The Southern Tech Lions Club has recently received letters of appreciation and commendation from Mr. Robert Azar, Office of Public Relations, and Mr. Robert Hays, Hays Foundation, for its contribution of time and money toward the betterment of Southern Tech.

The Club supported the efforts of the Student Government Association and Mr. Azar's office in publicizing Southern Tech by contributing more than 100 man hours toward building and manning this year's exhibit at the "Stay and See Georgia" week at Lenox Square. The Southern Tech exhibit placed fourth in its category.

Mr. Hays commended the Lions for their contribution of $350.00 to the Hays Foundation which provides students with emergency short-term, no interest loans. Mr. Hays stated that the Lions contribution enabled at least four students to remain in school during the summer quarter by providing them with emergency loans.

The Lions Club, the first in the world on a college campus, meets the 2nd and 4th Thursdays at 7:30 in the Library Seminar Room. Its goals are to work for the improvement of Southern Tech and its general community and to have a good time while doing so. Visitors are always welcome at its meetings.

The Student Government Association met Wednesday, Oct. 2 with nearly 100% attendance. The S.G.A. has been active in many areas, with all members participating, rather than a one or two-man show. It is also an advantage to have meetings which are planned and orderly, with resulting productivity.

Key S.G.A. representatives have been working for improvements in the appearance of the campus. In the bookstore, plans have included curtains for the windows, glass doors for the entrance, and graphics on the west wall. The tennis courts and baseball field are to have water fountains installed.

The gym will also take on added features. The Marietta Garden Club has promised shrubbery for the front of the gym and a graphic will be placed on the wall.

Goat Day will never be the same. This year plans are set to have the campus invaded with somewhat of an oddity--girls. Sororities from across the state are being invited in order to supply the STI students with what they've been wanting.

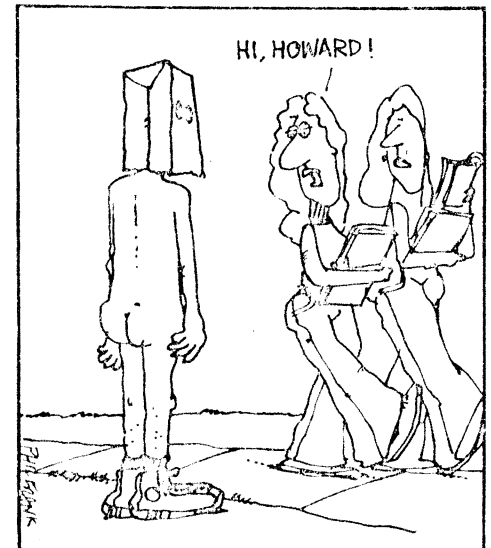

Goat Day itself will be different this year. It will not be a money making operation, but rather a day for great fun and cool refreshments.

The Intra-Fraternity Council, recently organized to promote co-operation between fraternities, is to furnish the beverages at Goat Day and co-sponsor a dance with the S.G.A. on Goat Day evening.

The Student Government Association endorsed a new club at the Wednesday meeting. The American Society of Civil Engineers Student Club is composed of C.E.T. department Students.

Student Government is the voice of the Students. It has progressed somewhat amazingly in the past two years with momentum still building. If you want to be heard contact any S.G.A. representative or come to the next meeting. Meetings are held in the Library Seminar Room every Wednesday at 5:00 p.m.

tennis

The Second Annual Southern Tech Fall Tennis Tournament starts Sat. October 11. If you wish to enter, pick up an entry blank at the switchboard or from Tennis Coach Lee Tucker, RM. 351 Lab building.

By the time you read this, two football games will have been played in the STIFL, the Southern Tech Intramural Football League.

Last week, I held a meeting with coaches Florian and Lumsden, where football rules and regulations were set-up. Also, the league was divided into two divisions.

A second meeting was held with the newly formed Administrative Intramural Committee. It was decided that coaches of one division would referee the other division and that this committee would meet the last two weeks of each quarter to set the sports scene for the next quarter.

A strong intramural program requires that we have as many sports played on the campus as possible. We need this for a wider base of support for the intramural program from the entire student body and also to offer the Southern Tech intramural athlete as many choices as possible for higher pleasure.

Aside from football, there has been some interest expressed in volleyball by some of our students. Therefore, in order to gauge the extent of this interest in volleyball, all interested students are asked to drop a note in box 8029, so that I may know which direction to move in setting up a volleyball program.

One distressing piece of news I've heard recently is that our soccer club does not have a coach this season. Therefore, this could mean the end of our soccer club if someone does not come forward to coach these guys. A lot of hard work put into this effort may go to waste.

Finally, any suggestions by anyone which might mean a better intramural program at this college will be taken into consideration.

Intramural Commissioner

"I think we should've beaten them," said a very disappointed Clancy Head, Southern Tech's cross country coach, after his team had just suffered a bad defeat Wednesday at the hands of Emory.

Emory scored 15 points and Southern Tech went down with 40.

The meet, run over Emory's half-asphalt and half-gravel 4 mile course, saw Emory runners cross the finish line in the first five spots. Tech scorers took second five positions.

Leading the Emory pack were Charles Widmer, first place, 22 minutes and 53 seconds; Alan Brecher, 2nd spot, 23:02 and Larry Ault, third with 23 minutes and 15 seconds. Fourth and fifth spots were taken by Emory's Katz brothers, Ira and Steve, who crossed the mark in 23:25.

ST's Tommy Nelson was the first Hornet across the finish line taking sixth spot in 23 minutes and 30 seconds. Tech's outstanding runner Louis Pannell finished seventh in 23:55.

Other Hornets racking up points were Rick Terry, eighth place, 24:06, Lee Thomar, ninth, 24:20 and Shad Atkinson, last in 24:28.

Emory's track and cross country coach John Chatelain said this meet was as good as an Emory team has done in a long time.

"I guess we had better runners and more experience," said Coach Chatelain.

When asked what beat them, ST coach Clancy Head replied, "Over-confidence after last week's win."

Tech's cross country team is now 2-1.
