

Charles Harris To Speak At Graduation

Charles A. Harris of Ocilla, chairman of the Board of Regents of the University System of Georgia, will deliver the commencement address at Kennesaw Junior College Friday, June 7.

President Horace W. Sturgis will confer approximately 265 degrees, the largest number awarded in the college's history, at the eighth annual exercises in the gymnasium at 8 p.m.

Dr. John C. Greider, chairman of the KJC division of humanities, will deliver the invocation and benediction. Music will be furnished by the Georgia State Brass Quintet and the Kennesaw Junior College Chorale, under the direction of Dr. R. Wayne Gibson.

Harris became Regent of the Eighth District in 1971 and was elected Chairman of the Board of Regents in January, 1974.

Previously, he served as vice chairman of the Board of Regents from July, 1973, until his election as chairman.

Chairman of the Irwin County Industrial Development Corporation and a member of the Executive Committee of the Democratic Party of Georgia, Harris is owner of A.S. Harris Department Store in Ocilla. He is Vice President of the Irwin County Federal Savings and Loan Association and of the First State Bank of Ocilla.

Harris formerly served as Mayor pro tem and a Council member of the city of Ocilla, as chairman of the Irwin County Hospital Authority, as a member of the Emory University Alumni Council and as a member of the Ocilla Board of Education. He is a past commander of both the American Legion Post 100 and the Irwin County Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Harris is a member and past president of the Fitzgerald Hebrew Congregation.

He received the B.B.A. degree from Emory University and served as an officer in the Marine Corps during World War II. He is married to the former Esther Stein of Cartersville and the Harises have four children.

GRADUATION ISSUE

David Jones Acting Ass't Dean To Resume Teaching

David Jones, who has served for the past academic year in an interim capacity as acting Assistant Dean at Kennesaw Junior College, will return to the English faculty in June, according to Dean Eugene R. Huck.

"We are reluctant to see him leave this post, but we are anxious to honor his interest in being in the classroom," said Dean Eugene R. Huck.

Dean Huck commended the KJC assistant professor for "developing procedures in advising, recording grades, pre-registration and other important functions of academic business. He has set a standard for future assistant deans."

Jones holds a B.A. degree from Emory University and M.A. from the University of Georgia. He is listed in the 1973 edition of "Outstanding Educators of America."

Police Academy At KJC

State - required basic training for police officers will be offered by the Cobb County Regional Police Academy starting June 17 at Kennesaw Junior College.

The four-week non-credit course will be repeated five times during the next six months and is open to law enforcement personnel from all over the state, according to Academy Director, Sgt. Jim Ferrell, of the Cobb County Police Department. Classes, limited to 30 enrollees, will meet daily Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Room 222 of the KJC Social Science Building.

The basic 114-hour course will explore 43 areas, including accident investigation, laws of search and seizure, mechanics of arrest, first aid to injured, fire arms training, criminal law, criminal investigation and patrol techniques.

"We believe in training because we feel the police officers cannot serve the public or themselves effectively without proper training," Sgt. Ferrell said.

Sgt. Ferrell will serve as an instructor and other teachers will be representatives from local, state and private law enforcement agencies, and the F.B.I.

In addition to the basic, 114-hour course, another week of practical application will include dramatized examples of classroom theory.

"For example, in the case of accident investigation, we will set up a mock situation and see how students would handle it," explained Sgt. Ferrell. "Then we will critique their performance."

This fourth week of study is required for all Cobb County participants but will be optional for other personnel, he said.

This is the first time a regional police academy has been held in Cobb County, Ferrell said, and some 150 law enforcement personnel are expected to receive training in the series of courses. Twelve similar academies are being held in the state.

Although only one female has applied so far, Sgt. Ferrell emphasized that the course is open to both sexes.

"Women officers are expected to maintain the same degree of physical exertion as men," he added. "There will be absolutely no difference in the treatment of female participants."

Cost of the course is $100 per person, and is borne by individual police departments. The State Crime Department, on request, will reimburse local departments for this expense through federal funds from the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, Sgt. Ferrell said.

Georgia law required that all police officers must have 114 hours of basic training within the first 12 months of employment, the Director pointed out. Without such training, officers lose their power to arrest.

After basic training, Cobb County officers enter a period of advanced in-service training.

On graduating from the academy, students will receive diplomas and will be certified by the Georgia Peace Officers' Standards and Training Council.

Classes will be limited to 30 students and applications should be filed before the course begins, Ferrell said. Participants must be employed by law enforcement agencies, must be high school graduates (or hold the G.E.D. equivalency certificate) and cannot have criminal records.

Positions in the class are filling rapidly, Sgt. Ferrell said, and applications should be filed as soon as possible. For information, contact Sgt. Ferrell at 422-5424.

The Joys & Tribulations Of Being Editor

By RENEE MATHERNE

As Spring Quarter comes to an end, it is now time to turn over the editorship of The Sentinel to a new editor. Although the newspaper has been a source of many headaches and "all nighters," it has been a worthwhile experience that will remain with me through-out my life.

As a member of the fourth estate, I have shared in political fights and glories of being editor of the campus newspaper. It has taught me, basically, to be more aware of the movements, feelings, and general happenings that take place on and off campus. In itself, working with a volunteer staff has taught me a valuable lesson in handling personnel.

I would like to extend my deep appreciation to those who have offered their help and assistance through the year. A special thanks to Gary Simmers-who got me into this in the first place, Mrs. Sybil Williams-who turned in a good bit of news copy for the Community Services Office, Cheryl Manning, Paul Flannagan, Greg Kieth, and Greg Culverhouse, members of the Executive Board-who seemed to manage even when I could not, and last but certainly not least, Dr. Elliott Hill, faculty advisor-who kept me going when I felt like giving up. The list goes on and on with others whom I could not have done without, and I hope that they give as much cooperation to the next editor as they did to me.

When I graduate this quarter, I leave behind a job that has given me much enjoyment this past year. I hope that The Sentinel has given as much enjoyment to the students and faculty who read The Sentinel as well.

VIBRATIONS

The SGA elections on this campus proved to be a favorite event for those students who wanted to make predictions on its outcome. It was dramatic because it had the aura of adventure and unreality of a horror film.

But if you are a typical KJC student the SGA elections should have had a very real and important meaning for you. When the elections took place you would have had the opportunity to vote for a President. Having been elected to the upper strata of the SGA may sound like "having it made." But it does not mean that at all. What it does mean is that he will be obliged to make many of the decisions that will shape this campus and the SGA. Not just for this quarter but for many years to come.

Every student has his own problems to solve and his own set of values to apply to them. But if you had any interest on what will occur on this campus for the following quarters then you would have taken a bit more interest in the SGA elections.

Of an aggregate of 1840 students on the KJC campus only 394 took a real mental acquisitive-ness to vote in the run-off election. That means only 21.5% of the student body cared who would make the decisions for the SGA and what would be beneficial for you.

Perhaps you don't give a damn. Perhaps it proves beyond a doubt that the students of this campus are apathetic to the SGA and events on this campus.

If only a small minority of you taken an interest in the future of the SGA and what it will do with the 10 big ones you have to pay every quarter, this campus is in a lot of trouble. And it will be your fault.

Of course, the elections are now over and you may think there's nothing to change things. But there is. By participating in the SGA meetings you can voice your opinions and have confidence that the SGA and its leaders are working for your benefit and the future of KJC. Help fight apathy by supporting your SGA!

FAR OUT

When a town of 180,000 invites the world to its 100th birthday party it may sound a bit brash. But when visitors see the party the town has planned, it will make them blink in wonderment-and surprise that so few could entertain so well. The event is Expo '74 and the place is Spokane, Washington, up there in the Pacific Northwest. A blighted downtown area has been transformed with a show of dazzling brilliance. Besides the many concerts being offered there will also be the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, the Royal Shakespeare Company, Margot Fonteyn and the London Ballet, Japanese Folkloric Dance Company and the Russian Moiseyev Dance Company to entertain visitors. Individual stars will include Bob Hope, Marcel Marceau, Zubin Mehta, Harry Belafonte, Danny Kaye and even Russia's gymnast Olga Korbut. It will be a great show and the hospitality of a small town should be a welcome relief from a big city hustle.

Music Lessons Offered

Private lessons in piano and voice will be offered this summer in the music program at Kennesaw Junior College.

Private lessons on all levels through the sophomore are scheduled in both piano and voice. In addition, a course in music appreciation also will be taught.

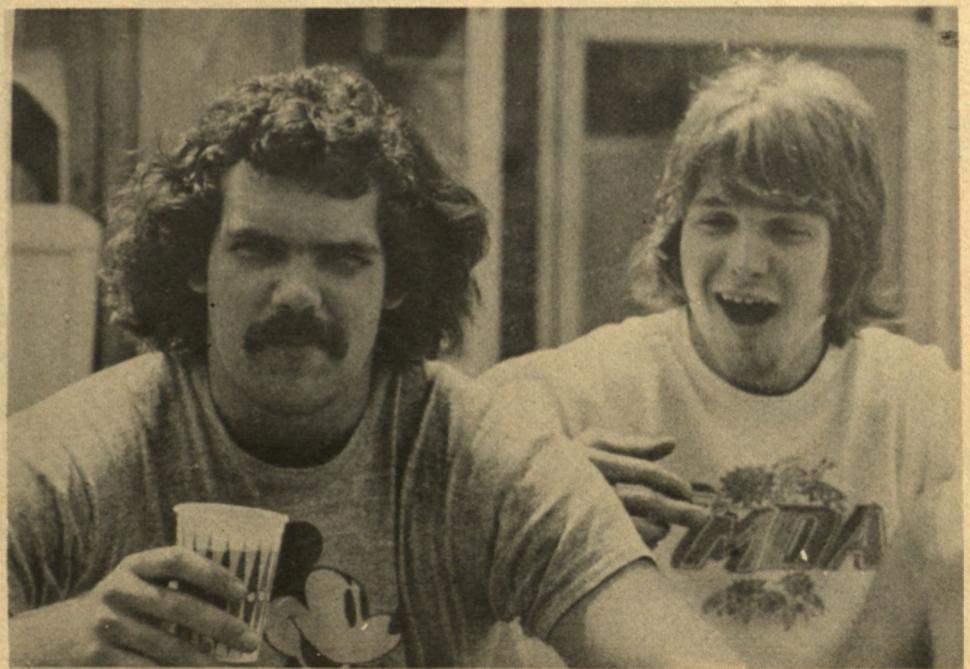

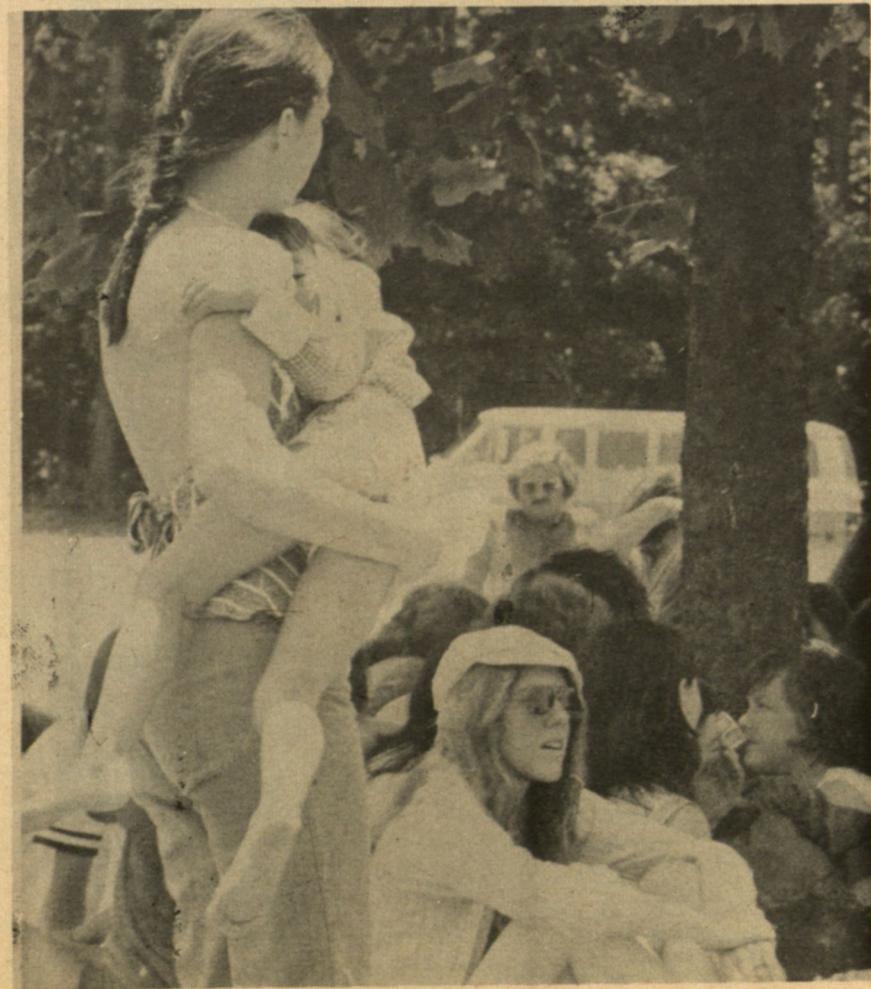

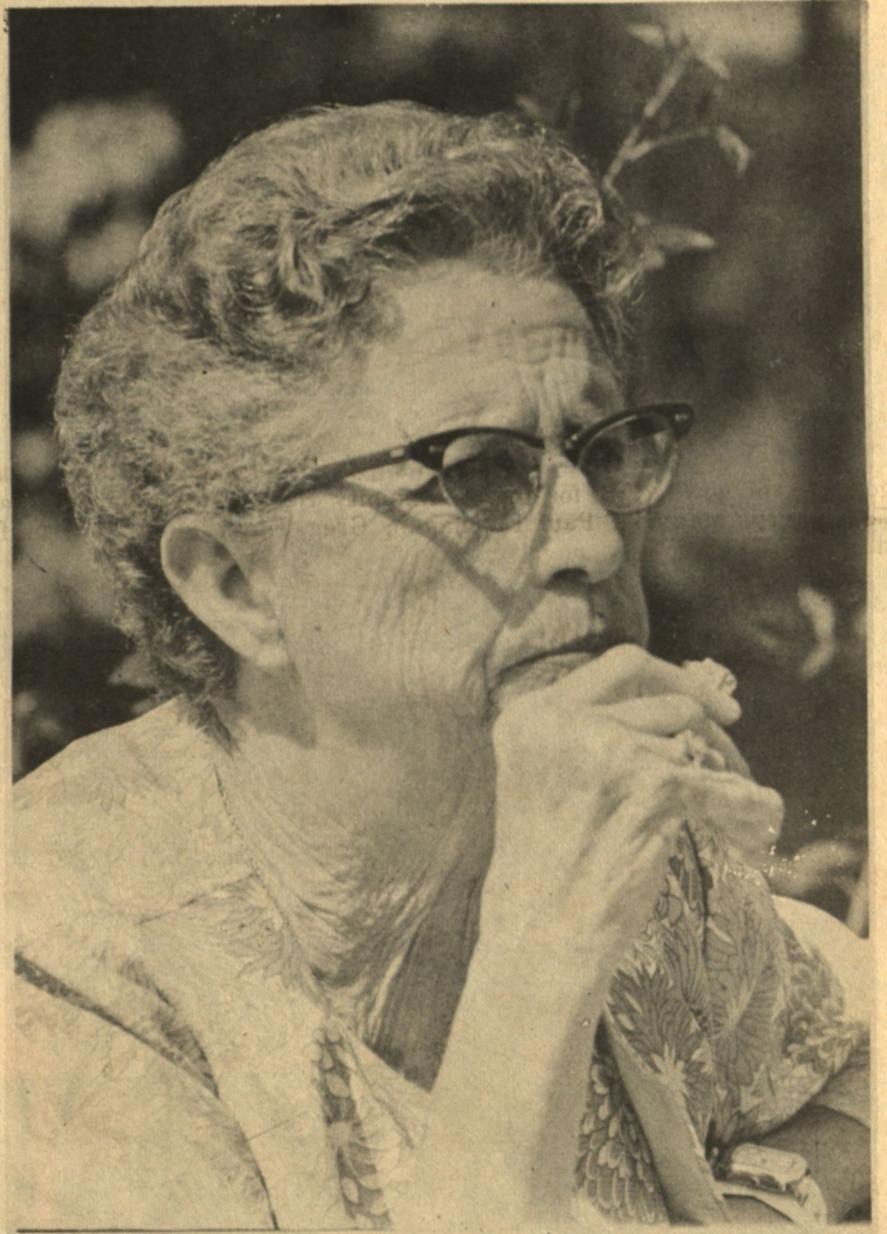

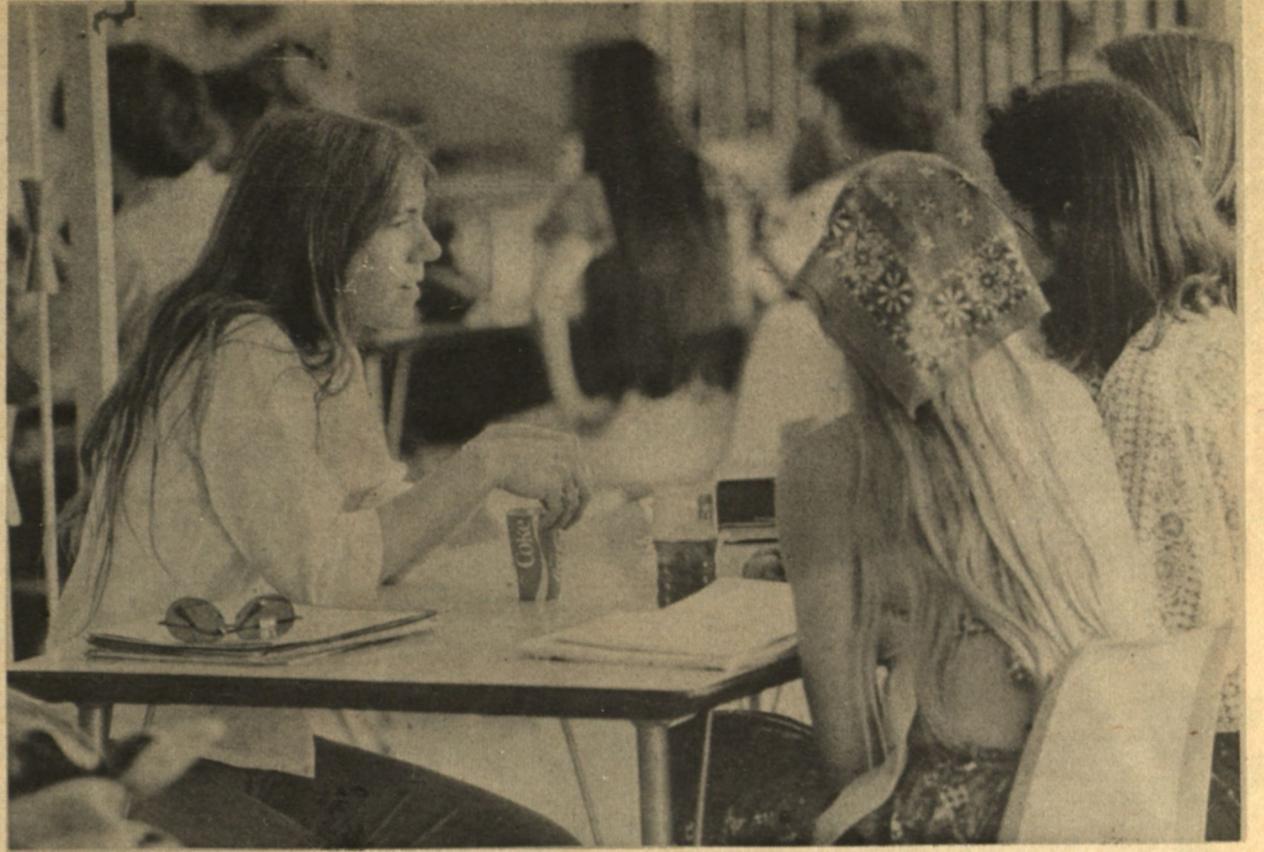

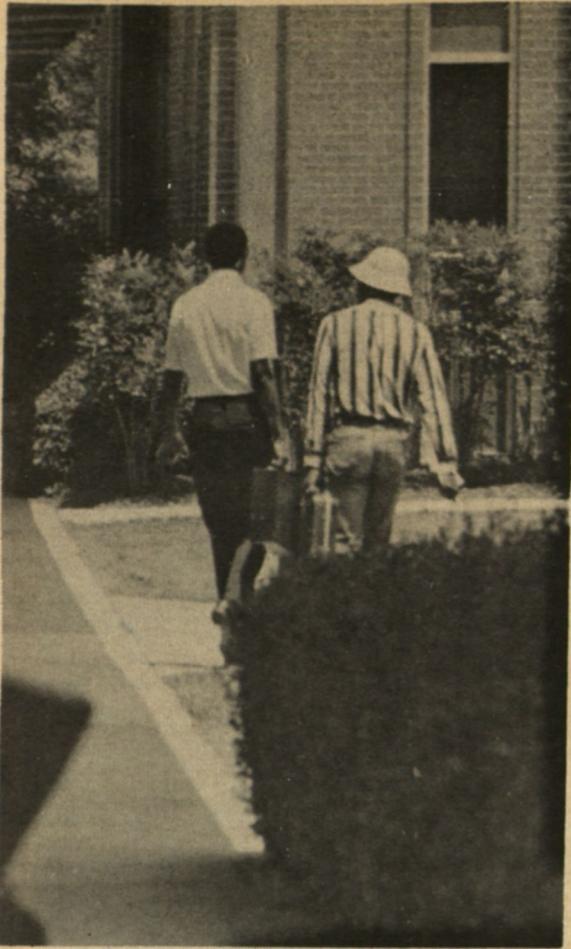

"We are especially pleased that we have added to our faculty such outstanding teachers in the field of music," said Dr. John C. Greider, chairman of the Humanities Division.

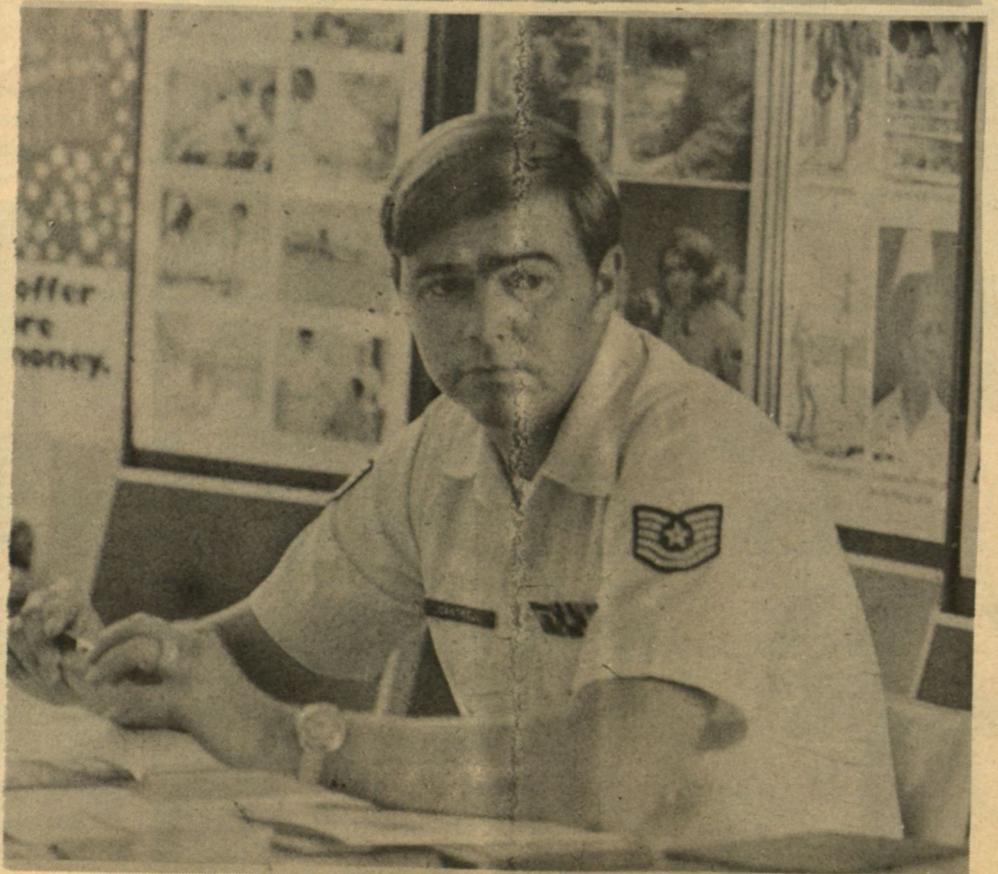

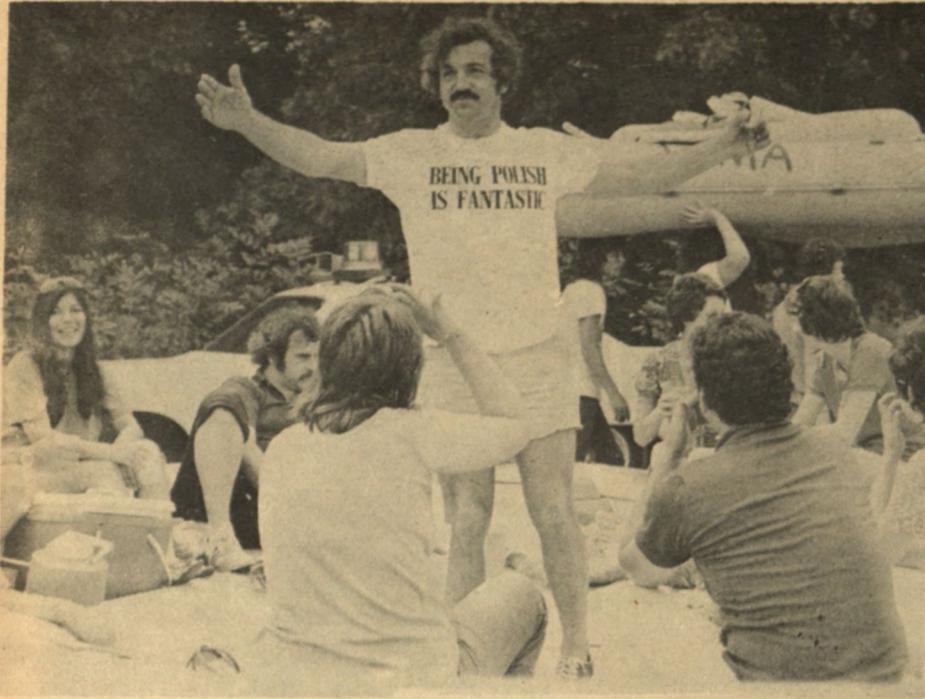

Dr. Wayne Gibson, assistant professor of music, explained that the applied music courses are open to beginners as well as to music majors.

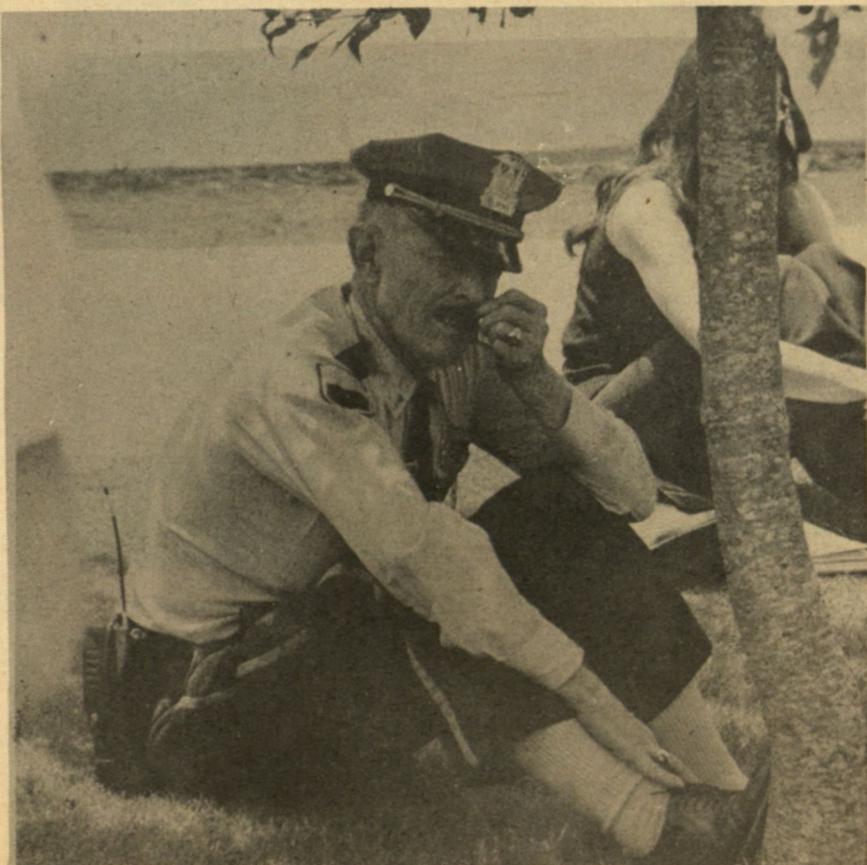

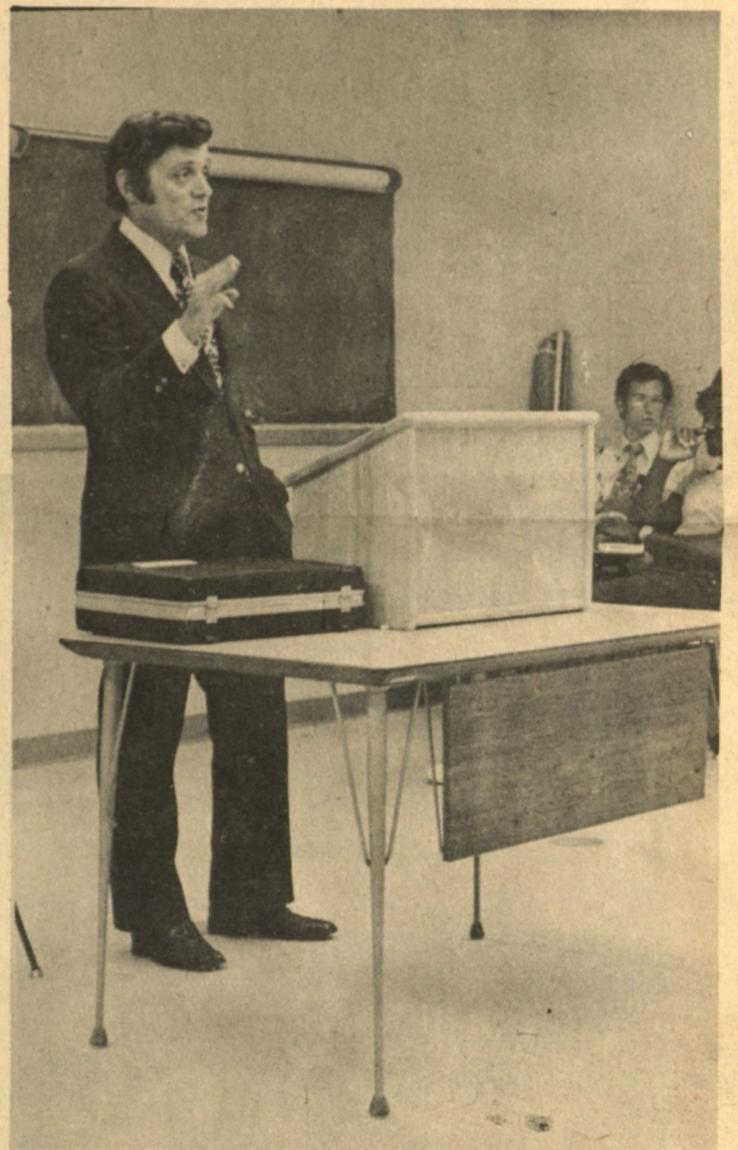

"Music majors will be evaluated by a jury," he continued, "while the others will start at the discretion of the teacher."

The private lessons will be taught at a time set by mutual agreement between the student and instructor, Dr. Gibson said. He will teach the music appreciation course at noon daily.

Heap To Be Phased Out

The Higher Education Achievement Program has finally reached what its administrative staff calls "a successful conclusion." The program operated under a three year grant which expires at the end of Spring Quarter.

Under HEAP, students took courses in five areas of intellectual endeavor—mathematics, writing, speech, and reaction ideas. The emphasis was placed on giving the HEAP students, denied in adequate college preparation, what they need for a successful college career. Although the emphasis was placed on preparation, the students were allowed to take some courses for credit. Officials with the program have estimated that well over half of the HEAP students have furthered their college education.

There were no requirements for entering the Higher Education Achievement Program other than the willingness to pursue one's studies seriously.

During its existence, HEAP drew sharpe criticism from students and faculty who found it undisciplined and ineffective. However, this criticism was never publically aired.

New Appointments At Kennesaw

The appointment of two Kennesaw Junior College personnel to new positions was announced this week by Dean Eugene R. Huck.

Dr. Eleanor T. Hopper has been named Assistant Dean and Dr. Morgan Stapleton will be Coordinator of Special Studies.

Both positions will be effective July 1. Although both functions are new Administrative positions, David Jones has been serving as Acting Assistant Dean and will return next fall to his position as assistant professor of English.

Dr. Hopper, presently assistant professor of physical education, holds B.S., M.A., and Ed.D. degrees from the University of Alabama. She has taught at Perry County High School and Judson College, Marion, Ala. Dr. Hopper also taught at the University of Alabama while on a graduate fellowship before joining the Kennesaw Junior College faculty in 1970.

"In assuming this position, Dr. Hopper will have an opportunity to use her administrative abilities acquired through years of work with public school camps, recreation programs and adult groups," Dean Huck said. "I'm particularly pleased to have in an administrative position someone who understands more intimately the aspirations and interests of female faculty members."

Dean Huck pointed out that Dr. Hopper has had three years' experience at KJC serving on major committees. He said her "facilitative skills in committee work" will be especially helpful in her new position.

Dr. Hopper, the mother of five children, resides in Marietta.

Dr. Stapleton, who has served for the past year as acting coordinator of Special Studies, holds the B.A. degree from David Lipscomb College in Nashville, Tenn., and the M.A. from George Peabody College in Nashville. He received the Ph.D. degree in math from Georgia Institute of Technology.

The Stapletons and their two children reside in Marietta.

"We are very pleased to have Dr. Stapleton in this capacity," Dean Huck said. "He's had about seven years' experience in developmental work and he has compassion, a rich background and a brand-new doctorate." Dean Huck said the new coordinator also will assist in other academic matters.

Dr. Huck said the college "is very pleased to promote from within the ranks. I feel that good services on campus should be rewarded, and this is one modest way of doing that."

The Special Studies program is a University System-wide plan to help meet the needs of students who need to upgrade their academic skills before attempting college-level work.

KJC Students & Faculty Enjoy KJC Day

On May 24, 1974, the students of Kennesaw Junior College enjoyed a rare break from the everyday routine of classes. The Student Government Association Entertainment Committee sponsored the annual KJC Day.

Entertainment for the day featured Grandson, a rock group managed by Ron Williams who is a student at Kennesaw. A talent show was held in the Student Center. First prize was won by Donnie Lindsey with a piano solo. Second place was won by Geoffery Baker. The Black Student Alliance Dance Group took third.

Refreshments were furnished for the students that stayed for KJC Day. These included barbeque sandwiches, cokes, and watermelons. Most of the students sat on blankets under the trees, soaked up the sun, and listened to the band. When the band left most of the students also left.

T-Grouping, Encounter, Sensitivity, Alpha and Theta brainwave modulation, Mind Games [quasi-psychotropic], Growth Games, Transactional Analysis, Reality Games, L-Grouping, Transcendental Meditation, Visceral Learning, etc. Free Sunday Sessions. If interested, contact Terry Kevin O'Connell at 926-5377.
