Black Officer Fired

Cobb County's only black police officer, Albert J. Thornton, was fired Monday by Cobb Public Safety Director Robert Bghtower. He was hired Feb. 22, 1974. It was only about two weeks ago that the Marietta Police Department's only black was dismissed. Thornton was fired for "unbecoming conduct and insubordination" and Summerlin was forced to "resign".

Patty Hearst Revisited

Patty Hearst, past darling of the very rich, one-time revolutionary-criminal, is now in the hands of the very system that created her in the first place - and it will be quite interesting to witness the results of the proceedings.

But, for whatever is the final decree on Patty Hearst the person now in "protective custody", the Patty Hearst case is classic and of extraordinary social and political importance to those who are sensitive to what the American social system should be all about.

One cannot accept with any relish the abduction of a young woman in her night clothing against her will on the part of any group. And this analysis will not in any manner support such a perverted invasion of one's privacy on the part of social pirates - who call themselves revolutionaries. But the Patty Hearst case is a little more than being abducted(should we take that act as a fact). The case is a commentary on the very real and dangerous predicament in which the American society finds itself, a condition from which its very soul cannot apparently be extrapolated.

Patty Hearst, if nothing else, points out the fact that all the money in the world will not save humanity; that owning all the chains in the universe comes to nothing when the principles of justice, honesty, equality and truth have been put on the scaffold and wrong is on the throne. Wealth was not able to bring Patty Hearst back and it was not able to prevent her abduction. It is not able to keep the hundreds of thousands of white children from running away from home and it cannot make them return. For with the lost of one value system and the assumption of another things get turned around: good for some and not so good for others.

Money represents all that we as a society have come to stand for. One can get the president and all his associates killed for money. Enough money and one will have P-3...
White Power Black Powerlessness

The series of meetings blacks have held with the city of Marietta in an effort to address obvious and unquestionable grievances is but another episode in a long train of powerlessness facing white racism and indifference: blacks are unorganized, and, therefore, powerless, the city of Marietta being organized, and powerful (when it comes to disunified groups like the leadership in Marietta's black community), can afford the luxury of total indifference.

The forces at work in such confrontations are identifiable if blacks are sensitive to power and influence in the community of the body politic.

The first reality of social organization is that power only resides in groups - not in individuals. No individual can be a power force unto himself/herself, regardless of how well meaning, right, honest or just one happens to be. Real and meaningful power accrues to those who have unified their goals and objectives, agreed on methodology, selected a direction, chosen a spokesperson, informed a constituency and recognize both the short and long range consequences of a given action or posture. Scattered and loosely related individuals will never be able to accomplish anything. Not because what is desired is not good, but rather because the road to accomplish what is desired is not chosen. One's decisions will finally determine one's destiny. Those who choose the transient and immediate glare of the limelight for the temporary satisfaction of their own selfish egos will find that the ego is in constant need of being satisfied and there is just not enough limelight to make the ultimate satisfaction.

The second reality that the black community in groups to grapple with in Marietta is that the city of Marietta, Mayor, city attorney, city manager and the city Council could care less about racist remarks being made about black people. They, by their actions, indicate that they in fact share the city attorney's point of view. Which should at this point in our history in American society be no surprise. The city attorney, like too many of his associates, neighbors, point in our history, in American society, come as no surprise. The city attorney, like too many of his friends, associates, neighbors, relatives, ancestors and political cronies, refuse to see the long and dirty history that now haunts this society torn to shreds. He will not see that it was whites who made the unlawful entry into Africa and stole the bodies of our people through a false religion and a hypocritical system of ethics that led them to feel a masquerading comfort in the misguided assumption that they were to be the saviors of the black race. He will not open his books to the fact that his fathers and grandfathers were the criminals who spread their sperm and violence over three continents and are now being called to judgment. His reading habits cease when he turns the page to where black men, women and children were made to pick and chop cotton, pull corn, plough from sun up until sundown, wash and scrub floors, clean white babies and nurses them into healthy lives while black babies died from malnutrition; to where sons, husbands and fathers had to watch mothers, wives and daughters raped and ravished with no recourse but silence - or the hangman's noose or castration; to where blacks were not allowed to read and learn, to study and to think, to become fully human. He is dumb, as most whites claim to be when they are made to understand that we now know exactly where all the skeletons are hidden and the temporary efforts on the part of insignificant people like a city attorney who would publicly display his racism and reflect on his profession in a futile effort to impede the progress of the black community is to be more a case for genuine pity than anger. He does not know, unfortunately, that what Mr. James Baldwin says is true: "the world is white no longer and will never be white again".

Marietta city attorney Lynn Downey, Felmer Cummins, ministar Eastham and the rest of the sp-called pack that pretends to be a friend of the black community are only seeking to save themselves, politically, at the expense of black people. The city of Marietta has not proposed one single program for the development of one single black community in the Marietta area. And the city of Marietta has every conceivable problem: crime, drugs, dope, juvenile delinquency, housing, health care, welfare, malnutrition and education. But they have, for years been able to "speak nicely to the little black children" and get cred- it for being "with the black folk". The evidence of the black community is evidence enough: nothing is being done.

The asinine remarks by one holding a position where a group of people reside under his political jurisdiction and juridical posture cannot be forgiven by a simple and meaningless apology. The city attorney who takes such a position about a group of people needs to be fired as city attorney and disbarred from the practice of law.

By being in a position to represent all citizens of the equitable and objective basis and to insure the equal protection of the law, the city attorney has made it clear that he is prejudiced against a group of people based on the color of their skin. Which in fact means that that group will not receive equal protection under his legal posture, which means in fact that with blacks under the present Marietta city attorney the question of equal protection under the law does not exist.

The "liberal" councilman Felmer Cummins conceded that the black community is "owed" an apology, the Mayor does not feel that the city attorney meant did not really mean all "blacks as a whole. What the Mayor did not say is that... "they", "their", and "they were born with black skin", in the en- glish language indicate not singular nor plural references. And while it would not be the better part of wisdom to concede that the city attorney is too intelligent, we are not prepared to believe that he was really talking about one or two blacks in particular or he could have named them in his brief and they could have defended themselves. No, a thousand times NO, the city attorney spoke his racist mind and he must be made to understand that he too comes under the judgment of the law, and professional scrutiny. The Marietta city Council may go along as if it is in the Dark Ages, because they have an intelligence level that is commensurate with the Stone Age, but it in point of fact exists in the 20th century in a democratic society, where the court of last resort is the will of the people.

I saw a sign in one of our schools which read: "IN CASE OF TORNADO THE SUPREME COURT RULING PROHIBITING PRAYER IS TEMPORARILY SUSPENDED". Which reminded me of the story about the four students who were down on their knees in the corner of a school room. "What do you think you're doing", their teacher asked with alarm. "We're shooting dice", one of them confessed. "Oh, that's alright replied the teacher, "I thought you were praying'.

It is a fact that black women have through the years become so involved with white beauty standards until we cannot recognize and appreciate our own black standards of beauty. In the years between 1961 to the present grave attempts have been made to truly identify black beauty and the characteristics of black beauty standards.

Black women are guilty of submitting their minds to the teachings and training of cultural classical whites and brainwashed Negro’s who emphasize fair skin, straight hair and European characteristics. Never in our bicentennial years until recently has dark skins, nappy natural hair and African characteristics been considered beautiful in the eyes of American beholders, black or white. Our true and natural characteristics were considered liabilities to dehumanize and oppress with "justification". Such negative connotations have become implicit and explicit in the social and cultural conditioning razored their way into our subconscious to such an extent that black mothers, in spite of themselves, reject their own children, especially when the children are very dark and nappy headed.

When we understand conditioning of the past we can truly grow to respect and love ourselves and our brothers and sisters. We as black people must become frontrunner for a united victory for ourselves. Together, respecting, recognizing and loving one another. We can define beauty along the way.

Beauty standards, however, is but one puzzling subject for our community - especially for the black woman. Love is another. Increasingly more black women are becoming heads of households in urban and rural areas. Most of these women raise their children through much pain and sacrifice.

Many black women who find themselves in these circumstances occupy a dominant position, until at such time as she "falls in love" with a man who will never take any responsibility or obligate himself in any way to her or her family. Such women then become very subordinate in order to have a "lover's masculine authority".

It is a fact that black women have through the years become so involved with white beauty according to white cultural standards until we cannot recognize and appreciate our own black standards of beauty. When the children of the "Peace Movement" went into the streets of America to march for an end to war, violence and the overt corruption in the CIA, FBI, corporations and big business - and the White House, they were jailed, called "long hairs" and Hippies and Black Militants and radicals - in an effort to denounce them as things without meaning, and therefore to be arrested, jailed, shot and in other ways abused without conscience. The students at Kent State were shot for protesting against violence; the students at Jackson State were shot protesting injustices; the students at Orangeburg were murdered in the backs for wanting the right to vote and young and idealistic students were forcibly disillusioned and made to believe that principles of nonviolence and passive resistance were dysfunctional methodologies in American society, and that anyone trying to use them would be shot down, a report would be made afterwards and it would be found to be justified. The young, and in this group it seems that the rich, affluent and urbane take the lead, began to 'understand' what the system stood for: violence, lies, distortions, crime, criminals, crooked deals, lying presidents, crooked FBI men, perverted anopers, foreign agents stuffing their own pockets at the expense of the people, Justice Departments and Attorneys Generals who would cover their wrongdoings in the name of "Law and order".

What the Patty Hearsts are made to realize is that they are faced with lashing out - and that oftentimes, violently - or living a cold-blooded lie the rest of their lives. When one is young a lie is the personification of contradiction. It is why little children are honest. They cannot perceive that something really exists and that it can be said not to exist. Thus when mother tells them to tell the bill collector that "I am not home", the child invariably says at the moment of truth: "mother told me to tell you that she is not at home today". Lying is a learned behavior. It is not something that one is born with. For a distortion of reality to be accepted one has to be trained in "doublethinking", a form of brainwashing where one sees and knows one thing to be a fact but acknowledges something else altogether.

continued from page - 3 than itself. But the conditioning of a people in organized society is social. Certain reactions can be predicted based on social forces that play on a group of individuals.

Rifle Study In King Case

MEMPHIS (UPI) - CBS, Inc., has requested access to ballistics evidence in the 1968 sniper slaying of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and a hearing has been scheduled Friday on the petition.

"Certain questions have been raised about the ballistics or firearms evidence gathered in the investigation that followed the murder of Dr. King," the petition said.

There is a question whether the bullet which killed Dr. King can be demonstrated to have come from the rifle found at the scene of the crime.
