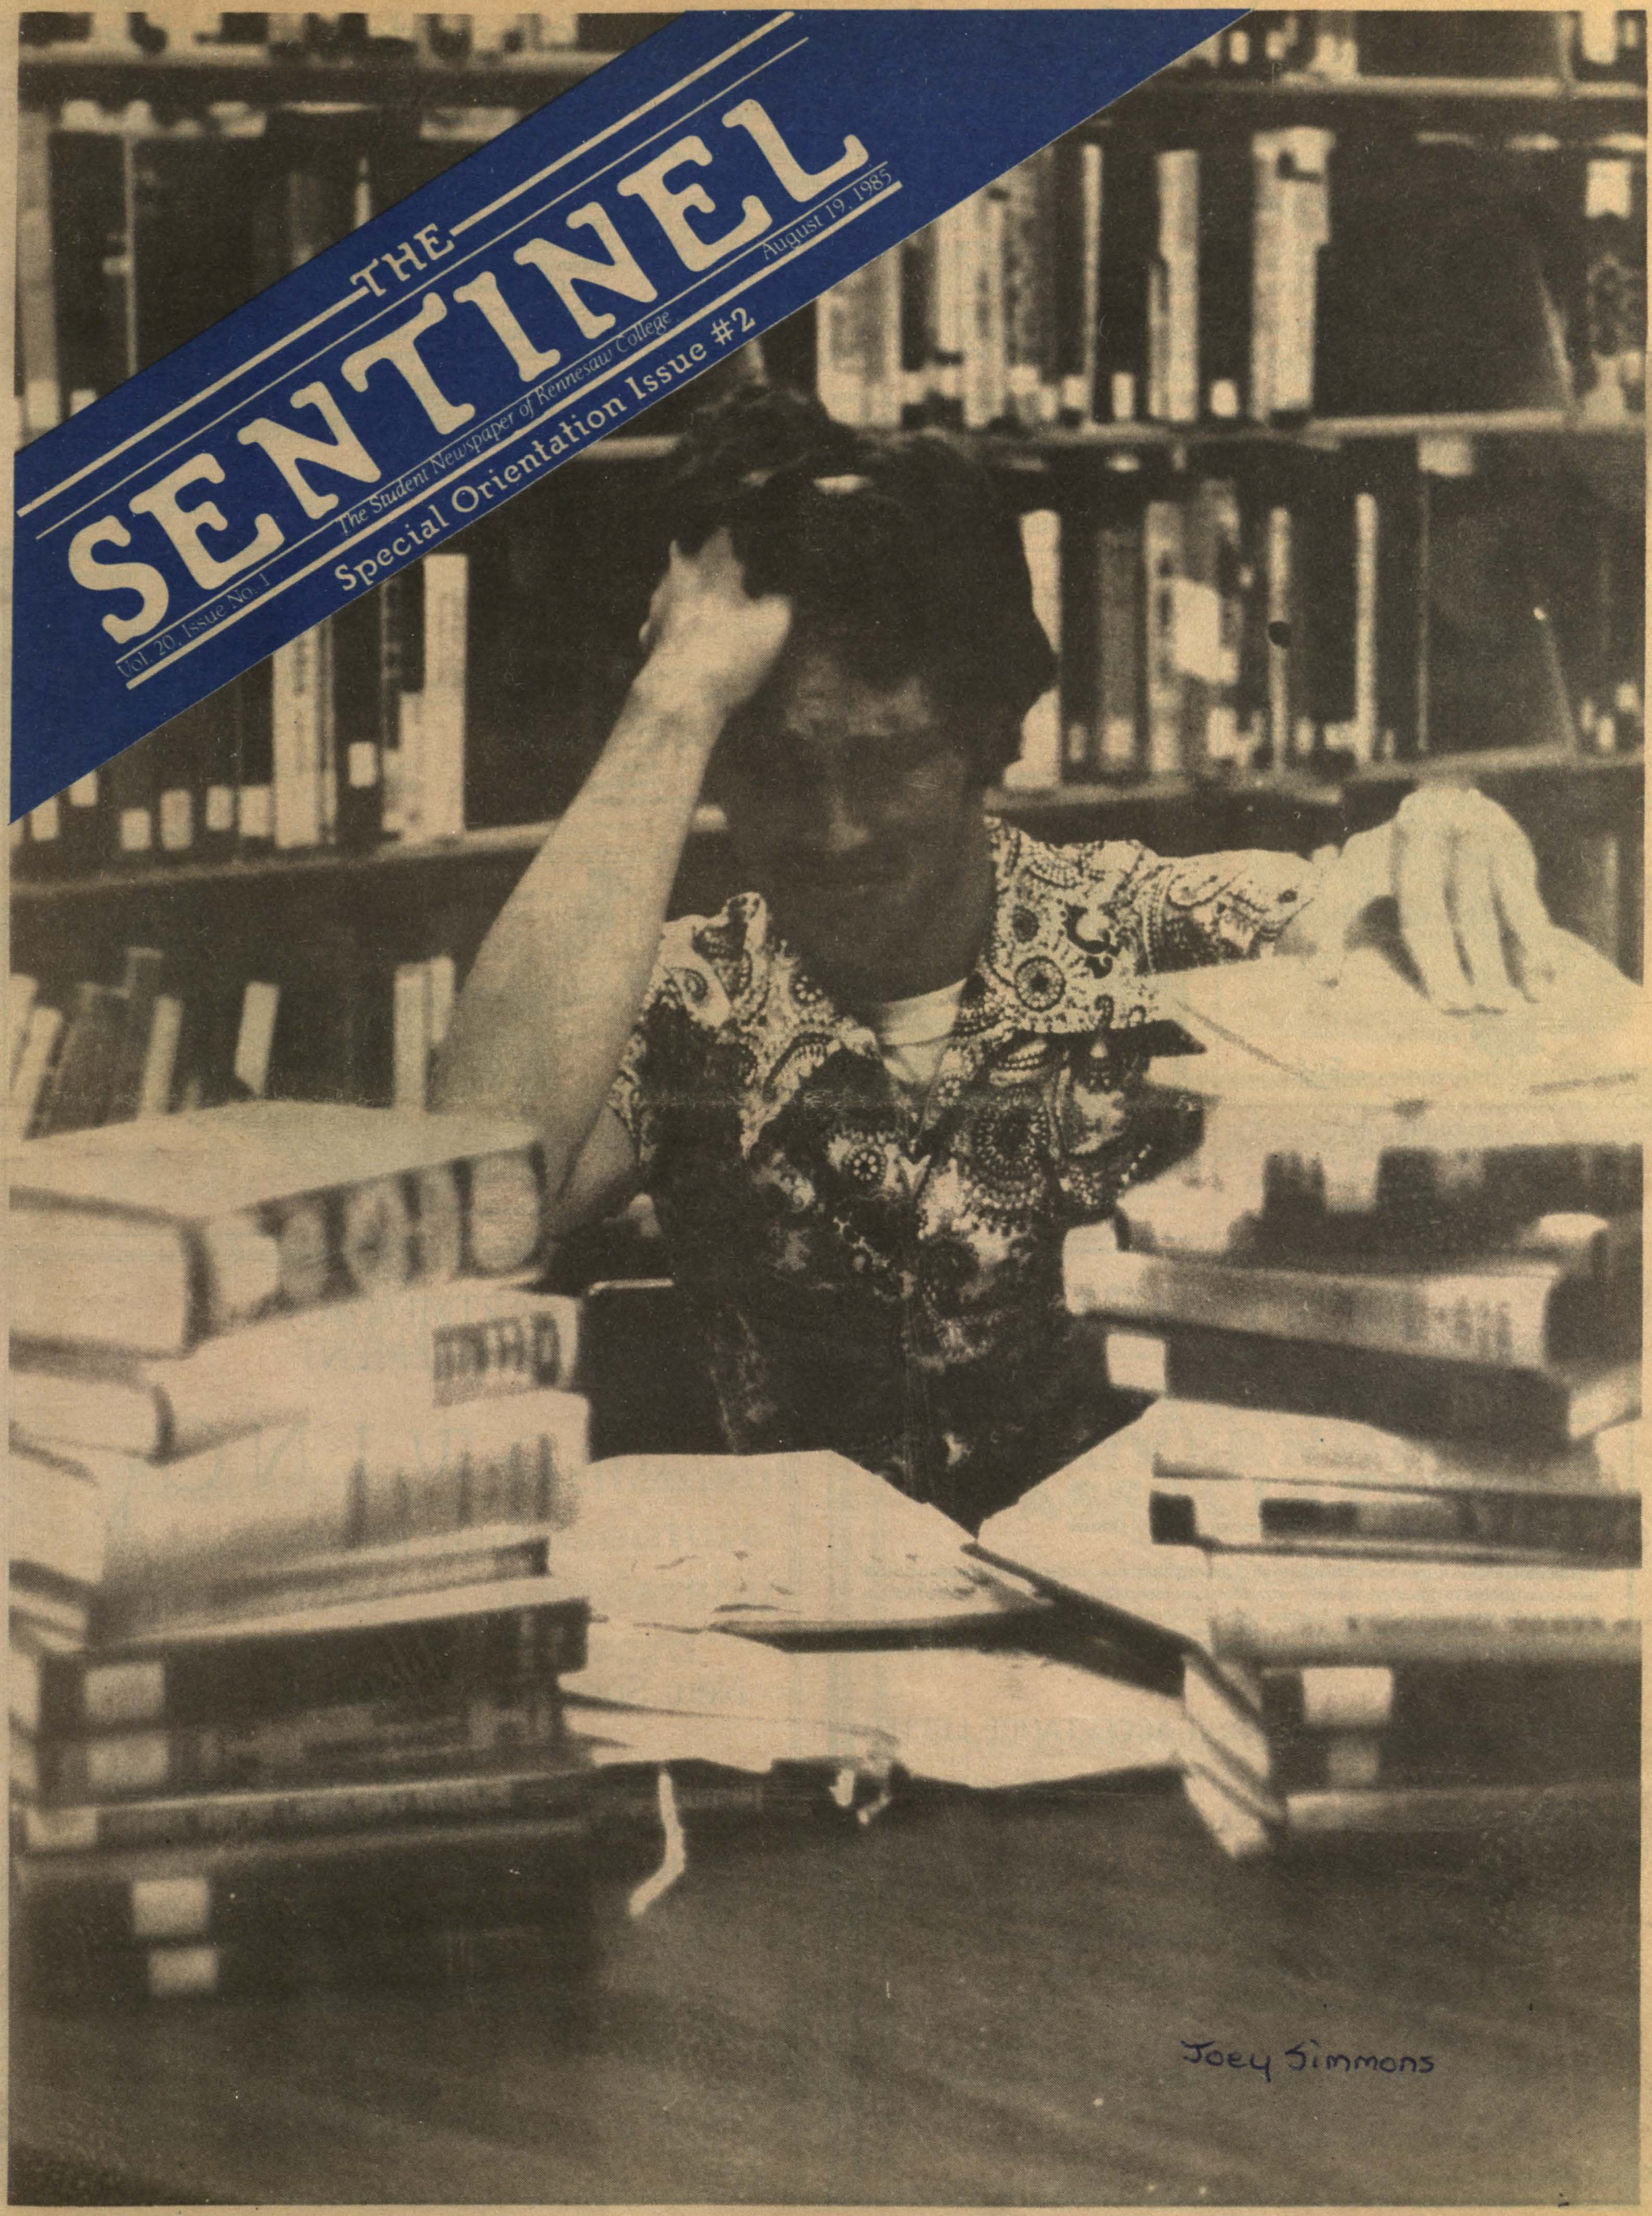
Special Orientation Issue #2



Joey Simmons

To Our Readers

This is the second annual Orientation Issue of The Sentinel. This supplement is designed especially for new students at Kennesaw College, to give them a guide to student activities and programs available to them. The Sentinel offers this as a valuable source of information. For this purpose, enjoy!

Students gain pride through student activities

Dear New Students:

Welcome to Kennesaw College! I'm sure you have heard this greeting at least a million times by now, but I just had to let you know, one more time, that you are indeed welcome here.

Orientation is a big thing for everyone on campus. To the new student, it is a time to find out what opportunities are available to him or her at the college. For the already enrolled student, it is a time to show and tell the new students those opportunities that they have had and now experience.

Some parts of the Orientation program are exciting and appealing, while other parts are, no doubt, quite boring. As a member of a student activity (The Sentinel), I hope you find your tour around the Student Activities tables one of the exciting portions of your program.

One of the neatest things about joining a student club or organization is that you are given the opportunity to take on a responsibility, fulfill it and be recognized for it. Unlike most other jobs, the work you do in a student organization directly reflects you, your organization, and the students affected by your efforts.

Simply put...you work with your peers — for your peers. The student gives, so that the student might receive.

The Sentinel for example, is paid for by the students (through Student Activity Fees). With the exception of printing, it is totally produced by students. Its primary purpose is to be the voice of the students.

Student activities are more than just something to do with idle time. There is a certain reward in working hard with a group of peers, to entertain and enlighten a larger group of peers. There is also valid experience to be gained and included on your resume when you graduate. And, on top of experience and reward, there's a lot of fun to be had.

So, do yourself and those crazed club and organization recruiters a favor and consider student activities. There's not a student organization on this campus that doesn't need and/or want your involvement. Carefully evaluate your time and schedule and see if you can join one of these student efforts.

Here's wishing you a fantastic freshman year at Kennesaw College!

Sincerely yours,
Sara "Sissy" Bowen

STUDENT GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

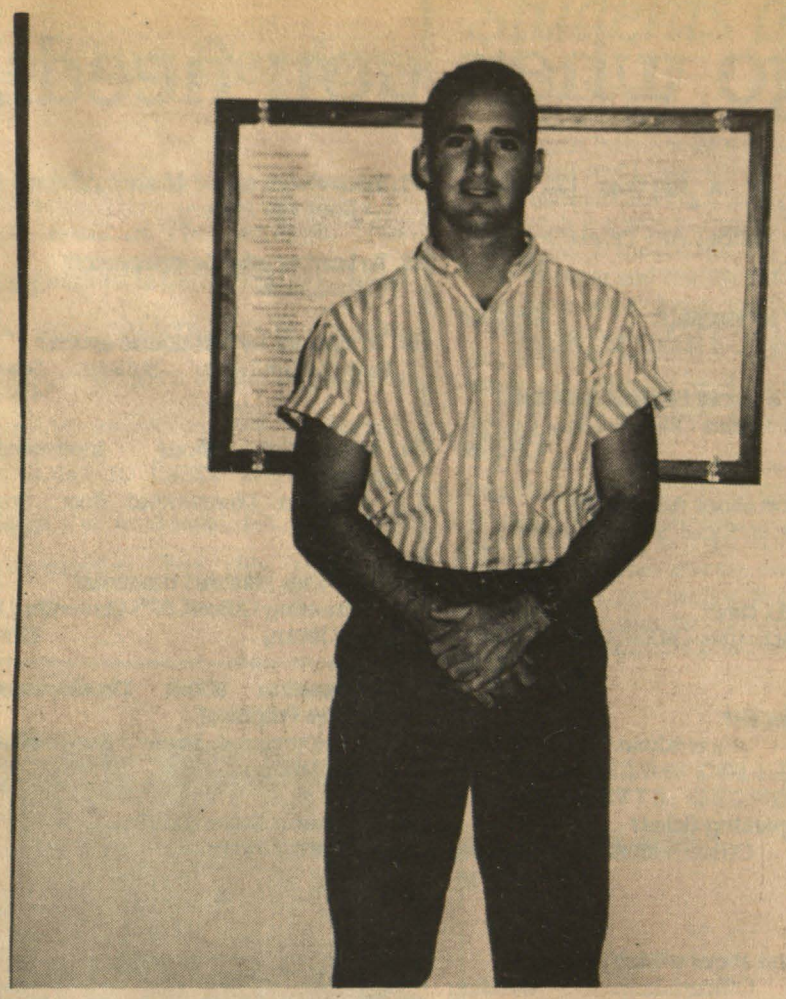
WELCOME TO KENNESAW!

YOUR KENNESAW COLLEGE SGA IS LOOKING FOR ENTHUSIASTIC STUDENTS WHO WANT MORE OUT OF COLLEGE THAN JUST A DEGREE.

COME HELP US EXCEED OUR GOALS FOR THE 1985-1986 YEAR.

OUR FIRST MEETING WILL BE ON MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 30 AT 2:30 IN THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES ROOM, SECOND FLOOR, STUDENT CENTER.

EVERYONE INVITED!



This is Tim Graham, your Student Government Association President. If you have any questions regarding student government, you can find Tim in the SGA office, 2nd floor of the Student Center.

History Department offers humanistic approach

The history major at Kennesaw College requires forty hours in history courses, plus twenty hours in a foreign language. Students also take twenty hours in a minor field, which may be any discipline they choose.

All history majors must take a research methodology course in which they learn not only how to research historic documents, but also how to analyze those documents and synthesize information in them. In this course and in most other major courses a research paper is required. In other courses students write critical book reviews or orally analyze their reading assignments.

History majors take courses in three areas: United States History, European History, and Area (Non-Western) Studies. In each area they must take at least one course but may not take more than three. Students thus have some familiarity not only with Western Civilization, but with other areas of the world. We currently offer area study courses in the history of Latin America, Africa, the Middle East, China/Japan, and India/South Asia.

Students have an opportunity to pursue many interests and prepare for a variety of careers while majoring in history. The Department co-operates with the School of Education to offer a double major in History and Education which prepares students to teach in secondary school.

Students may combine a history major with a minor in a traditional academic field or in interdisciplinary areas such as International studies or women's studies.

Students acquire skills in researching, analyzing, synthesizing, and writing which are in demand in many businesses, especially if the student has also taken courses in computer science.

The humanistic qualities instilled in history students enables them to work effectively in a variety of settings and with people of diverse backgrounds. Our Oral History Project, indexing of the Marietta Daily Journal, and internships offer practical experience which can be valuable in the job market.

Study of the evolution of cultural, social, and economic institutions in various of the world's countries can lead to understanding of or own heritage and that of other nations.

Students thus gain a perspective which can be useful in many pursuits. This perspective, along with knowledge of a foreign language acquired in the history program, can well prepare students for careers in international business or government service.

For further information on the History Program, contact Dr. Ann W. Ellis, Department Chair, at 429-2945.

KC offers degrees in music, performing arts

The Department of Music & Performing Arts offers the B.A. degree with a major in Music, the B.S. degree with a major in Music Education, and will soon offer the B.M. Degree with majors in Voice or Piano performance.

For the general student, membership is open in a variety of ensembles including Band, Chorale, Orchestra, Jazz Ensemble, Brass Ensemble, Woodwind Ensemble, Madrigal Singers, Chamber Choir, Opera Workshop, Musical Theatre Workshop, and others. (Note: in some cases membership is by audition only.)

Also, a variety of courses is offered for the general student. Music Appreciation, Introduction to Jazz, and Introduction to Symphonic Literature are but a few.

The non-major may also sign up for class piano or class voice. Applied music (private) lessons in voice, piano, and most wind and string instruments, are also available for an additional fee of $50.00 per quarter hour of credit.

A very active Musical Arts Series features about ten concerts or recitals every quarter. Most are held in the Music Building Recital Hall, and all are free to Kennesaw College students.

For more information call the music office at 429-2851.

Counseling helps you explore options

Welcome, New Students!

I hope this introduction phase is just the beginning to a meaningful relationship that you will have with the Student Development and the CAPS (Counseling, Advisement, Placement Services) Center. During Orientation you will get an overview of what kind of important services we offer to you.

In our Counseling area, we look for ways to help you explore your various educational and career options. We offer a number of different types of tests, as well as seminars aimed to help you better reach your full potential. Handicapped, adult learners, minority and international students all have special support services available.

The Director of Counseling is Ms. Inez Morgan. Her staff consists of Mr. Chuck Goodrum, Ms. Kathy Pollard, and Ms. Diane Wilkerson. Dr. Barry Franklin of the School of Education works part-time in CAPS with learning disabled students, in addition to his other responsibilities.

Advisement is very important to you. We do not want you to waste time, dollars, or take unnecessary courses that do not relate to your personal goals. Please pay attention to, and use, the Advisement services offered to you. Mr. Chuck Goodrum of CAPS and Dr. Nancy King of the English department co-chair the role of Advisement Coordinators.

Placement Services are extremely important to you as you develop deeper career awareness and skills, while looking at, or working in, particular job options. Through testing and training you will have the opportunity to best prepare yourself realistically for the job market.

John Stathas is your new Assistant Dean of Student Development and Director of CAPS. His office is located in the CAPS Center on the 2nd floor of the Old Library.

Ms. Deborah Waller is the Director of Placement and Cooperative Education. Ms. Maxine Prince and Mr. John Baumann work within that unit. Ms. Prince works very directly with Placement and Mr. Baumann is responsible for co-op education.

Each member of our staff, in addition to our friendly and competent secretaries, Becky Frame, Carol Lindsey, and Judy Webster, is ready to assist you as you clarify your goals and make the particular life transition appropriate to your own life.

We are located upstairs in the Old Library. We are developing better signs to help you find us. Accept the challenge!

Please remember, we are here to serve you — to significantly add to your personal, educational and career growth. The door is always open — you are invited!

Sincerely,
John J. Stathas, Ph.D.
Assistant Dean of Student Development
Director of CAPS

Welcome

This is Dr. Toby Hopper, your Dean of Student Development. Dr. Hopper coordinates all departments in Student Development. If you have any unresolved problems regarding any of those departments, you can find Dr. Hopper in her office in the Student Development office area, upstairs in the Student Center.

Black students get advice

Hi,

I'm Diane Wilkerson and I'm a Counselor in the CAPS Center and Coordinator of the Black Collegian Advisement Program.

I'd like to take this opportunity to share some good news with you about a support program for black students on our campus.

The "Black Collegian Advisement Program" is designed to develop academic winners. The purpose of the program is to promote the academic success, retention, and participation of black students on our campus. The program creates a supportive climate by offering academic and financial aid workshops and providing life skills, career, and academic counseling, and social activities.

This copy room is available to all enrolled students. It is located behind the reference desk in the library. All copies are ten cents per page.

The BCA Program has faculty members who have volunteered to serve as academic advisors and are eager to assist black students. The program also has sophomore, junior, and senior students who work as peer student leaders.

Advisors and peer student leaders will be contacting black students throughout the school year to determine how they are adjusting to college life at Kennesaw College. The program is designed to provide high quality advisement and create support networks which will help students become connected to caring faculty, students, administrators, campus activities, and support services.

It's important for students to get to know their advisors, since they will have the same advisor throughout their stay at Kennesaw College, unless they change majors. Advisors will be available to assist students in the resolution of their problems or refer them to someone who can help. Students should see their advisors at least three times each quarter.

The BCA program also assists in sponsoring and promoting "The Campuswide Celebration of Black History and Cultural Events" on our campus. Outstanding black role models and speakers we had on our campus last year included Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm, a black clinical psychologist, political scientist-author, sculptor-educator, and a NASA engineer. We also had a Gospel Extravaganza. This year we are planning a more exciting program than ever.

I'd also like to mention a student support group for Black students on our campus and that's the Black Students' Alliance. It will be meeting on the second and fourth Tuesdays from 10-11 a.m. in Social Science, room 226.

This is the entrance lobby for the Old and New Libraries. On the left is the entrance to the Old Library and on the right, the entrance to the new Library.

Learning disabled group formed to provide support

A learning disabilities support group is being formed this Fall to provide learning disabled students with the opportunity to meet together and to work together for their mutual betterment. Interested students should contact Barry Franklin in the CAPS Center in the Library Annex or call him at 429-7415 or 429-2966.

Communications major to be offered

Seven new courses will be offered this fall in the Department of Liberal Studies.

Four of the six are in art and come as the result of a new degree program having been approved by the board of Regents. Two in communications are expected to become part of a new majo;r in communications planned for Fall Quarter, 1986.

Two new faculty members will be teaching two of the courses. Dr. George Simcoe, who holds the Ph.D. degree from the University of Denver and comes to Kennesaw from Texas Lutheran College, will be teaching Communications 130.

This course, scheduled at 11 a.m. Tuesday-Thursday, Introduction to Mass Communications, has no prerequisites. It deals with the fundamental components of the human communications process, including verbal and nonverbal concepts within a variety of settings. It includes methods and practice in public address.

Dr. John Gentile, with a Ph.D. degree from Northwestern University, most recently taught at the University of Northern Iowa. He is scheduled to teach Communications 289, Business and Professional Speaking, at 11 a.m. Monday, Wednesday, Friday. This course focuses on advanced methods and practice in public address with an emphasis upon the management and integration of facts, ideas, and strategic devices for speaking within business, professional, and special occasional environments. It also has no prerequisites, although an introductory speech course is recommended.

In the Modern Foreign Language area, French 402, Commercial French, is being offered for the first time, to be taught by Dr. Rosa Bobia. It is scheduled at 12:45 Monday, Wednesday, Friday.

The newly approved major in art begins this fall at Kennesaw College with four new art courses on the schedule.

Art 375, at 9:35 a.m., Monday, Wednesday, Friday taught by Ms. Barbara Swindell, is a survey of art history from prehistoric times to the fifteenth century. Another art history, History of Modern Art, Art 485, is scheduled at 11 a.m., Monday, Wednesday, Friday, with Ms. Roberta Griffin instructing.

Neither of the art history courses has a prerequisite and should make good electives for such majors as history and English as well as giving students in other areas an opportunity to explore art regardless of their talents as artists.

A third new course, Art 426, is a watercolor course, taught by Mr. Thomson Salter daily at 12:45.

In addition, Art 400, Directed Study, is included on the schedule. During this academic year new courses will continue to be offered in all studio areas, photography, and art education.

English offers a variety of courses

Two sections of English 101 differing from other sections will be offered Fall Quarter, 1985.

Dr. Martha Bargo will again teach a section in which students use a word processor to do all their writing. Students who wish to enroll in this section should know how to type, but use of the computer will be explained.

This section is scheduled on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 9:35 a.m., to 11:00 a.m.

The other section, taught by Dr. Virginia Hinton, will use as texts rather than a rhetoric-reader two novels, Losing Battles, by Eudora Welty, and Mark Twain's The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn.

Dr. Hinton's class is scheduled at 6 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday. No special expense is involved for this section.

Students in Dr. Bargo's class, however, will be required to furnish their own diskettes, which can be purchased for a nominal fee in the CETL office on the fourth floor of the library.

A special topics course dealing with women and film in American literature will highlight the seven upper division English courses scheduled for Fall Quarter.

Dr. Dorothy Graham will teach English 490, the special topics course, at 11 a.m., on Tuesday-Thursday.

Also on Tuesday-Thursday, at 7:45 a.m., Dr. Karen Thompson will teach English 470, Modern British and American Literature.

Two courses will be offered at night, English 310, Advanced Grammar, on Tuesday and Thursday at 8:15, taught by Ms. Michaela O'Brien, and English 360, Southern Literature, on Monday and Wednesday at 6 p.m., taught by Dr. Virginia Hinton.

During the day, Dr. Martha Bargo will teach English 311, Advanced Composition, on Monday, Wednesday, Friday at 8 a.m.; Dr. Mary Zoghby, English 401, History of the English Language, MWF, at 12:45 p.m.; and Dr. Elliot Hill, English 410, English Drama to 1642, also MWF, at 9:35 a.m.

In addition, two sophomore-level electives in English are scheduled. Dr. John Greider is scheduled to teach English 203, English Literature to 1800, at 6 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday, and Dr. Don Russ, English 221, American Literature to 1865, at 11 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday.

Cooperative study, internship, and directed study courses will also be available.

Serving people is aim of Political Science

If you want a major that capitalizes on your love for people, desire for broad liberal education, and the rewards of serving people then you need to talk about career opportunities with any of the faculty in the Department of Political Science and Sociology.

The Department of Political Science and Sociology offers four degree programs: an Associates Degree in social services and Bachelors Degrees in political science and public and social services. There are currently over 200 students majoring in these programs.

This department also provides supporting courses for international affairs, women's studies, and legal studies and education. New minors have been developed in anthropology and geography.

Students are finding these disciplines attractive because they can find areas of employment both in the public and private sectors. Students are able to acquire the personal interaction and problem solving skills to give them the competitive edge in administrative and executive positions. These disciplines give the student the opportunity to develop leadership ability, planning and organizational skills, as well as build sensitivity for human concerns.

Our subject matter assists the student in developing reasoning and analytical skills and build competence in oral and written communication. Our department also enables students to acquire skills in statistical analysis and computer usage.

Our programs contain a co-op or internship component that enables students to gain valuable "on job" experience before graduation. Our course plans also prepare our students for graduate and professional training.

The pre-law club provides an active support base for students preparing for legal careers. The political science club stimulates interest in current political events; and Pi Sigma Alpha confers honors upon outstanding students.

KC prepares future teachers

The Department of Curriculum and Instruction offers programs in undergraduate and graduate teacher education. Undergraduate students are offered programs in Elementary Education (K4- and 4-8) and in Secondary Education (7-12).

Secondary teacher education includes programs in Biology, Chemistry, English, History, Mathematics, and Social Studies. Programs in Art and Music Education (K-12) are also offered.

The Masters of Education program for Elementary Education (K-4, 4-8) students began in the spring of 1985. Currently, some ninety students are enrolled in graduate studies.

Students graduating in Teacher Education have consistently led the state in scores on the Teacher Certification Test and the Teacher Performance Assessment Instrument. Successful completion of both are required for certification in the state of Georgia.

We have a four phase professional sequence designed to provide a broad understanding of the processes of teaching and learning from which the student is able to develop and refine a repertoire of teaching skills. Teaching field courses and field experiences are carefully interwoven throughout the professional sequence to ensure that our students have ample opportunities to apply their knowledge of educational theory to practice in a variety of situations.

One unique feature of our professional sequence is Education 099 which is a seminar designed to look at what is involved in teacher preparation and in being a professional educator. This course is the first course taken by all teacher preparation students.

Field experiences began early in the program and continue throughout it. Students are actively participating in classroom settings for approximately 200 hours before they begin their student teaching. The instructor of a course which has a field experience also supervises the students in the field.

The Department of Curriculum and Instruction endeavors to work closely with all teacher preparation students through advisement. All teacher education faculty advise K-4, and 4-8 teacher preparation students.

Representatives from the departments offering secondary degree programs advise the secondary students. The on-going advisement process helps us to anticipate problems and needs of the students while providing the students with a source of information and help in academic and programmatic matters.

The major goal of the Department of Curriculum and Instruction is to prepare quality professional educators, and caring individuals.
