PRESS CONFERENCE FORMALLY BEGINS THE BRIAN BOHANNON ERA FOR KSU FOOTBALL

Athletic Director Vaughn Williams and President Daniel S. Papp commence Tuesday's press conference by presenting Brian Bohannon, the first head coach of KSU football, with an honorary jersey.

The search is over.

On Tuesday, KSU held a press conference to formally introduce Brian Bohannon, who will take the helm as the first head coach of the football program, slated to begin in 2015. The press conference was held in the locker room at Fifth Third Bank Stadium, the site where the future KSU football players will take the field.

"Let me just first say how humbled and honored I am to be here today," Bohannon said. "This is something you look forward to in our profession and I'm honored to be a part of an institution that is as special as this one is. I'm truly excited and it's surreal for me to hear 'first head football coach at Kennesaw State.'"

In attendance were members of the media, fellow members of KSU Athletics, President Daniel S. Papp, Athletic Director Vaughn Williams and the legendary Vince Dooley, who helped serve on the football exploratory committee that assisted in bringing football to KSU. Dooley served as the Athletic Director at the University of Georgia while Bohannon attended UGA, where he played wide receiver.

"Kennesaw State and Mr. Vaughn Williams hired the right man to lead and to build their football program," Dooley told KSU Athletics. "He [Bohannon] is a masterful teacher, a relentless recruiter and is a person of unquestionable character and integrity. There is no doubt in my mind that Brian will be a very successful head coach."

Bohannon, who spent 17 years as an assistant coach at Gardner-Webb University, Georgia Southern University, The United States Naval Academy and Georgia Tech, expressed his gratitude and thanks to KSU, Dr. Papp and Williams for giving him an opportunity to become a head coach.

Bohannon also thanked his family, many of whom were in attendance at the press conference, for all their love and

but it's also about developing these young men to be SUCCESSFUL

support throughout his career. He also thanked Georgia Tech head coach Paul Johnson, who he served under as an assistant coach for 16 years.

"He's been unbelievably good to me," Bohannon said. "I owe a lot to coach Johnson. My career and my path to today really reflect him. He's impacted my life in a lot of ways."

Bohannon has been a resident of Woodstock, GA for five years and expressed his joy in being part of the great community surrounding KSU. He also had the opportunity to attend a KSU vs. Mercer basketball game where he witnessed the unveiling of the refurbished school logo and the brand new fight song, and realized that KSU was something he wanted to be a part of.

"It was the most unbelievable atmosphere I had seen in a long time," Bohannon said. "This is a special place. This is the place you want to be because something special is going on here. Football is going to open that up for everyone to see."

As a head coach, Bohannon hopes he can help his players succeed in their everyday lives, as well as on the football field.

"We want to win the day," he said. "We win the day in the classroom. We win the day on the field. We win the day in our personal lives. We want to win, but it's also about developing these young men to be successful in life."

Bohannon expressed three core values that he believes he can instill in his team and those values will allow them to find that success.

"Faith, family, and football," he said. "The culture of faith and family should be created here, and obviously we want to win, but there is also a bigger picture."

The next big step for the program will be recruiting, and Bohannon is eager to find athletes who will be willing to immerse themselves in KSU football. He believes character and what an athlete does on the field on Saturday will help KSU build a winning culture and develop a strong program.

The team will look to be in competition at the start of the 2015 season. Bohannon will look to build a staff, promote KSU football and recruit players, all in preparation for the start of the inaugural season.

HERMAN CAIN PRESENTS LIVE RADIO BROADCAST FROM KSU

Haley Castillo Staff Writer

Herman Cain broadcasted his WSB talk radio show live from KSU on Friday, March 29 in the Social Science Building, where an auditorium full of faculty, staff, students and guests welcomed him with warm rounds of applause and many cheers.

These nuggets touched base on issues of taxation, gun control, texting while driving, small businesses, Obamacare and many more. Cain frequently opened the floor for audience members to ask questions on the air throughout the duration of the broadcast.

many of his listeners that call in to the show.

Cain seemed extremely comfortable in the live broadcast setting, often laughing with audience members and occasionally dancing in his chair to the music on the show. He posed for many pictures on his commercial breaks and autographed copies of his books.

"It's very energizing," Cain said. "Most of my speaking throughout my career was in front of a live audience. So, where some radio hosts may not like it, I love it because I love the audience interaction."

Cain's sense of humor made its way into the broadcast when he became heated over a comment one of his callers made about former President George W. Bush. After a short rant on the air, Cain simply laughed and said, "Y'all have to excuse me, I'll take my medication now."

Cain ended the broadcast by answering a few last minute questions and taking pictures with the last line of fans.

"I thoroughly enjoyed being with you today," Cain said to the audience at the closing of the show. "Many of you all came through with this whole three hours with us today, and I'm very appreciative. I learned something, and hopefully you did too."

To learn more information about "The Herman Cain Show," visit www.caintv.com or tune into 95.5FM and AM750 News/Talk WSB from 9:00 a.m. to noon, Monday - Friday.

During the show, the former Republican presidential candidate delivered important information about several different matters of contention in small segments he famously calls "News Nuggets."

HIDDEN CAMERA CAPTURES THIEF

Thursday evening, March 21, Officer Cortolano was called to the Burruss Building to meet with two KSU employees who were reporting an alleged theft. The female employee stated that, over the past few months, a few sets of headphones had been stolen from the male employees' office desk.

One week prior to calling Public Safety, they set up a webcam in the office to catch the headphone thief. The webcam captured the culprit, who appeared to be on the cleaning staff, removing the male employee's red iLuv headphones from his desk. The headphones were $5 in value. This case is still being investigated.

TRAFFIC VIOLATION REVEALS TROUBLE

Officer Benoit stopped a vehicle on the afternoon of March 16 for making an illegal U-turn on Busbee Pkwy. After the vehicle pulled over, the officer noticed an expired registration sticker on the license plate, dated February 2013. The driver claimed he received an updated sticker but had not yet placed it on his car. Officer Benoit received a background check that revealed the driver had a suspended license and a warrant out of Fayette County for failing to appear in court. The driver was arrested.

VEHICAL VANDALISM AT CENTRAL PARKING DECK

A KSU visitor called Public Safety on the morning of March 21 regarding damage on his vehicle. An officer arrived on the scene, and the victim claimed he left his car in the Central Parking Deck on the morning of March 20 and returned 10 hours later to discover his car's damage. He showed the officer the scratches on his driver side rear panel, presumably executed with a key. The officer attempted to take pictures, but because of the glare from the sunlight, he and the victim agreed to meet in the evening to try again. The cameras in the Central Parking Deck may be reviewed or evidence.

SEMPER FI SOCIETY

There's a new RSO at Kennesaw State, the Semper Fi Society. It's an open organization meant to bridge the gap between traditional students and Veterans. As well as improving campus relations we plan to coordinate events in the upcoming months to benefit the local community. Those who wish to participate may come to our initial meeting which will be held on April 17, 2013 at 2:00 PM in Willingham Hall, Room 226.

SGA HOSTS PRE-ELECTION DEBATE

majority of seats go uncontested

Unopposed presidential candidate Katherine Street announces her desire to improve community involvement.

Shaddi Abusaid Staff Writer

SGA held a pre-election debate Thursday afternoon in the Student Center University Rooms. SGA candidates were given the opportunity to introduce themselves and discuss their platforms.

The SGA presidential candidate, three other executive board positions and 13 senate positions are running uncontested.

The lack of opposition means that Nursing major Katherine Street will replace Rosalyn Hedgepeth as the new SGA President and, International Business major Franklin McCullough will become treasurer.

There are three students competing for the position of vice president. Biology major Jamel Williams, Political Science major Khyll Chestnut and International Business major Aaron Roberson are all competing for the seat.

The debate, which began at 1 p.m. in front of an audience of about 30 people, took the form of an informal town hall meeting. The candidates were each given five minutes to introduce themselves, list their credentials and persuade the members of the audience to vote for them. Afterward, the candidates took questions from the moderator and the audience.

Presidential candidate Katherine Street spoke first. She said she has served in the SGA for five semesters, holding the position of senator for the College of Health and Human Services. She was also appointed to be the Director of Academic Affairs.

"I am taking the role of president very seriously," Street said. "My job is to represent the students of Kennesaw at a local, state and national level."

She said one of her goals as SGA president is to promote conversation, information and involvement with students in the community. She also said she wants SGA to become more of a student-driven organization, proposing that SGA send out emails to students in order to keep them informed.

"I would like SGA to focus on three particular areas," Street said. "Those areas are academic excellence, community involvement and lasting tradition."

She also said KSU's new football program provides "huge opportunities to create traditions."

The vice presidential candidates then discussed their platforms. The three candidates have similar SGA experience, all of them having served on the SGA senate for a term of one semester.

Aaron Roberson said his role as SGA vice president will include aiding the president, cultivating the senate and listening to the concerns of students.

Vice presidential candidate Khyll Chestnut said, "SGA must invest in new and innovative technology." Chestnut also said SGA must bridge the gap between itself and the student body.

"How can you say we represent the student body when only 300 students voted in the last election?" Chestnut asked.

Jamel Williams was the last of the vice presidential candidates to speak. He is running on the platform that student interests take precedent over his own.

Treasury candidate Frank McCullough said he didn't feel it was necessary to prepare a speech.

"I'm running uncontested," McCullough said "That's a really big problem. One of the biggest problems we have here at Kennesaw is a lack of involvement from our students. Three positions have run uncontested on the executive board and that is absolutely abhorrent."

He said that as treasurer he will do more with the organization's funds. He mentioned sequestration and budget cuts at the state level, adding that the SGA will feel that heavily.

McCullough is a 29-year-old disabled veteran with extensive academic leadership experience.

The candidates were then asked questions about pressing issues that included: House Bill 512, which would allow student to carry concealed firearms on campus, the proposed campus-wide ban on smoking, and whether or not they supported KSU's football program.

Katherine Street said that if the bill passes, Kennesaw State will adapt accordingly by training students, faculty and staff. She said resident advisers would also have to be trained and security would need to be increased at athletic events.

The vice presidential candidates then voiced their opinions on the proposed smoking ban on campus. A smoking survey was sent to student email accounts to get the general opinion of the student body.

All three vice presidential candidates seemed to oppose the campus-wide ban on smoking cigarettes.

The five debate participants all supported the creation of KSU's football program.

After the meeting, Business major Mike Zeman said the vice presidential candidates did very little to distinguish themselves from one another.

"It's insane that we can't get at least 10 percent of our student body to care enough about student government to vote," Zeman added. "300 is an abysmally low number."

APRIL FOOLS' STATUSES ARE THE NEW WHOOPEE CUSHION

Carl DeBeer Opinion Editor

Social media has killed April Fools' Day. This day used to be devoted to elaborate pranks that take days to plan. Because of this holiday, offices would have a spike in pranks. The FCC has regulations against pranks such as the infamous Orson Welles broadcast of War of the Worlds that set up a nationwide panic of Martians invading. If pranking was an art form, social media is the finger-painting of April Fools' Day. The Internet community has embraced April Fools' and made it a popular gag. Companies now feel the need to release some joke site each year to attract views and trend on Twitter. Google is well-known for its annual gimmick product such as this year's Google Scent—smart phones that can identify and share smells across the web. Other companies are now jumping on the prank wagon. According to USA Today, Twitter announced vowel-free tweets. Tech blog Gizmodo reported that YouTube is actually a contest and they are closing down and announcing the winner of all of YouTube. Video game developer and publisher Valve announced the release of the long awaited and much anticipated Half-Life 3 according to PC Authority. It's great that the Internet has opened up to these annual jokes. What they have lost in realism they have made up in a yearly excuse to make fun of themselves. Unfortunately, not everyone can grasp how to make a successful April Fools' Day. Social media sites such as Facebook and Twitter, allows users to prank all of their friends and followers across the web. Now that everyone and their mother has a Facebook, the popular joke is to post a sudden and dramatic status update. It seems that at the stroke of midnight, millions of people became engaged, pregnant, dropped out of school or won the lottery. Even though this fad has been going for a few years, users still seem to fall for these random life-changing updates. Humor is a hard thing to master and repetition of the same joke doesn't make it better. These status are now the same as buzzers in your hand, whoopee cushions on your chair or "your mom" jokes—lame and over done. But just like those lackluster examples, people keep falling for these status updates. Maybe the intended audience is parents and oblivious users or other people who are more inclined to fall for simple pranks. Regardless of who the jokes are for, they keep catching people in their trap every year.

The only upside to this plethora of bad pranks is the way they make true pranks look masterful. Carl is a senior and English major.

CLUB OF THE WEEK: PRE-LAW

Michael Strong Contributor

The Pre-Law Club at KSU is a one-stop shop for any student interested in working in the legal field. It is dedicated to supporting and assisting students throughout their process of applying to law school. The club helps with the two major factors in law school acceptance: LSAT score and a personal statement.

They provide a prep course for the LSAT on campus, as well as a workshop and experienced advisors on hand to help with writing a personal statement for law school.

The club also sets up panel discussions for anyone to sit in on where law students, paralegals and other professionals involved in a legal career answer questions about getting into the field. Club officers present predetermined questions as well as open up the floor to attendees to ask their own questions. The next panel discussion will be on April 23 from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. in the Clendenin Building, room 2008.

Looking to the future, the club plans on expanding its network to help students. As the club continues to grow, it will eventually be able to help students find internships and establish connections with those in the field.

The website is a resource for those looking into a legal career. The page has a variety of resources and links available to anyone that can use them.

Such links include a law school search, info on multiple legal careers and contact info for KSU's law school adviser and legal minor staff. The site is also a great place to learn more about the club officers and to find dates and locations of upcoming events.

"If you're interested in going to law school, come out and see what we have. It's absolutely free!" said Will Mostellar, Social Media Chairman. "The club was founded last spring and is certainly looking for as many new members as they can get."

Anyone can be accepted into the club, regardless of their major. In fact, it is the club's goal to bring together a diversity of students with the common interest of a legal career.

The only requirements for maintaining membership status are to attend two meetings and to give two hours of service to the club by chalking sidewalks or handing out flyers.

The next general club meeting will be on April 8 and will be located in University Rooms C, D, and E from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. Anyone is welcome to sit in on the meetings.

"Even if you decide not to join, it's a great group of people and you may learn something new," said Mostellar.

More information can be found on the club's website at <https://clubs.kennesaw.edu/prelaw/> as well as their Facebook page, which can be found through <https://www.facebook.com/groups/groupsatkennesaw/>.

2013 SGA Election Candidates

Executive Board Positions

President (uncontested)

Name: Katherine Grace Street
Major: Biology
Expected Graduation: 12/2015

Platform: As I approach this position of serving as Student Government Association President, I feel honored to give back to the student body in another capacity. In my time at KSU, I have worked with SGA for five semesters, participated in the Honors Program, peer led with the President's Emerging Global Scholars Program, in addition to many other commitments. Throughout this coming year, I will work with the other student leaders on campus to promote collaboration and involvement among all members of our student body. My vision specifically for SGA is to create a strategy to canvass our campus and compile a list of the top ideas students have to improve KSU. This compiled list will be publicized in The Sentinel so you will be informed of SGA's goals for the year. I encourage you to get involved with SGA if you are passionate about pursuing a certain idea. We will work with university administration to pursue these ideas to fulfill your interests. By the end of this administration, you should expect your Kennesaw State University to be a stronger, more engaged community as a result of your participation in this process. Thank you for your continued support of SGA.

Vice President (contested, choose 1)

Name: Aaron Bradley Roberson
Major: International Business
Expected Graduation: 2016

Platform: My name is Aaron Roberson and I hope to be your next Vice-President for the Student Government Association. As Vice-President, I will help facilitate an environment of collaboration, community, and tradition, all while emphasizing the vision of the president. As a current Senator for the Coles College of Business, I have proven myself to be dedicated to getting the job done. In my short time as Senator, I have served on 3 committees: Student Services committee, Student Activities Budget Advisory Committee (SABAC) and a committee to revamp the expectations and professionalism for the Coles College of Business. Serving as the Senator for the Freshmen students last semester, I successfully developed a camp for incoming freshmen called Owl Expedition. This camp was created to help freshmen better transition into the university system. I hope that this becomes a new tradition the school can continue to develop even after I graduate. I have established myself well with faculty and administrative staff here at KSU and I keep an open line of communication to all students that have questions or concerns. With my position I want to improve the link between RSOs, Greek Life, and different college departments to promote efficiency and productivity among our peers. If we can come together as a school community the goals we could achieve are limitless. Vote Responsibly. Vote Roberson.

Name: Jamel Knight Williams
Major: Biology
Expected Graduation: 05/2015

Platform: Student Government Association is not only a vital role in the college experience, but also in life. My passion to have a clear, uplifting, and positive voice for the students that I represented has stemmed its way to my sophomore year here at Kennesaw State University. Being officially sworn in at the end of my freshman year was a remarkable moment. I vowed to represent the interest of the students over my own self-interest, and I have kept that vow since the beginning. As fall semester approaches I hope to be elected as Vice President for the Student Government Association. Aside from working heavily with the senators, directors and assisting the President, there are some things that I would like to implement in the coming years.

One event that could possibly be made is a Faculty Appreciation Day. Thus far in Student Government, I have had the great opportunity in co-creating a newly refined Council also known as the Student Advisory Group for students majoring in Science in Math. With SGA I serve as the Vice President and we act as a liaison to the many science based student groups and the faculty about concerns and ideas to help improve the educational experience for our College. I am willing to go above and beyond to reach a greater goal and to satisfy students along the way. I feel that I am well qualified of the position and if elected, I will carry out each of my duties and more.

Name: Khyllil Regime Chestnut
Major: Political Science
Expected Graduation: 05/2016

Platform: Khy's not shy. Khy's only a freshman and during his short time, Khy envisions what Kennesaw State University can become. As vice president He hopes to assist in making everyone know KSU is the best university in Georgia. SGA has been his passion ever since he was a high school freshman; it was the first organization Khy joined. With appreciation to the previous administrations, Khy wants to challenge the status quo and reform the organization to provide an unsurpassed dedication and service towards the students; Khy sees being vice president as his way to contribute to the university. As vice president Khy would love to accomplish a few things. The top priority would be to establish connections between other line item organizations in order to provide events that would better satisfy the students' desires. Khy will welcome teatime or some kind of fellowship between the executives of the RSOs to help bridge the gap between all organizations, which would indubitably promote conjunction and togetherness within the university. Khy wants to undertake the task of changing the national and community perspective of KSU. KSU is an excellent learning environment with a lot of hidden repute in the many programs Kennesaw offers. Khy's last and final platform topic is making sure our magnificent school has enough faculty and classroom space in order to accommodate the demands of the students, which would better our growing university. Bettering our school is a process that Khy looks forward to being a part of.

Treasurer (uncontested)

Name: Franklin Lee McCullough Jr.
Major: International Business/
MGMT & Entrepreneurship
Expected Graduation: 05/2015

Platform: Changes. Changes can sometimes be rough. During these dark times of budget cuts, there is a light. That light is a cohesive and innovative Student Government Association. As treasurer, I will work closely with Student Life to ensure that we are getting the most out of the funding we are allotted, and help ensure that for the 2013-2014 school year we stay on track financially, bringing you the best programs we can afford. Changes can sometimes be rough, but some changes are good. I will bring change and drive to see us through. Thank you for your involvement, and choosing to support the student body as a whole by voting. Thank you for supporting innovation and change.

Secretary (uncontested)

Name: Elizabeth Thomas
Major: Exercise and Health Science
Expected Graduation: 05/2014

Platform: As Student Government Association's Secretary, I will put forth the effort and time to assure the duties bestowed upon me will get done. After serving as a Senator for the College of Health and Human Services, for the past two school years, I have become familiar with the functions of Student Government Association and how to effectively communicate with other senators as well as the executive board. I have always been prompt and assiduous, especially with meeting deadlines and keeping track of information. I know I am fit for the position of Secretary because of my organizational skills and my diligence in all matters, particularly to Student Government. I intend to make the organization a better-ordered system to ensure all members are fairly being accounted for.

One main proposition I plan on bringing to the table, as Secretary is to create a more efficient and systemized way of tracking voting members' office hours. I want to use a time stamp process to accurately record the times of each Student Government members' office hours. In addition, these hours will be properly documented on a weekly basis and distributed to the members via e-mail along with the meeting agenda, previous meeting minutes, and an attendance sheet at least 24 hours before the following General Body Meeting per the Student Government Association Policies and Procedures Manual. With your support, we can create a more efficient Student Government. Vote Elizabeth Thomas. Putting a plan in action to assure your satisfaction.

FACULTY SPOTLIGHT: DR. MELISSA KEITH

Roderic Graham Staff Writer

Dr. Melissa Keith

KSU English professor Dr. Melissa Keith is more than just a teacher to her students.

Keith's unusual journey to achieve her education provides hope to students who worry about making it through college in a timely manner.

"Students often come to me with worries over keeping on track with the conventional timeline for earning an undergraduate degree," Keith said.

Keith grew up in a small town in rural Georgia. At an early age, Keith knew she wanted to abandon her southern roots and experience life elsewhere.

Keith began her collegiate education at Tulane University, but soon transferred to the University of California at Berkeley. California was a culture shock for her, and she convinced herself that she would fail her classes the first semester. Keith quickly adjusted to a more sophisticated lifestyle and graduated summa cum laude.

"I accomplished more than a southern-drawling, southern, country girl could ever have dreamt," Keith said.

After graduating, Keith enrolled in speech classes to fix her southern drawl. Her next academic feat was enrolling in the highest ranked doctoral program in English in North America at Berkeley. Although Keith was familiar with the English department at UC Berkeley, she was still nervous about the program's level of difficulty.

"When leaping into a challenging arena, one either does everything possible to rise to the occasion, or one drops out," Keith said.

Normally, 22 people are admitted to the Berkeley English department, but half of them always drop out. Keith continued her coursework with only 11 graduate students in her class. She remained focused, finished her coursework ahead of time and prepared to begin research on her dissertation.

For many reasons Keith was unable to finish her dissertation and was classified as All But Dissertation or ABD. An ABD classification occurs when a doctoral student completes all of the required coursework for a PhD, but has not completed their dissertation. For 21 years, Keith was classified as ABD.

"It was at this point that the miracle transpired," Keith said.

The maximum length to complete a dissertation is seven years, but former professors allowed her to complete her dissertation 20 years later.

In December 2012, Keith earned her PhD in English from UC at Berkeley, and was very excited about her academic achievement.

"Now I have Dr. on my office door and that feels magical,"

Keith said.

Keith plans on publishing more work in the near future.

"Next on the list is publication of two manuscripts: the dissertation and a memoir," Keith said.

KSU students can learn from Dr. Keith's story. She accomplished her goals despite the obstacles that stood in her way.

"I believe that I stand as an example—though not necessarily one to emulate—of how unusual feats in academia can be accomplished against the odds," Keith said.

With all the classes, assignments, projects and extracurricular activities, it may seem that it is taking forever to graduate. Keith is a prime example that it is never too late to achieve one's academic goals.

ATHLETES SHOW TALENT OFF THE FIELD

Robert Pless Staff Writer

The Golden Soldiers, a non-profit organization based out of Kennesaw, held their 2nd Annual Golden Soldiers Athlete Talent Show on March 25, with all proceeds going to the local charity.

A faith-based organization, the Golden Soldiers promotes the Golden Rule, and implements this rule into their interactions and dealings with the community. The Golden Soldiers provide activities and support to individuals with developmental disabilities.

They also provide financial planning workshops, sensory friendly movies, special needs sports teams and other activities for these people and their families.

The talent show featured 16 acts, including KSU varsity sports teams, and KSU's cheer and dance teams. Talents included singing, dancing, comedic skits, stomping and even a magic show.

It was hosted by Golden Soldiers founder/CEO and KSU Health and Human Services Alumna Lindsey Turner, and KSU Director of Athletics Vaughn Williams, who recently became a member of the Golden Soldiers.

"The show was definitely a success," said Karen Pfeifer, Associate Athletics Director for Student-Athlete Welfare at KSU.

Opening the show was a dance trio performing to Nicki Minaj and Cassie's "The Boys." The ladies' softball team performed a swing dance to Dobie Gray's "Drift Away," and the men's baseball team sang

Neil Diamond's classic "Sweet Caroline."

Providing a bit of comic relief, the men's basketball team performed a dunk contest spoof, along with the volleyball team performing a comedic skit about the daily life of a student-athlete. The cheer team performed a dance and magic routine to "I Got the Magic in Me," by rapper B.o.B.

The women's basketball team danced to a medley of Beyonce songs. Closing out the show, the women's golf team performed a line dance to Big and Rich's "Fake ID."

Last year, the Golden Soldiers raised $1100 at their very first talent show at KSU. They almost tripled that amount this year, raising $3000 for their organization, raising the money through ticket sales, paracord bracelet and keychain sales, lollipop sales and donations throughout the night.

"The ultimate goal of the Golden Soldiers is to provide a localized medical center where they can receive medical care, rehabilitation and participate in their sporting activities all at one facility," Pfeifer said.

For the past two years, select KSU athletes have been helping the Golden Soldiers special needs baseball league, and the KSU dance team intends on volunteering their time for the Golden Soldiers carnival for children that will be held in June. WAYS OF SHOWING: KSU ART DEPT. DEBUTS NEW SHOWS

Amy Freeman Staff Writer

KSU's College of the Arts is continuing to grow and thrive. COTA consists of four different departments: Department of Dance, School of Art and Design, School of Music and Theater and Performance Studies.

COTA hosts numerous events and performances that are open to students, faculty and staff as well as the general public.

"If you want to attend the popular American classic 'Bus Stop' by William Inge, plan on buying your tickets early," said Kathie Beckett, Director of Marketing and Communications for COTA.

Theater and Performance Studies is performing Inge's classic in the Stillwell Theater on April 2-6 at 8 p.m., followed by a 2 p.m. matinee on April 7.

"Bus Stop" is about an unlikely band of misfits who unexpectedly encounter grace in a roadside diner outside of Kansas City. It's about eight people who all experience love in different ways," Director and Associate Professor Harrison Long said. "This play is Inge's 'Valentine to Loneliness.' Inge's fascinating characters learn that love has the power to transform. The friendships and relationships that unfold in 'Bus Stop' offer opportunity for self-discovery when the snowstorm clears."

Spring should be underway when world-acclaimed violinist Helen Kim shares the stage with pianist Robert Henry and cellist Charae Krueger on Wednesday, April 3 at 8 p.m. at the Bailey Performing Arts Center.

According to David Daly, Director of the Bailey

Performing Arts Center, one of the goals for the Premiere Series is to "create opportunities for our students to interact with world-class artists in an educational setting."

Violinist Jennifer Koh and pianist Shai Vosner take the stage at the School of Music's final concert of the Premiere Series on April 11, at 8 p.m.

The Department of Dance is hosting The Student Dance Concert in the Stillwell Theater at 8 p.m. on April 26-27. This performance exhibits graduating seniors' choreography projects and will be performed by the KSU Dance Company.

Seniors in the School of Art and Design will be exhibiting their work in the 2013 Spring Senior Exhibitions through May 9 at the Art Gallery in the Sturgis Library.

"This exhibit is always thought provoking, challenging, and without exception, I leave the exhibition in awe of the talent that they display," COTA Assistant Dean, Samuel Robinson, said.

There are numerous upcoming events and performances that are scheduled for the month of April as well as some performances scheduled during the summer. For more information, please visit <http://www.kennesaw.edu/arts>.

Shai Vosner will demonstrate his piano skills in the concert of the Premiere Series at BPC.

Jennifer Koh, violinist, will play at the School of Music's concluding concert on April 11.

POETRY

We here at The Sentinel have noticed a certain lacking in the expression available to our writers. We feel that the AP Style limits our ability to express our true opinions. So I, Alek Searcy, as poetry editor, in conjunction with our EIC Megan Emory and our opinion editor Carl DeBeer have boldly decided to branch out of the constricting confines of traditional journalism and create a brand new Sentinel.

In this section you will find students expressing their true opinions in a different and completely open format. There is no truer form of expression than found in the honest work of a poet.

"Poetry is thoughts that breathe, and words burn."

Shall I Compare Thee to a Parking Deck?

Carl James DeBeer

Shall I compare thee to a parking deck?
 Thou art more open in so many ways;
 Dumb kids do make the darling lanes a wreck.
 And Driver's Ed hath all too short a stay.
 Sometimes too short the trucks of mud do park,
 And thus all the good spots shall be well hid.
 And every car from doors and keys take mark,
 From chance or from some spoiled brat rich kid.
 But thy eternal parking shall not fade,
 Nor lose possession of that fee thou charge'st;
 Nor shall B.O.B. brag thou wander'st in his shade,
 When in ever changing campus thou grow'st:
 So long as students fail to park their best,
 Our decks shall remain forever a mess.

Ode to B.O.B.

Carl James DeBeer

Never has someone led me like you!
 You are my pick-me-up, my steed.
 Never again shall I ride another,
 For you have driven me the best.
 Our love is like your route—never ending.

 Would not be as sweet.
 Be my shuttle eternal—B.O.B.

OWLS BASEBALL CLAIM SECOND SHUTOUT VICTORY
in three-game series against Stetson

Eric Fuller Sports Editor

KSU pitcher Kevin Kyle allowed only four hits in the Owls 4-0 shutout against the Stetson Hatters on Saturday to win the series against their Atlantic Sun Conference rivals.

Kyle was resilient on the mound, pitching all nine innings. After a first inning that saw action at the plate, Kyle faced the minimum number of batters in the remaining eight innings and struck out three straight batters to grab his fourth straight victory from the mound.

The Owls improved their overall record to 17-11 and are now 6-3 in the A-Sun conference. KSU has now won back-to-back conference series matchups and are 5-1 in their last six conference games. Stetson head coach Pete Dunn commented on the Owls defensive play in a Daytona Beach News-Journal article.

"That is the best defensive infield that I can remember seeing in a long time. I am not just talking about the A-Sun. I mean anywhere. Those guys really make a lot of plays," Dunn said.

The second inning saw a lot of action at the plate for the Owls. KSU scored three runs in the top of the second. Catcher Max Pentecost was able to get on base after a Stetson error. Ryan Raper drove him in for the Owl's first run of the game. Raper would score himself after Kal Simmons drove him in. The RBI was Simmons' 23rd of the season, which leads the team. Andy Almonte was driven in by Bo Way to cap the inning and put Stetson in a three run hole.

For the next six innings, Kyle would control the game and the Owls defense would keep Stetson off the board. In the eighth inning, right fielder Alex Liquori scored on an Almonte double to make it 4-0. Liquori was walked and then stole second to put himself in scoring position for Almonte's double.

The Owls were balanced offensively, as seven different KSU players recorded hits for a total of eight. Simmons was the lone Owl with multiple hits, going 2-for-4 with a pair of singles. Almonte's eighth inning double was the only hit for extra bases.

The story of the game was Kyle, who threw 104 pitches in the game, suffocating Stetson's offense. The senior forced 17 ground balls and bumped his ERA down to 2.40 and improved his season record to 5-2. The shutout was the second in three games for the Owls, as they downed Stetson by the same score in the opening game of the series on Thursday night.

The Owls will hope to pick up some momentum from the series victory. KSU will face off against Georgia at home on Tuesday. On Wednesday, the team will travel to Atlanta to challenge top 25 opponent Georgia Tech before taking on Florida Gulf Coast at home in a three-game series.

“That is the BEST DEFENSIVE INFIELD that I can remember seeing in a LONG TIME.”

KSU SOCCER ADDS DEPTH AND EXPERIENCE with eight signees

Eric Fuller Sports Editor

KSU soccer added eight total players to their 2013 roster, with six players signing National Letters of Intent, while two players transferred from different universities.

The class includes forwards Shannon Driscoll and Maggie Gaughan, midfielders Suzanne Arafa, Monica Herrera, and Cassidy Kemp and goalkeeper Olivia Sturdivant. Kemp, who is also listed as a forward, is a versatile utility player for the Owls.

"We are very pleased with this class," said King. "This is a class that we have put together for a couple of years and I am thrilled with the group. It is a collection of very good athletes, but then also blended with some very technical players with a high soccer IQ. I am delighted with this group. It is very exciting."

Along with the signings, KSU added two players from the SEC. Defenders Elizabeth Johnson and Brittney Reed will bring experience to the Owls defense. Johnson, who previously played 13 matches for the University of Georgia in the 2012 season, is used to playing in big games.

Before arriving at UGA, Johnson was a four-year starter and four-time all-region performer at Fellowship Christian High School. She helped lead her team to state final four in 2011, and went on to surpass that when her team recorded a finalist finish the following year in 2012.

TRACK AND FIELD BREAK KSU RECORDS DURING the Yellow Jacket Invitational

The KSU men and women's track team competed in the Yellow Jacket Invitational at Georgia Tech over the weekend. The competition would prove to be a great success for the Owls, with KSU claiming 17 top five finishes and four new school records.

Sprinter Cynthia Davis had a tremendous competition, breaking records in the individual 200m as well as part of the 4x100m relay team. She had held the previous record for the 200m, beating her career best time when she ran a 24.04 in the event.

She then went on to help teammates Alicia Whittle, Kentrell White and Hannah Wood run a 45.80 in the 4x100m relay. The finish was a KSU record and the team's third top finish in a row. They defeated Alabama and Auburn for the top spot in the relay.

The records were part of a complete day for the women's team as they had five athletes finish in the top five for their events.

Michelle Quimby jumped to 3.7m in the pole vault to finish in fourth place, while her teammate Abby Lizard placed fifth in the triple jump with 3.7m. Thrower Megan Adebamowo placed third in the shot put, while Suzee Mills and Shannon Hooper placed fourth and fifth in the hammer and discuss.

In his first meet of the 2013 outdoor season, Andre Dorsey finished first in the triple jump with 15.92m, shattering the previous school record by a full meter. The jump was the sixth best distance in the nation this season. Dorsey also broke his own record in the javelin throw with a distance of 58.80m and placing third in the event.

"I felt pretty good for the first outdoor meet, and breaking a school record is always fun," Dorsey said. "Everyone else was feeling good, and so was I. It was just a great breakout day."

Throwers Matrynas Sedys and Tyler Crow turned in impressive performances, as Sedys threw for the top mark in the hammer with a distance of 60.60m, which was just short of his Atlantic Sun Conference leading mark of 61.56m. Crow placed third in the shot put with a distance of 12.49m.

It was on the track where the men had exponential success with four runners finished in the top ten. Josh Mulder placed third in the 400m hurdles, while Bilal Abdullah and Sadio Diallo grabbed fifth place finishes in the 200 and 100m hurdles. Zac Davis ran a personal best in the 400m, finishing eighth.

"This early in our season, we are doing very well," said KSU head coach Duane Morris. "We aren't where we want to be, but we are getting there."

The team will travel to Gainesville, FL to compete in the Florida Relays and continue their 2013 outdoor season.

Andre Dorsey broke two KSU records in the triple jump and javelin throw, and the track and field team had 17 athletes grab top five finishes in their events.

She claimed MVP honors in the 2011 season, and claimed two state titles with the North Atlanta Soccer Association in 2008 and 2010. Her team went on to win the national league championship in 2010 following their state victory.

"They [Johnson and Reed] are the type of players that we like to have on our team," said KSU head coach Rob King. "They are not going to panic under pressure. They are used to playing in big games and are settling in very nicely."

The Owls have added offensive firepower in Driscoll and Gaughan. Driscoll tallied 64 goals in her career at River Ridge High School. A three-year varsity letterwinner, she helped lead her team to the state championship in each of her first three years of high school. She earned Cherokee County All-County Team honors following her sophomore and junior seasons.

In her career at Hillgrove High School, Gaughan scored 58 goals and added 23 assists through her junior year. She scored 13 game-winning goals in her career. As a member of the Southern Soccer Academy and Cobb FC premier teams, she won the 2012 State Cup Championship.

"These two are both athletic forwards," King said. "They are big, strong and fast. They can play with their back to goal and hold the ball up, but they are also a threat in behind and they can finish as well. They are very versatile and can play as central forwards in that position, but can also play wide because they have the pace to take players on. They are both very hardworking and I expect a lot from both of them immediately."

KSU will add championship experience with their signees. The players will join the Owls squad in fall of 2103, and look to make an immediate impact.

KSU TENNIS STRUGGLES INDOORS AGAINST Florida Gulf Coast

Eric Fuller Sports Editor

Both the men and women's tennis teams competed at the Byers Tennis Complex at Georgia Tech on Saturday, March 23, taking on Florida Gulf Coast University. The men's team fell to FGCU 6-1, while the women dropped a 4-1 contest.

The matches were moved inside due to the extreme weather conditions. The Byers Tennis Complex proved to be the perfect setting for the meeting between the Atlantic Sun rivals.

With the loss, the men's squad fell to 3-11 and 0-3 in the A-Sun Conference, while the FGCU Eagles improve to 8-7 and 3-1 in conference play.

"We did a great job of putting ourselves in position to win, but we simply did not play the big points as well as they did today," said KSU head coach T.J. Greggs. "If we can play at this level the rest of the way, we will be going in the right direction."

Alexander Peña was the shining spot for the Owls. The sophomore went undefeated in both of his singles and doubles matches. Peña and his senior partner, Gokalp Ozdemir combined for an 8-5 win over Eagles teammates Lance Lvovsky and Jackson Moore. The Owls lost the second doubles match, forcing freshman Tobi Menhofer and sophomore Louis Theodor to win the third match and grab the doubles point for KSU. Down 6-2 early on, the pair fought back, forcing a tiebreaker point against the Eagles' Jordi Vives and Dean Tsamas. However, the Owls comeback bid fell short, as FGCU grabbed the early 1-0 lead.

As singles action started, Peña would defeat his opponent in three sets, and grab the lone point for the Owls in the match. Freshman Maksim Yorsh fell to FGCU's Tianyu Bao after forcing a comeback in the second set, only to fall to the reigning A-Sun Freshman of the Year in the third set.

The Owls were persistent across the board, forcing two more games to three sets before falling to their opponents. KSU lost the match 6-1, the lone point coming from Peña's singles performance.

The women's team also struggled against the Eagles, falling to FGCU 4-1. The Owls drop to 5-9 on the season and 0-3 in conference play, while the Eagles improve to 10-3 and 4-0 in league play.

The pairing of junior Alexandra Apostu and sophomore Jana Hueckinghaus grabbed an early victory for the Owls in doubles play, but KSU dropped the next two matches, and lost the doubles point to the Eagles.

The Owls grabbed a singles victory when Apostu defeated Johanna Sterkel, but the win proved to be too little, too late, as the Eagles had claimed the first two single victories. The decisive win came in the following match as Hueckinghaus dropped her match to the Eagles' Gyanna Mandic.

Both tennis teams team will travel to Marietta on April 4 when KSU will face off against Jacksonville State.

“IF WE CAN PLAY AT THIS LEVEL THE REST OF THE WAY, WE WILL BE GOING IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION.”

Maksim Yorsh rallied to send his singles match to a third set before falling to the reigning A-Sun Freshmen of the Year, Tianyu Bao.
