"Fantastics" Parts Cast By Socc And Buskin

The Socc and Buskin Players have announced the casting for the spring quarter production of the musical comedy "The Fantasticks." The selections are as follows:

The Mute: Libby Huffman, a native of Marietta and a graduate of Marietta High School. Libby formerly danced with the Marietta Civic Ballet but now performs with the Ruth Mitchell Dancers in Atlanta, Georgia.

The Boy: Josh Langston, a teacher education major at KJC and assistant editor of The SENTINEL. He has done several high school productions, including "Camelot," "South Pacific," and "The Robe."

The Girl: Jean Jeffrey, also a teacher education major at Kennesaw Junior College. She is a member of the Drama Club and is active in the music program.

Bellamy: John Hansen, a mathematics major from Sandy Springs, who previously performed in the fall quarter production of Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

Hucklebee: David Fowler, a pre-ministerial student. He is a sales representative in his spare time and is active in the choral ensemble at KJC.

Henry: Earl Sumner, a graduate of Sprayberry High School. Earl is a language and literature major and is an ambitious writer of poetry and short stories.

Mortimer: Sid Brown, a freshman at KJC in the arts and sciences program. He played the part of James Tyrone in "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

El Gallo: Larry Fay, a sophomore at KJC and president of the Drama Club. Larry is majoring in drama and has also performed here in "Long Day's Journey Into Night" as Jamie, the wayward son.

The production staff has also been selected to direct the musical. Miss Charlotte Stephenson, instructor of speech and drama at Kennesaw Junior College, will act as director.

Miss Carole Hyde, instructor of music, will act as musical director for the production.

Assistant director, Miss Peggy Hagler, is an instructor of English at KJC.

Sally Wood and Larry Fay, students at Kennesaw Junior College, will choreograph the production of "The Fantasticks." Both have danced professionally for many years and Miss Wood is currently performing with the Marietta Civic Ballet. Mr. Fay is also acting as technical director for the show.

SENTINEL Takes Honors At Press Institute

The Kennesaw Junior College student publication, The SENTINEL, won top honors as the outstanding junior college newspaper in the state of Georgia on February 21 in Athens, Georgia. The presentation of this award was made at the 41st Annual Press Institute of the Georgia Press Association. The TECHNIQUE, student publication at the Georgia Institute of Technology, was chosen as the top winner for the senior college division.

The success of The SENTINEL was evidenced by the fact that it was awarded a total of five of the honors in the junior college division. This total was more than any other college or university in the state of Georgia.

In the general categories, The SENTINEL scored twice, winning honors as the newspaper with the best campus coverage in both editorial and feature writing. The judges of the contest cited the publication's understanding of campus problems and its ability to deal with them effectively as major reasons for The SENTINEL's success in editorilizing. They also praised the desire of the newspaper staff to interest a majority of the students at the college with a variety of feature writings.

The editor of The SENTINEL, Claire Beale, won the fourth and fifth awards for her outstanding achievements in both editorial and feature writing. Her winning entry in the individual editorial category was entitled "Election of SGA Officials Should Be Improved"; and her winning entry in the individual feature category was entitled "A KJC Student Gives His View of Vietnam." Miss Beale was the only college journalist to win two individual awards and The SENTINEL easily won more total awards than any other senior or junior college newspaper. This was the first competition for The SENTINEL.

Other winners in the junior college division included the following: News coverage—The STALLION, Abraham Baldwin College; and sports, photography and general advertising excellence—The SOUTH GEORGIAN, South Georgia College.

In the campus coverage awards for the senior college division, The EMORY WHEEL of Emory University won first place citations for news coverage, editorials, and general advertising excellence.

Additional winners were the following: Features—The WEST GEORGIAN, West Georgia College; sports coverage—The RED AND BLACK, University of Georgia; and photography—The SIGNAL, Georgia State College.

The following individual entries won on the senior college level: Best news story—Steve Stewart of The RED AND BLACK, University of Georgia; best editorial—Bryce Smith of The MAROON TIGER, Morehouse College; best feature story—George Fox of The EMORY WHEEL, Emory University; and best sports story—Pat Rogers of The RED AND BLACK, University of Georgia.

Nationally famous cartoonist, Lou Erickson, also presented the first annual Atlanta JOURNAL "Impact Award" to George Stuart, editorial cartoonist for the Georgia State College SIGNAL. His winning cartoon was entitled "Prejudice is a state of mind—Poverty is real."

Plaques and award certificates were given to the winners in each category. Those which were presented to The SENTINEL staff are on display in the newspaper office in the Student Services Building.

Plans For Spring Festival Presented By KJC Students

Plans were recently announced for a spring festival to be held on the Kennesaw Junior College campus from May 5 through May 16. The major theme of the entire program will be centered around the student.

The idea for the festival was formulated by students. The festival will be directed by students to reflect student life and student activities. The spring festival committee is composed of ten campus individuals, five students and four faculty representatives from each of the major divisions throughout our campus. The chairman of this committee is a student. The festival is co-sponsored by each of the clubs and organizations on campus.

The purpose of the spring festival is to promote Kennesaw Junior College as an institution of higher learning, to reveal its effects on the community of greater Atlanta, and to reflect the desires and hopes of its students. It is hoped that, through the general participation of all people concerned with this college, we can create a feeling of spirit and cooperation between the students, the faculty, and the community.

In order to achieve this purpose, it is hoped that all students will work in some part of the spring festival program. In general, activities will center around art and science exhibits, prominent guest speakers, film series, theatre productions, athletic events, an awards day program, KJC Day, open house, a spring formal, and several other activities.

Efforts will be made to make this spring festival a traditional event for the KJC campus if this year's events are successful.

The committee will be composed of the following five students: Physical education—Tyron Copeland, Humanities—Claire Beale, Social sciences—Sally Wood, and Natural sciences and mathematics—John Hansen. Chairman of the student committee is Larry Fay. Any student who is interested in helping in any way to make the spring festival program a success should contact Larry Fay at the SENTINEL office in the Student Services Building.

Humanities Division Offers Two Seminars In English

The Division of Humanities at Kennesaw Junior College will offer two non-credit courses beginning spring quarter, 1969.

The first course will be a seminar in development reading and English offered from March 31 through June 13. It will be presented for freshmen who are interested in improving their basic skills in reading and grammar.

This seminar will be directed by Mrs. Fred Swain, Assistant Professor of English, and will meet on Mondays and Thursdays from 1:00 P.M. to 3:00 P.M. in Room 128 in the Humanities Building.

The study will emphasize diagnosis of and remedial measures for the individual student's problems in reading comprehension and grammar as it relates to written composition. Attention will be directed to basic patterns of sentence and paragraph structure.

The second course will be a seminar on studies in the American short story. It will be offered from March 31 through June 13 and will be directed by Professor David Jones. It will meet on Mondays and Wednesdays from 1:00 P.M. to 3:00 P.M. in Room 213 in the Humanities Building.

The study will be concerned with the chronological development in America of the short story as a literary form. Forty-three stories representing the work of thirty-seven writers from Irving to Updike will be studied with regard to structure, character, theme, and style. Emphasis will be placed on student discussion and critical analysis.

Students who wish to take advantage of either of these seminars should obtain a registration form from the Division of Humanities as soon as possible because the size of the programs will be limited.

Administors should formulate an association of junior colleges

Much has been said concerning features which should be added to make this college a better institution. These comments which directly affect the enjoyment and welfare of the students at Kennesaw Junior College range from the initiation of an intercollegiate sport program to the establishment of a campus clinic.

However, there is another area of improvement which also deserves consideration. This area is the formation of an association of junior colleges.

Throughout the state of Georgia, there are twenty-two junior colleges which, whether private or state supported, share the same basic problems. There are factors involving an increase in enrollment, new curriculum, and a rising demand for student rights. There are also dormitory space and new courses of instruction.

At the present time,

Kennesaw Junior College is under the administrative policies of the University System of Georgia which is controlled by the Board of Regents. It is certain that the administrative plans of the Regents are keyed to suit the demands and problems of all the units under its direction. This includes not only the junior colleges but also the senior colleges and universities as well. And, because of their size and enrollment, it is evident that the Regents must direct the majority of their plans to these higher institutions of learning.

Recently, student representatives from Southern Technical Institute in Marietta discussed the possibilities of an association of junior colleges with student representatives from Kennesaw Junior College. Although these two institutions have many differences based on their period of existence and their particular concentrations of study, they share many similarities resulting from their locale and their future as four-year institutions. These representatives compared plans concerning an association of junior colleges. They proposed several of the following interesting ideas:

-An association of junior colleges could directly benefit the institutions involved by dealing with only these problems concerning these institutions;

-Such an association could leave a greater amount of time for the senior colleges and universities to better deal with their own problems;

-Under the direction of such an association, student demands could better be heard and voiced;

-This association could assist junior college administrators in collaborating on major improvements; and

-Such an association could create a better atmosphere within the Board of Regents and result directly in improvements for both junior and senior colleges.

Also under consideration by these student representatives was the idea of a joint meeting of several student leaders from each college to discuss the problems facing them in education today. This meeting of student leaders would formulate as a definite part of the association and would meet at regular intervals.

It is unfortunate that these proposals are simply in the preliminary stages of consideration for it is obvious that an association of junior colleges is needed for the advancement of all the institutions involved. It is hoped that the administrators will consider the proposals when they are formulated by the students. However, it is the responsibility of the students to take the initiative.

What does "Mr. Warmth" have against cars?

Where do KJC's "Burns' Rent-A-Fuzz" get their authority?

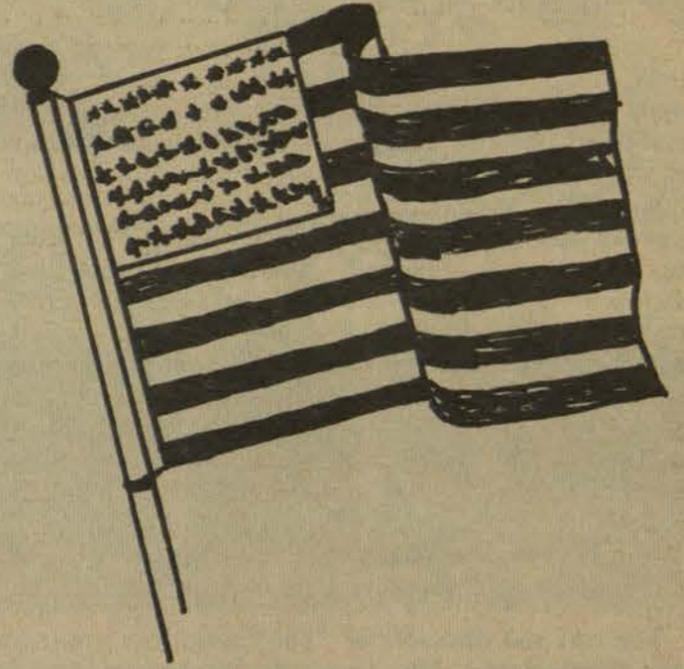

I cannot fully understand why I can't park anywhere I please without fear of being arrested and harrassed for the rest of my college career. For example, if I were to have engine trouble or run out of gas, the most logical place for me to temporarily leave my car would be here in the KJC parking lot. It is safe and no one would dare molest my car knowing about the ever-present, all-seeing Burns men. But why is it that, when I return the next day, I find my car has either been tagged with a $1.00 parking ticket or has been towed away to some obscure two-bit garage hidden within the confines of the Kennesaw city limits? I could understand such treatment if perhaps, during the night, the car were to move up into the quadrangle or were to just sit there in the parking lot blowing its own horn. But just sitting there being "sick and on its last leg" presents no major threat to the security of this property or to the lives of our own immortal guards.

Furthermore, what's the big hang up on parking in the "reserved" parking spaces after 6:00 P.M.? A couple of weeks ago, I was standing by my car when a guy pulled into one of the reserved spots. He turned off his ignition and was halfway to the library when "Mr. Warmth" told him to move his car. When the student asked why, he was told that the spots were reserved. The student said that he was merely going into the library to return a book and would be right back. So, he was ticketed with a $1.00 fine after 8:00 P.M. Now it seems a bit ludicrous to me that, since the value and security of the KJC property and buildings was not damaged, one must be forced to pay a fine for parking in a spot that was not and would not have been occupied the rest of the night.

Okay, so the guards are here to protect the school. But what measures must one take to protect his car from the guards? I can understand the reason for a parking ticket if the student does not have a parking decal or if he is illegally parked before 6:00 P.M. But what about after 6:00 P.M.? Quite a few reserved spots are open.

Spring festival idea should be maintained

A spring festival is being planned at Kennesaw Junior College. It is being sponsored by students and is being conducted by students. It is the first such endeavor ever attempted at this college for the benefit of the students.

Tradition is just beginning on this campus. Already we have a KJC Day and the hopes for a continuing Miss KJC. Clubs and organizations are forming traditions here which will exist only as long as the groups are active and supported by the students.

The students who are formulating the plans for the spring festival are focusing on a two-fold purpose. The first is to present a genuine picture of the true educational institution of Kennesaw Junior College by reflecting the students in the activities of the festival. And second, it is to establish some sort of cultural and educational tradition around which the students can associate each year.

Many students complain about the apathy which occasionally runs rampant on this campus. However, it is often the most unconcerned students who complain and seem to want the most from the college.

Now the planning stages are getting underway for the spring festival and when all is complete the entire student body will be called upon to participate in the activities. The success or failure of the entire festival program will depend upon the response of the students. It is up to the students to assume the responsibility to participate as much as possible in any activity in the spring festival and assist in establishing this event as a permanent tradition at Kennesaw Junior College.

To Whom It May Concern:

If, by chance, you have afforded yourself the opportunity of reading your prominent SENTINEL, you have no doubt noticed that there is an undercurrent of unrest on the campus. The normal, happy marriage that should exist between faculty and student is on the rocks. While we are slowly and painfully trying to correct our short-comings, we have come to realize that divorce requires friction. Friction in turn is caused by TWO bodies rubbing diversely rather than harmoniously.

It is our opinion that while sometimes in the past the faculty was sincerely concerned about Kennesaw Junior College, it has now run into stone walls. This type of physical opposition tends to wear down one's energy. Some of the faculty have never recovered. We have found that iron pills help greatly to correct this deficiency. We ask that some of the faculty try this simple remedy. We of course realize that teaching is a low paying profession but this prescription for iron pills costs less than a pack of cigarettes, a cool mint julep, or any item that requires more enthusiasm than money. For those of the faculty who are absolutely destitute, we will be happy to share our supply of pills with you in the clinic.

We have been told that we must develop a closeness for our college and not merely use it as a springboard to a higher level university. However, when we see faculty members who arrive here one minute before class and leave immediately after with a speed that would stagger Superman, we wonder exactly who is making Kennesaw Junior College the springboard. Others tell us that we must take an interest, that we do not care, that we do not support this or that activity. A question arises in our minds: Should the pot call the kettle black? As is the norm in this type of institution, the air becomes so clouded that we can no longer see clearly. Maybe this is the source of the Kennesaw Junior College smog. We want to meditate, contemplate, mediate, and activate. Let's find a round table and try to make this institution a real college before we suffocate.

Sincerely,
Survivors of J.Q.W.

An athlete speaks about intramural problems

Dear Editor:

The question has recently been discussed concerning the future of intercollegiate sports at Kennesaw Junior College. I agree that KJC is not prepared for an intercollegiate program but what is the future concerning the KJC intramural program? I think that future thoughts should not be vested in establishing an intercollegiate program but in improving the present intramural program. The intramural program at the present time is in fair condition but the future is very shaky. I would like to express thanks to Coaches Norman and Waters for the immediate success of the intramural program. These eager beavers have gone beyond their duties to uphold the future of intramural sports at KJC. The trouble should not be blamed on Norman and Waters but on the administration of KJC.

My first fault with this program is the closing of the gym doors at 5:00 P.M. Students are becoming tired and frustrated of having to leave the gym dirty and disrespectful because an impatient security guard chases them from the gym thus prohibiting them from taking a shower. Several students have stated that they are becoming disturbed due to the fact that they are being forced to leave the school smelling like a sardine. Why is it necessary and vital to have every student outside by 5:00 P.M.? I make a suggestion that the administration permit the gym doors to be left open until the night classes begin at 6:00 P.M. This would enable students to shower and dress without being threatened to be locked inside the dressing room by a security guard.

My second fault is very serious and important. The idea of a KJC clinic is a must for the establish a college clinic. A student could possibly be saved from death if there was a clinic on campus.

I think that if students are forced to pay extra-curricular activity fees that they should be entitled to have proper time to vacate the gym and a proper medical center. Could these deficiencies be caused by the lack of interest shown in intramural sports by many of the members of the student body?

Sincerely,
Gerald Martin

Dear Editor:

All this business about the Kennesaw Junior College clinic is for the birds! Yes, I said—for the BIRDS! It seems to me that legitimate arguments have been raised which would indicate a definite need for a clinic on our campus. However, so far there has been no move by the administration to establish any type of medical facility here. Two almost serious incidents have occurred on this campus which prove the necessity for a clinic. It is just fortunate that these incidents didn't develop into something truly serious or the administration would have been up against quite a problem.

Sincerely,
James C. Jackson

SEA President Linda Haynes and other club officers receive public relations award from Mrs. Inez Morgan in recognition of their outstanding achievements.

SEA wins two honors at convention in Athens

On February 14 and 15, nine members of the Kennesaw Junior College Student Education Association attended the state convention which was held at the Marriott Motor Hotel in Atlanta, Georgia. Those attending the convention were Linda Haynes—president, Kathy Abernathy—vice president, Gail Conlee—secretary, and Stephanie Edison, Mike Kelly, Gerald Martin, Jim Martin, and Mary Smith.

The theme of the convention was "Take a Stand," which was carried out throughout the entire convention. Former Gov. Carl Sanders spoke to the convention on the benefits of education.

The Kennesaw Junior College chapter of the SEA won recognition at this convention in two major areas.

The chapter entered the scrap book competition and won first place in the competition. This was the first time that a junior college had received state recognition in public relations. Through the efforts of Stephanie Edison, scrap book chairman, the college was commended for its fine work in the field of public relations.

The second honor which the KJC chapter won was the election of one of their members, Gail Conlee, to state office as historian for the 1969-70 college year.

The college chapter was cited for its promotional work—letters to high school students, newspaper articles, scrap book, and orientation booths both on campus and in the community.

Circle K elects spring quarter officers

The Circle K Club of Kennesaw Junior College has selected a new slate of officers for the spring quarter. The new officers are Gerald Martin—president, Mike Burns—vice president, Mike Anderson—secretary, and Mike Johnson—treasurer. The members wish to welcome the new officers to their positions as the leaders of the Circle K Club. Also, the members express their thanks to the retiring officers who are Richard Wheeler—president, Chad Keith—vice president, Jon Myatt—secretary, and Gerald Martin—treasurer.

Seven young ladies had their names submitted to the members for approval as club Sweethearts. The members unanimously decided that limitations of the number of Sweethearts would be too difficult. As a result, all seven were accepted to fill the position. The Circle K Sweethearts and Myra Collett, Casey Fitts, Kay Franklin, Vicki Holt, Susan Land, Linda Mitchell, and Patricia Young.

These seven Sweethearts will serve the club in the capacity of attending conventions with the Circle K members, participating in skits, and becoming involved in various club activities.

Coordinating their efforts with the KJC Civitan Club, the Circle K sponsored the election of Mr. KJC and helped direct the activities of the dance held on March 1. On March 3, the Circle K Club provided the entertainment for the Kiwanis Club meeting in Atlanta, Georgia. The entertainment was a combination of four skits depicting old and new beliefs of society. The humorous skits were written by Josh Langston. The participants in the skits were various club members and the Circle K Sweethearts.

Socc and Buskin makes a plea for help

The Socc and Buskin Players are already formulating plans for their production of "The Fantasticks" during spring quarter. Participation in the tryouts was very encouraging; however, the limited number of parts in the musical required that all of the people who participated were not selected to perform.

The director of "The Fantasticks," Miss Charlotte Stephenson, wishes to emphasize to those who were not cast that there is an urgent need for production assistants. These individuals will be called upon to assist in any matters ranging from stage design and construction to make-up and costume. Activities pertaining to painting, lighting, and sound will also be required.

A plea is also being made to any student on campus who has had technical experience in lighting and sound. A totally new system for lighting facilities will be maintained for "The Fantasticks" which will require more difficult operation than before.

Any student interest in applying for these positions should contact Larry Fay, president of The Socc and Buskin Players, at the SENTINEL office in the Student Services Building.

Work-study program begun for students

The University of Georgia College of Education has recently made available certain information concerning a scholarship program which it is conducting in cooperation with the Atlanta City Schools for prospective teachers at Kennesaw Junior College.

Under WSPET, a work-study program for the preparation of elementary school teachers, sixty students will be selected to participate during the school year 1969-70.

Twenty students will be selected to participate each of the three quarters. To qualify for the program, the student must have completed one full year in college prior to his assignment in the program, must plan to teach in elementary school, must plan to complete his academic program at the University of Georgia after graduation from Kennesaw Junior College, and should have completed an Introduction to Education course.

While participating in the program, the student will live at home with relatives in the Atlanta area. During the quarter he participates, the student will enroll either as a transient or regular student at the University of Georgia. He will enroll for credit in Educational Psychology 304 (5 hours) and Human Growth and Learning (3 hours). Services performed as a teacher aide will provide laboratory experiences for the courses.

Teacher aide responsibilities will range from clerical to semi-professional as the student progresses in the program.

If selected for participation, a student will receive a work scholarship of approximately $750.00 (one-half at the beginning and one-half at the completion of the quarter's activities). From this amount the student will need to pay enrollment costs of approximately $84.00 for the 8 hours credit earned at the University.

Students who are selected and who desire to participate during their sophomore year should plan to complete their degree requirements at Kennesaw Junior College prior to transferring to the university of Georgia. A similar program will be available during their junior year at the University.

For further information and application blanks, students should contact Mrs. Inez Morgan, counselor at Kennesaw Junior College. Applications should be made as soon as possible since enrollment will be limited.

"Bo" Callaway looks a little bewildered.

Gov. Sanders laughs with friends and fans.

The two-party system in Georgia:

Political farce . . . fare?

By Josh Langston

In the Building for Continuing Education at the University of Georgia, two men were brought together in order to have a debate. Unfortunately, the debate never occurred. It is a wonder to this writer that any two grown men could become so prominent in the nation and still not be able to say anything that makes sense.

The two men involved were Howard H. "Bo" Callaway and Carl E. Sanders. One of them is a former Governor. The other, a gubernatorial candidate, almost won the last election. Both men are supposed to be well educated. It seems, though, that each of these men was under the impression that he was making a typical, totally "American" political speech. To this extent, both gentlemen were holding their own with the principles by which one of these speeches is usually given. In other words, neither man said a thing which could have possibly made sense to any rational human on earth.

Therefore, my fellow Americans, it is with a heavy heart that I report that nothing was accomplished. However, in the true tradition of American thought, let me say in all fairness that nothing was lost—nothing except perhaps a little respect for the intelligence of the people of this fine state. How anyone could sit through a "debate" of this nature is beyond me.

Mr. Callaway began the "debate." His opening remarks had the tinge of a political rally. Vote G.O.P.!! Mr. Sanders said that he was going to talk about the two-party system in Georgia. But did he? The answer is obvious. The "debate" took a turn for the worse when the first question was posed to the speakers. . . .

The question dealt with Mr. Sanders' beliefs as to whether or not the legislature made a wise choice in selecting Lester Maddox as the Governor of Georgia. In essence, Mr. Sanders' reply was, "It was their business, not mine." I would like to congratulate Mr. Sanders on his stand. He was in true form when he said that the election of a governor was none of his business. Isn't it funny though that he was once Governor himself?

Mr. Callaway said that the legislature had made a mistake in choosing Mr. Maddox. I would also like to congratulate Mr. Callaway on his prolific thinking. He said that his party was in tune with the times. He said that any party oriented in this way would win. Why then, Mr. Callaway, did you lose?

The discussion continued. It rambled back and forth from Strom Thurmond's influence in federal government to Jimmy Bentley's effect on the last election. The clock had the only face in the room that wasn't sour!

During the course of the program, it became quite clear that both Mr. Callaway and Mr. Sanders were on the ball—the same ball. What these two men disagreed on was nothing compared to what they agreed on.

A high point was reached. Correct me if I'm wrong, but the only person who made real sense was Mrs. Nora Lawrence Smith. After suffering through this outrage for nearly an hour, Mrs. Smith stood up and voiced a question that was undoubtedly going through everyone's mind.

What she asked, in essence, was, "Why are you wasting our time and money?" Mrs. Smith, I salute you!

Mrs. Smith has been with the Georgia Press Association for over fifty years and is presently the editor of the Wireglass Stockman and Farmer. She and I have come from two worlds that are opposite in almost every way, yet I find it encouraging to think that anyone who is so distinctly different from me could think in a fashion similar to mine.

As I came away from the "debate," I could see why Mr. Maddox was elected. I do not agree with many of his policies. In fact, I don't think I really agree with any of them. I do, however, respect the man for one thing—when he speaks, he tries to say something. Usually, one can understand him even if one does not like what he has to say.

I have probably said too much. I am not worried though. I doubt that either of the parties that Mr. Callaway or Mr. Sanders represent will be gunning for me in the future.

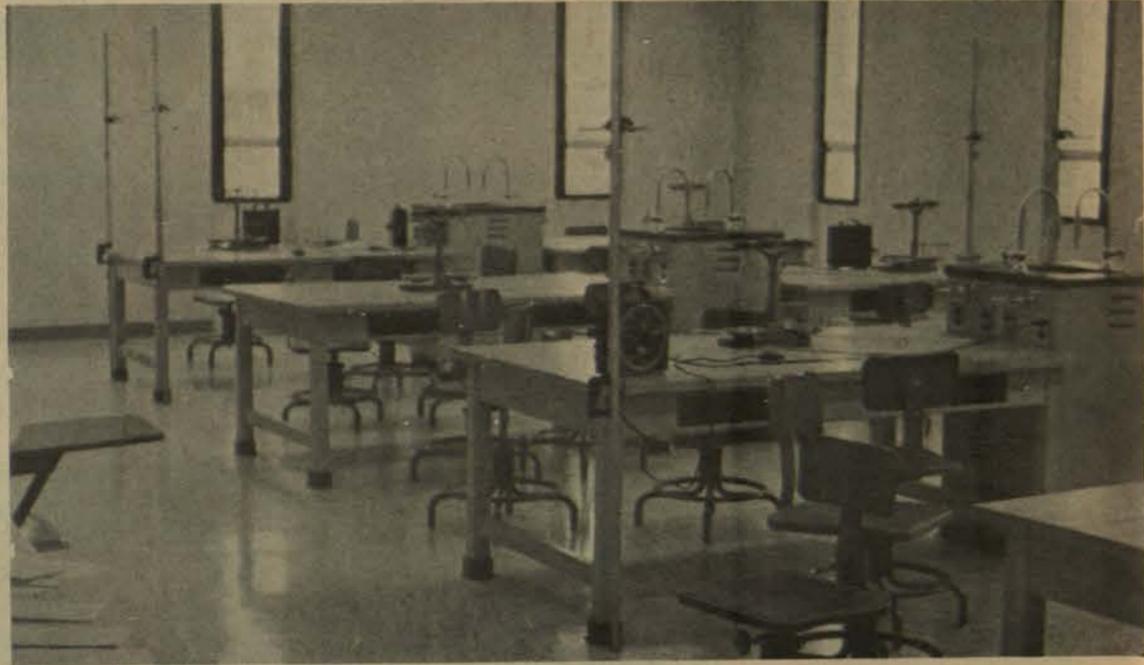

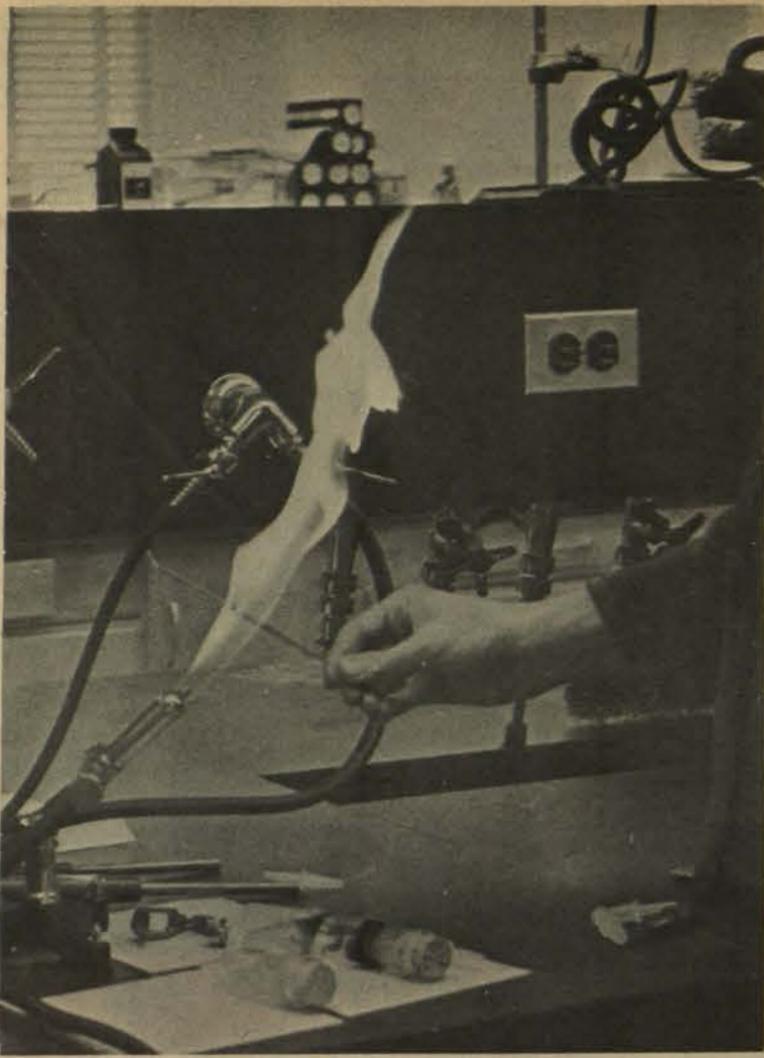

Callaway listens to an argument.

The true heroine—Mrs. Smith!

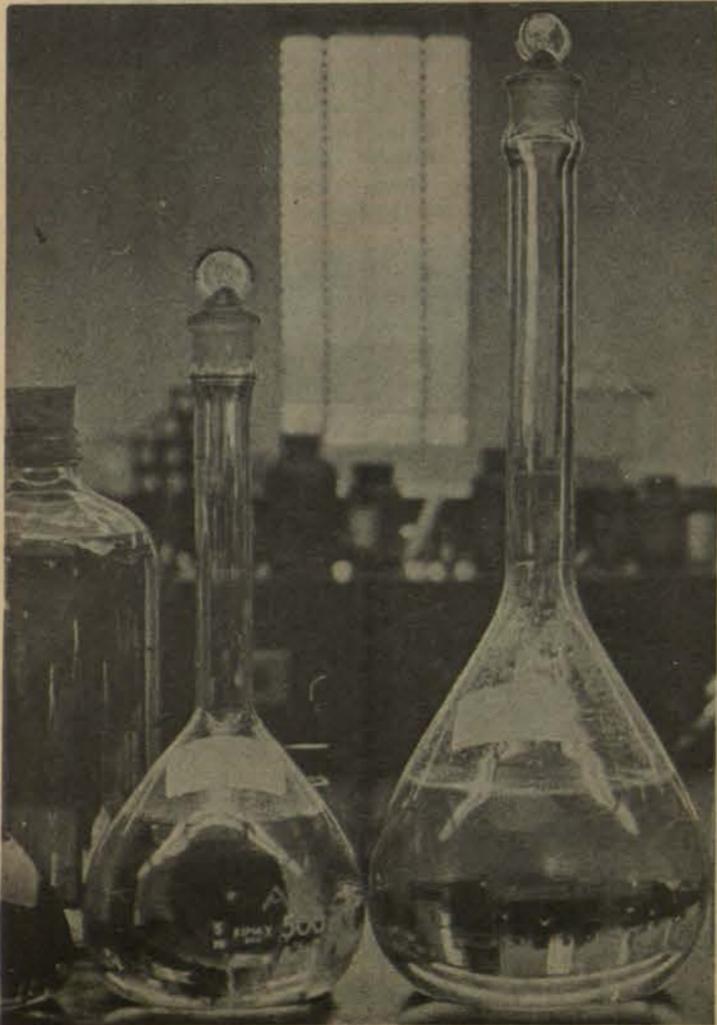

Sanders makes a point.

Dr. Joseph Fletcher speaks for spring religious emphasis

Dr. Joseph Fletcher was recently chosen as the 1969 Religious Emphasis speaker for Kennesaw Junior College. He spoke to the students in the college gym on Friday, March 7, at 9:45 A. M. All 10 A. M. classes met at 12 P.M. that day in order to give the entire student body an opportunity to hear Dr. Fletcher's lecture.

Dr. Fletcher is the author of Situation Ethics, the leading textbook of the "new morality" published by Westminster Press in 1966. A nutshell summary of Situation Ethics is found on the backflap of the cover of the book itself: "The sensational deductions which the author draws for this premise include the bold statement that any acts, even lying, premarital sex, abortion, adultery, murder could be all right - depending on the situation. Because whatever is the most loving things in the situation is the right and good thing. It is not excusably evil, it is positively good."

The Symposium Committee of Cobb County was responsible for bringing Dr. Fletcher to Marietta. In addition to being the Religious Emphasis speaker, he was featured as a principle lecturer in the 1969 Symposium, "The Progress of Man Toward the Year 2000." This event was co-sponsored by the Cobb County Medical Society, Cobb Judicial Circuit Bar Association, Kennesaw Junior College, and the Marietta-Smyrna Ministerial Association.

The program for the symposium also featured five other speakers who are distinguished professionals.

Gov. Lester Maddox gives "comments" to students

Governor Lester Maddox addressed the members of the Georgia College Press Association at their annual convention held in the Center for Continuing Education of the University of Georgia, in Athens, on February 22, 1969.

His opening remarks were directed toward the Georgia College Press Association.

"I appreciate this opportunity to talk with members of the Georgia College Press Association, but, after looking at your program, I believe you might have invited the wrong person. After seeing that you had invited Carl Sanders, "Bo" Callaway, and Jimmy Carter, it occurred to me that Virginia might have more to say of interest to you than I would."

Attending this luncheon at which the Governor was the honored speaker was Lou Erickson, nationally famous political cartoonist for the Atlanta JOURNAL. As a result, Gov. Maddox could not resist the opportunity to offer his criticism of the cartoonist's ability. He quipped, "I hope Erick will take this opportunity to study my ears and glasses and try to be a little more accurate in drawing his daily cartoon strip. Actually, Mr. Erickson's symbolism in his drawings is pretty accurate. He makes my ears look like 'Dumbo the Elephant's' because he knows that I am the first Governor who has really listened to the rank-and-file citizens of this State. The big glasses symbolize my ability to look into dark corners and smoke-filled rooms and see things which no other governor has apparently been able to see.

"I am usually drawn with my sleeves rolled up because everybody knows that I'm a working Governor and not just a figurehead. I think the little round tummy is a good deal exaggerated, but I assume that this is intended to symbolize the fact that I have the guts to say and do what I believe is right."

Governor Maddox continued, "Actually, I believe that editorial cartoonists are, in themselves, a symbol. More than anything else, perhaps, they symbolize the freedom of the press. And, no matter how bitter, no matter how cruel, and no matter how unfair the editorial cartoonist's pen is to me personally, I would sacrifice my career, my fortune - yes, even my life - to keep this symbol of freedom alive and unchained."

In conclusion, the Governor offered the members of the Georgia College Press Association a challenge. He said, "Whenever you have occasion to write about anything or about nobody, give the final product this test:

"Does it serve a worthwhile purpose?"

"Is it fair?"

"Is it true?"

"If your final answer is affirmative in all three instances, then you, as a journalist, will have fulfilled your duty to the public."

Mrs. Linda May and Myra Medford jump to begin second half action in women's intramurals.

Vultures fight hard to gain victory in women's basketball

Women's intramural action in basketball at KJC has developed into quite a battle for first place. Rivalries among the two top teams coupled with the outstanding improvement of the third place team has initiated an exciting run for the top spot for winter quarter.

On Thursday, February 20, the Eaglettes met the Cardinals in what proved to be an eventful match. Led by the almost single-handed efforts of Susan Land, who scored 23 points, the Eaglettes were able to soundly defeat the Cardinals with a score of 34 to 17.

The following Thursday, February 27, brought the most exciting game of the season. The Aardvarks, going into the game undefeated, met the Robins, who had previously lost only one game to the Aardvarks.

Followers of the basketball season at KJC had predicted that this game would be a show-down between the driving ability of Beverly Butler of the Robins and the set shooting ability of Myra Medford of the Aardvarks. However, this was not to be the case. Early in the first quarter of action, Miss Medford injured an already ailing knee and was forced to leave the game. Also, the excellent defense provided by the Aardvarks kept Miss Butler to an unusual low point score.

The surprise of the game proved to be the excellent shooting of the Robins' Jane Burgess, who came through with 28 points.

Despite a third quarter effort by the "Medford-less" Aardvarks, the Robins were simply destined to win the game with a final score of Robins-42 and Aardvarks-36.

On Tuesday, February 18, comedy action was seen on the KJC basketball courts as the Vultures (alias women's faculty team) met the Aardvarks. Needless to say, the Vultures were determined to regain the winning status they had achieved during fall quarter with their victorious volleyball team.

It could be said that it was just a bad day for the Aardvarks, but it is certain that the Vultures were eager to do their best to win. At any rate, the Aardvarks struggled to finally win the game with a score of 37 to 28.

High scorer for the Vultures was Coach Margaret Waters with 18 points and high scorer for the Aardvarks was Myra Medford with 16 points.

Myra Medford shoots for two points as members of the Vultures' team watch.

Update!

At press time, the final game in women's intramural basketball competition had been played. After a heated match between two excellent teams, the Robins defeated the Aardvarks 36 to 32 in a close game.

Men's intramural action sees Faculty team winning Height pays as Mr. TeBeest scores another two points for the Faculty.

In the men's intramural competition on Monday, February 24, the Gamecocks took on the Roadrunners in a heated game of basketball. The Gamecocks took control of the first quarter by scoring 14 points while the Roadrunners could only sink 11. During the second quarter, the Roadrunners attempted in vain to overtake their opponent's lead but could only manage 13 points to the Gamecocks' 17 to end the game at halftime with the score, Gamecocks 31 and Roadrunners 24.

The third quarter was almost an exact duplicate of the first as the Gamecocks scored 14 points to the Roadrunners' 12. The fourth quarter which was probably the most exciting feature of the game was held down by the Roadrunners who executed a dramatic comeback by scoring 16 points. The astonished Gamecocks could only score 4 points. This ended the game with the Roadrunners beating the Gamecocks 53 to 49.

Scorers for the Roadrunners were Eddie Keith-19, Mike Duger-15, Steve Brown-7, Henry Kaymierski-7, and Daniel Nunely-5. Scorers for the Gamecocks were Paul Bickers-12, Bill Beddingfield-14, Eddie Gomez-9, Don Lucas-12, and Tyron Copeland-2.

The next intramural action on Tuesday, February 25, saw the Cheetas challenge the Faculty to an evenly matched basketball game. The Cheetas' 9 points in the first quarter were not enough to lead the 13 points which the Faculty put upon the score board. And the second quarter was no different as the score at the end of the first half was Faculty 30 and Cheetas 23.

During the third quarter, the Faculty again outscored the Cheetas 23 points to 9 and literally ran away with the remainder of the game. The final score was Faculty 71 and Cheetas 53.

Scorers for the Faculty were Mr. TeBeest-33, Coach Norman-14, Mr. Rogers-6, Coach Palmer-4, Mr. Scott-13, and Mr. Dalton-1. Scorers for the Cheetas were Eddie Lee-26, Silas Brown-13, Bob DeWolfe-8, and Mike Hillhouse-6.

After the defeat by the Faculty, the Cheetas were determined to regain their confidence in a basketball game on Wednesday, February 26, against the Pumas. However, the Pumas outscored the Cheetas 13 to 10 in the first quarter. They began to gain on the effort of the Pumas in the second quarter and ended the half with the score of 27 to 25 in favor of the Pumas.

Determination to win and excellent shooting ability proved the secret of the second half for the Cheetas as they rallied to win the game over the Pumas with a score of 59 to 50.

Scorers for the Cheetas were Charlie Johnson-20, Eddie Lee-19, Silas Brown-10, Hugh Orr-4, Bob DeWolfe-4, and Mike Hillhouse-2. Scorers for the Pumas were Joe Hawkins-25, Richard Royals-10, David Trout-7, Nathan McCloud-4, Mike Rohner-3, and Joseph Overhouser-1.

Update!

At press time, the final game in men's intramural basketball competition at Kennesaw Junior College had been played. First place goes to the Apes.
