-thirds of the votes cast by the student body in a special election are for ratification.

3. Two-thirds of the Student Affairs Council vote for ratification.

The SGA has already voted for ratification. All that remains now is approval by the Student Affairs Council, which will vote on February 27, and by the student body. For approval by the student body the first method outlined in the ratification process, in which students may object to adoption of the proposed bylaws, will be used. To object to adoption of the proposed bylaws, all you have to do is to write, "I object to adoption of these bylaws", sign your name, and turn this in to the Student Government Association. At the end of one month, the SGA will make a list of all the students who objected so anyone can check and make sure their objection was counted. If less than 26 students object to the proposed bylaws they will go into effect.

The proposed bylaws are included in this paper and the current bylaws are in your student handbook. Copies of either are also available at the student center information booth or the SGA office. If you decide to object to adoption of the proposed bylaws please include the reasons why in your objection. The SGA is interested in serving the students, not the SGA.

Lady Owls complete 1983-84 Basketball season

by David Poteete
Sports Writer

The Kennesaw Golden Owls basketball team finished their season against West Georgia in the same manner as they began against Shorter; with a loss. But while the Golden Owls did lose 20 of the 29 games they played, coach Gary Wisener feels his second year club has nothing to be ashamed of.

"We lost a lot of games, as our record shows," explained Wisener "But our girls showed what character and personal pride they possess throughout the season. No matter how far behind or ahead we might have been, each one gave the game their all."

Proof of Wisener's statement could be seen during the last two minutes of the West Georgia game when, down by 13 points, Golden Owl players continually dove on the court in hopes of forcing a steal or causing a turnover. Such actions can rarely be seen from other teams in similar situations.

Two players Wisener commended for their ability to play under stress were Beth Horne and Vickie Berdanis, both of whom will not be returning to next years team.

Horne, who has completed her fours years of eligibility, played much of the season with a strained arch in her left foot. Berdanis whose left knee has already experienced four operations, will be cut on yet again in the future, leaving her no option but to refrain from playing competitive basketball.

"Beth and Vickie played while hurt, something that many players won't do," Wisener said. "Vickie has made up for her loss of quickness by playing intelligent. Beth was coming off a series of really strong performances when her foot went out. Both girls showed a lot of courage playing in their conditions."

Wisener will also be missing next year as the athletic department failed to renew his contract for next season. He leaves no doubt he will miss his team. "It's like I said before," Wisener said. "This season went by too fast. Most seasons that go by too fast are winning ones. This years team is unique."

Joy can be found in a 9-20 team. Ask Gary Wisener.

Wisener's contract dropped

by David Poteete
Sports Writer

Through the use of a press-release, Kennesaw Athletic Director Spec Landrum has announced that Golden Owl basketball coach Gary Wisener will not return to the school next year in the same capacity.

In the release, Landrum pointed to Wisener's inability to "be on campus in the mornings and the afternoons" as the main reason for not renewing the coach's contract. Wisener currently teaches high school at Osborne and has been able to practice his team in the afternoon.

However, Kennesaw recently added a men's basketball team to its athletic program and Landrum feels the men's and women's teams will have to "alternate morning and afternoon practices."

"I can understand the need for a staff person on campus during the morning and afternoon," Wisener said in a recent interview. "But I was never given the option of trying to work that into my schedule."

Despite the recent happenings, Wisener feels contented with the job he did during his two-year reign as the Golden Owl coach. "I feel we did have the college look here," he said. "We were organized, played a tough schedule and had a class act when teams visited our gym."

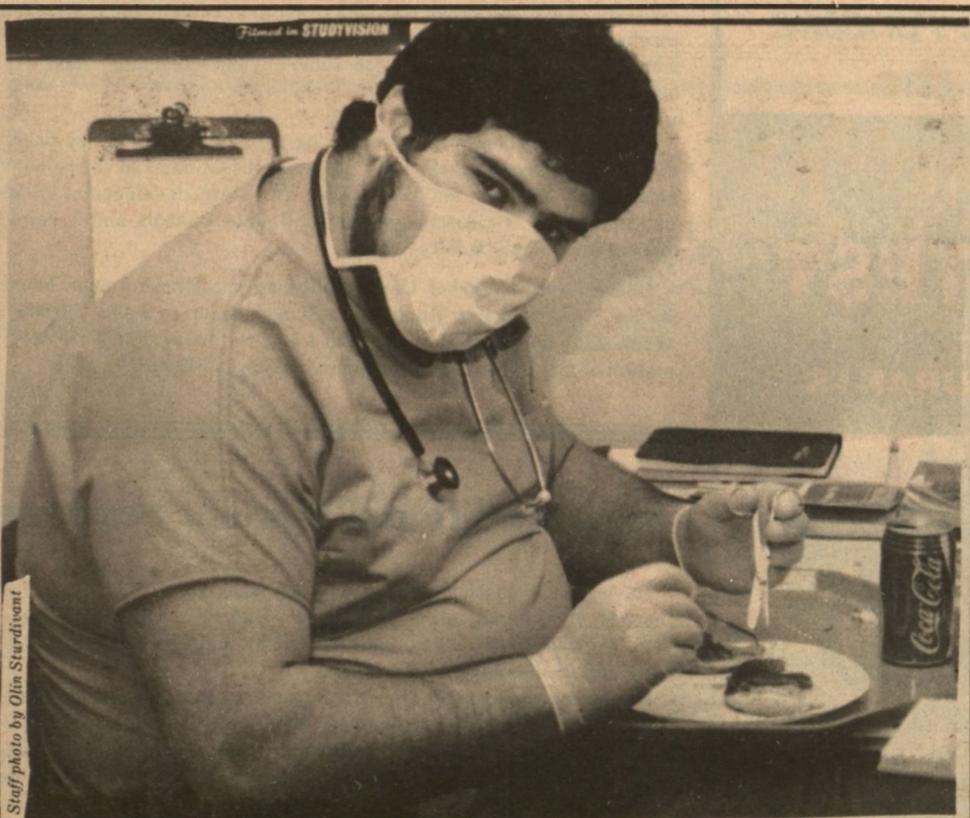

Wisener will continue to coach softball, a sport which he enjoys coaching, but one that holds no candle to his love for basketball. "It will be hard to adapt to the loss of (coaching) basketball," Wisener quietly said. "It is kind of like being a kid and having a crush on someone. Even though you never say anything to that person, you still love her. Then suddenly she finds a boyfriend and it breaks your heart. It will be tough waiting until I retire from teaching to coach again."

Other than the press release, which also commended Wisener for his efforts the past two years, Landrum declines to make any comments.

SGA Announcement

The Kennesaw SGA recently announced at-large nominations are being accepted for the annual Student of the Year award. Nominations may come from any number of the student body. Qualifications for the award are a minimum of a 3.0 GPA, official status as a senior, and the filing of an application with the office of the Director of Student Activities. Further information is available from the SGA office.

Kennesaw College Opens Teacher Center

The dream of just a few became a reality for many when Kennesaw College held an open house on Monday, March 5, 1984 for their Teacher Center, a joint venture between the college and the Marietta City and Cobb County school systems.

The public was invited to tour the facilities of the Teacher Center on the fourth floor of the Kennesaw College library on March 5. A program included remarks by Dr. Betty L. Siegel, president of Kennesaw College, Dr. Roy Nichols, Jr., superintendent of Marietta City Schools, and Dr. Thomas S. Tocco, superintendent of Cobb County Schools.

Keynote speaker for the festivities was Sally Pisarchick, coordinator of a Teacher Center in Maple Heights, Ohio, who addressed the topic, "How to be a Fireball in a Burnout Situation Without Getting Singed."

According to Diane Willey, associate professor of curriculum and instruction and acting director of the Center for Excellence in Teaching and Learning (CETL) facilities, the Teacher Center was a seed planted and nurtured by three men—Dr. Stanley Wrinkle, assistant superintendent for curriculum for Cobb Schools; Dr. Roy Nichols, superintendent of Marietta City Schools; and Dr. Robert L. Driscoll, dean of the School of Education at Kennesaw College.

"It was really their dream—they put in a lot of time and effort to make it a reality," said Ms. Willey, who will oversee the activities of the Teacher Center, which will be jointly funded by both public school systems and the college. Teachers from the sponsoring systems may join the center for an annual membership fee of $2.50, she said, while teachers from other public and private schools may join for an annual fee of $20.00.

The Teacher Center was created to serve the instructional and professional development needs of public school teachers in the Kennesaw College service area, Ms. Willey said. Prior to its opening, teachers in the area had to travel to the Mercer University center south of Atlanta to gain valuable teaching resources.

"The teachers have shown great interest in having a resource center like this nearby," Ms. Willey said. "It is important to form a partnership between local schools and Kennesaw College to pool resources and ideas and to work together in developing the resource center. It's a very exciting concept!"

The center has two main purposes, Ms. Willey explained, one being to provide resource materials for teachers to get ideas for use in the classroom. Equipment available for their use includes a book binder, badge maker, laminating machine, dry mount press, lettering machine, transparency maker and bulletin board letter cutting machine to name a few. The second purpose is to offer workshops on various topics of interest to teachers in grade levels K-12 during evenings or weekends, Ms. Willey said.

"We'd like to identify workshops of interest both to public school teachers and the Kennesaw College faculty so they can come together and share ideas," Ms. Willey said. She added the Teacher also has a store which sells a variety of instructional materials at cost. All these resources can come together to help today's school teacher prepare slide shows, duplicate or make audio tapes, and use lettering and graphic tools for superb visual teaching aids, she added.

The Teacher Center is governed by a 13-member advisory board comprised of representatives of both school systems and the college. Designated liaisons for the center are staff development coordinators Emily Corcoran from Cobb County Schools and Virginia Eckert from Marietta City Schools.

Hours for the Teacher Center following the March 5 open house will be 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday and Friday; 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday; and 1 to 4 p.m. Saturday. For more information on the facilities or open house events, call 429-2757.

Non-Traditional Student Seminar

Have you ever thought about going back to school? Does the thought of studying after years away from the books discourage you? Do you worry about how you could juggle spouse, children, work and studies? You're not alone.

Kennesaw College will offer a seminar for non-traditional students on Thursday, March 15, 1984 at 7:45 p.m. for area residents who are interested in learning more about their options concerning continuing their education. The seminar, hosted by the school's admissions office, will be held in the Student Activities Room on the second floor of the Carmichael Student Center on campus. It is free and open to the public.

Kennesaw has become a popular educational choice for non-traditional students in recent years, and the school has established an organization called S.O.T.A. (Students Over the Traditional Age). Representatives of S.O.T.A. will be on hand at the seminar to answer questions and provide an atmosphere of support and encouragement during an informal discussion planned.

Marietta resident Bill Hildebrand is one Kennesaw College student who fits into the "non-traditional" category—he is 70 years old and enjoying his learning experience.

"It was rough when I took my first test, but I really enjoy my classes," said Hildebrand, adding he graduated from the University of Iowa 48 years ago in 1936. In his third year as a Kennesaw College student auditing classes, he has taken courses in business law, income tax, business and society, Spanish and criminal law. He plans to take a golf class in the spring.
