Carol L. Martin Director of Counseling

When students are confronted with difficult and important decisions, they often desire the assistance of a competent person who is trained to deal with specific problems of college students. The office of Counseling and Guidance offers this to all students at Kennesaw Junior College. The counselors try to help students clarify educational objectives, overcome academic difficulties, develop better self-understanding and self-direction, and deal effectively with personal-social problems. They administer and interpret aptitude and intelligence tests, vocational interest inventories, and various types of personality surveys upon request by students. Also, available is a selected library of educational and occupational literature for students to use in planning careers and further education.

Roger E. Hopkins Controller

The office of the controller is the center of college financial activity. Under the direction of Mr. Roger Hopkins, this office collects all registration and matriculation fees, makes necessary refunds, pays the bills, handles faculty and staff insurance, makes up the payroll for faculty, staff, and student assistants, and issues parking decals.
