STAY AND SEE GEORGIA WEEK

For the first time in four years, the Southern Tech exhibit at Stay and See Georgia Week at Lenox Square, July 25-30, did not win an award, but it did receive enormous response from the more than 300,000 persons who passed through the mall, according to Robert Azar, director of public relations.

"The rapport between the crowd and us was excellent," said Azar, "and the interaction between our STI family and the visitors was very good."

Also, said Azar, even though we did not win an award, we still received enormous publicity with the exhibit shown on two television stations, listed in paid newspaper advertisements and the official program book.

"We talked to person from California to New York and throughout the southeast," said Azar. "Also, persons from various other countries stopped by to talk, as well as prospective students, and STI alumni."

"It takes a lot of hard work and dedicated people to build and staff an exhibit for six 12-hour days," said Azar.

According to Azar, sincere appreciation should be given to professor Ed Muller for designing the structure which was used, to physical plant for building and hauling it, and to student Tony Chupp, who created an appropriate exhibit from the structure.

Azar said he wanted to sincerely thank the following persons for staffing the exhibit:

| Students | Alumni    | Faculty |

Course fee is $90 and registration deadline is September 1. The following subjects will be covered: math, physics, chemistry statics dynamics, strength of materials, fluid mechanics, electrical theory, thermodynamics, engineering economy. Other pertinent subject matter is nucleonics, materials science, and a mock EIT exam will be provided.

Dear Editor,

You can say whatever you wish about the the campus police, but they are good people. They enforce the rules around campus even though they are real strict they are good. It seems as though there is not much said about their duties around campus. They protect the campus while you are busy or asleep during the night. It is maybe true that they give out too many tickets to students but you have to think that they are getting paid to protect the students from harm but some students do not appreciate it at all. Again—
THANK-YOU!!!

Well people can say whatever they wish about the maintenance people around here but they do the job. All of the work around campus may not be done immediately but it is done and with no complaints from anyone. Who else gets out to cut the grass around here. Also notice that they service anything else even on weekends, what about that? But it seems as though people are not satisfied with the work that they do, but some one has been watching you. THANK-YOU for a job well done. Check it out students!!!!

Dear Editor,

Being a dorm supervisor for four quarters, three of which were in Dorm II, I see much destruction in the dorms. This greatly influences dorm fees that you are now paying and will continue to pay as long as you live in the dorms at Southern Tech.

After a lengthy conversation with Mr. Agee of the Physical Plant, I composed a list of damagages (1976-77 academic year) in Dorm II with brief descriptions of each:
windows broken (approximately 50)
ceiling tiles, torn out (approximately 400)
many fire extinguishers discharged
a few cooking room fire extinguishers stolen
several urinals disassembled bathroom walls defaced
several hundred rolls of tissue thrown in toilets and all over campus
3 exit lights stolen
1 glass door broken
hall trash cans destroyed door locks having to be repaired (approximately 50, from gum or glue being put in them.)

Workers are still at Dorm II and complete information as to damages will not be known until they finish.

During this time period, damages at Dorm I were negligible.

I find as a whole the students at Dorm I to be good students and respectful of school property. The problems at Dorm II which are costing us all are caused by only a few undeserving and undesirable people.

Criminal charges should be made against these few. If not, all of us will continue to pay and pay in the form of higher fees.

George Caldwell

Dear Editor,

Some people seem to think that the supervisors' parking lot is a free-for-all spot for their cars. No one is supposed to park there except the supervisors in the dorm. It is very disheartening to come back to the dorm from home or work, and find the parking spaces taken. We supervisors earned the right to park in our parking lot, and we ask that the students (and their guests) respect that right.

Thank-you,
Anne Loehr
