"Ask The President"

by Barry Bynum

"There is definitely a problem with communication..." says Southern Tech President Dr. Cheshier. That seemed to be the stem of most of the problems and questions brought out at STI's first "Ask the President" session held on Monday, July 20. This session was an 'open forum' between Dr. Cheshier and the student body. Sponsored by the Student Government Association, the session brought out many concerns of the students.

The main area of concern seemed to be fees which included the parking fee. It was asked if the over 600% increase in the parking fee would get students more services. In response, the president said that students should see twenty-four hour protection from the campus police department including someone being in the police station 24 hours. He went on to say that a lot of the money would be used to level out and repave the old drive-in parking lot, and to build two more bridges going into the drive-in lot from the dorms. The next question concerning parking was why hit the students all at once; why not raise the parking fee a little a quarter and not the full $10. The president felt it would be better for the administration to "bite the bullet" and take the consequences because it takes big money to pave a 19 acre lot, and to pay personnel to man the police department.

Another area of concern was the fee increase of tuition and the amount of notice the students were given. It was asked, why the school did not sent out notices of the increase until just before the beginning of the quarter? (note - the school sent out notices about one week before the beginning of summer quarter but if your official address is a campus P.O. then you did not get your notice until the day you were required to pay your fees). The president explained that the Board of Regents would not allow him to announce a fee increase until the board passed it and the board did not announce the statewide 15% increase in tuition until almost the end of June. The student went on to ask the president why the school did not give students a few extra days to pay the increase in fees because when he came back to school and found out the increase was in effect, he did not have the money to pay the extra cost and was forced to pay hefty late fee. The president said there were loans available for this. The student pointed out that the deadline had already passed for short-term loans. Dr. Cheshier said that the school supposedly moved the date for payment of late fees back one day.

Another important area that was discussed is the current overcrowding situation at the STI library. Currently the library has only 180 seats for students to study. One student pointed out that with the added degrees starting up during the next couple of quarters the library will be adding books in those fields. He asked the president where the new books were going to be put. The student went on to ask who was going to win - the students or the books. Dr. Cheshier said he has been taking every legislator he could get to tour the library and see the over crowded conditions and said that the Board of Regents was aware of the situation. He said that there was a priority list that the school has for new buildings and additions. On that list, number one is a new academic building and tied for second is a dining facility and the library. The school was funded for the design of a new academic building this year and it will take time to get the funding for the rest of the buildings.

The Co-operative Education program was also discussed at the forum. A student asked why academic credit was not given for the educational experience that he gets while working a co-op job. The president explained that the school has a problem determining what the student learns in the field and that with the addition of people to go into the field and check on students, it might be possible to give some sort of academic co-op credit. This brought Dr. Cheshier to the point of

Fact Finding Mission by Monica T. Durden

PROBLEM: When a student is frozen, he will not be able to make loan payments, even when due, until his other financial obligations are fulfilled. Why is this so?

SOLUTION: Clearly, avoid the hassle. Pay all outstanding debts whether they be library fines or parking debts, as soon as you possibly can.

FACTS:

Adam was unable to repay his emergency loan because he had an outstanding parking violation. The loan payment was in the amount of $50.00 and the parking violation in the amount of $5.00. It seemed most unreasonable that Southern Tech would refuse a $50.00 payment in lieu of a $5.00 fine. Adam had just enough money to pay off the loan which was due. Policy states that late payments of loans constitutes never receiving another in the future from Southern Tech. The fact that Adam must pay a $5.00 parking debt before he can relinquish a $50.00 debt, both to the school, prompted Barry Bynum and Monica Durden to find out why.

The process was short and simple. After having verified that Barry was frozen by campus safety for a parking violation, an attempt was made to make payment on his outstanding short term loan. Indeed, he was unable to pay because he was frozen. Successive steps include a visit to the offices of J.R. Robertson, the Vice President of Business and Finance and Sam Baker, the Assistant to the President of the College. Mr. Robertson was more than happy to offer explanation for a seemingly illogical situation. Barry could have made payment on his loan, but with cash only, without paying the parking fine, the reason being unrelated to any bad checks Barry may have written in the past. Barry's record in that regard was clean. When a student is frozen, he loses all his rights and privileges as a Southern Tech student. He no longer has check cashing privileges, no information about him can be requested through the registrar's office, (transcripts, enrollment verification, etc.), his grades are held, he can no longer apply for and receive short term or emergency loans, and he will not be able to register for the following quarter.

The Business office uses the policy of not accepting checks for payment of loans as a defense mechanism to have students clear all debts before the beginning of the quarter. When paying by check to the institution, you are utilizing your check cashing privileges. If the check is accepted, it is just as if the school cashed it for you and gave you cash to repay your loan. That is why cash payments will be accepted when a student is frozen.

Mr. Baker, admiring the student concern, agrees that such a policy could make you delinquent on both counts. Why shouldn't a student be able to pay the greater of two debts, especially since he'll never be able to receive another loan if he is late on payment. However, it appears that if you want to pay off a debt, you must stay out of debt. Parking violations are the greatest source of delinquent student debt, and the greatest source of headache and frustration for everybody concerned during registration. The sooner you can "force" students to clear up their financial obligations, the more swift the registration process in some cases.

Remember: When as a student you are frozen, for any reason, you are stripped of all your student services privileges, even and up to paying back a loan.

Letters To The EDITOR

July 23, 1982

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to Allen Bearden's article concerning the C-5 and Congressman Larry McDonald.

Mr. Bearden states that "we should not be too optimistic about the chances of the C-5 when our best chance has never passed a single bill." Since when does passing a lot of bills make a congressman effective? When more legislation is passed you can count on more regulations and more restrictions on our lives. Congressman McDonald pledged to vote for less government interference and I believe he has done an outstanding job.

Concerning the C-5, Mr. Bearden should be aware that Lockheed president Robert Ormsby wrote a letter-to-the-editor of the "Atlanta Journal" recently and said in effect that the entire Georgia delegation including Congressman McDonald, was working diligently for passage of the C-5 proposal.

According to an Atlanta Journal staff writer, a congressman from Georgia stated that "everybody hates McDonald." However, Congressman McDonald has obtained sworn affidavits from all nine fellow Georgians in the House denying that they made such a statement. Consequently, Congressman McDonald has filed a libel suit against the publisher of the Atlanta Journal.

Finally, on July 21, the C-5 proposal was easily passed in the House and I'm sure Mr. Bearden won't give our congressman credit for that.

Sincerely,
 Walt Banks

Dear Mme. Editor:

On Wednesday, July 28th a political rally was held at the rock for Republican candidate Richard Castellucis. Prior to this event, i.e. four (4) days prior, a huge banner was posted in the Student Center and numerous handbills were put up all over campus announcing the event. Which, incidentally, was held at 12:00 noon, so as not to interfere with many classes or other events.

With these facts in mind, I would like to comprehend the small number, approximately fifty (50), of students, faculty, and staff that attended. I grow so sick and tired of hearing these people bellyache about raised tuition, taxes, percentage rates and the other "high costs of living"; that I wonder about their education and upbringing. I don't even want to try and understand people anymore, who gripe and then bury their heads in sand, "waiting for the rains to end."

It's incomprehensible and disconcerting to try to talk to these apathetical, unfeeling, pacifistic, non-doers. I am not, and haven't ever promoted the greatness of being a Republican. No one ever did that to me. But one thing that helped me years ago, was the feeling to know that I can make a difference. My vote does count, and yours does, too!

Students, and anyone else in engineering and engineering technology, owe it to themselves to get involved, and I don't mean stand off at a distance and declare your concern, I mean involved. We are the artisans and craftsmen/women of the future. We are the ones who will work steadily, pay taxes, and have 2.4 children. We are the public. It is we who will "bear the burden" of inflation and crucified economics of which we have inherited. If we don't speak out, nobody else will. It's that simple.

Now let me climb down off my soap box for a minute, and talk to you student-to-student. Aren't you tired of being kept in the dark? Like being a mushroom? Well, I don't either, but I don't sit and suck sympathy out of a "col' beer" everytime I get the shaft. I voice my opinions. I write my elected officials, and when that doesn't work, I do my damndest to see that they get voted out. How do I do it? No, I don't take Geritol everyday. I VOTE AT ELECTION TIME!!

I'll quit now with a favorite quote of mine, that spells out the apathy that occurs on this campus as a normal circumstance:

"In Germany, they came first for the Communists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Communist. Then they came for the Jews, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Jew. Then they came for the trade unionists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a trade unionist. Then they came for the Catholics, and I didn't speak up because I was a Protestant. Then they came for me, and by that time no one was left to speak up." — Martin Nimoeller fees. He said that sometime during the next year co-op students will have to start paying some sort of fee to be considered part of the co-op program during the quarter that student is working. This will enable the college to show that the co-op student is registered during the quarter he is working. It will also allow the co-op office to keep offering the services that it is offering once the $900,000.00 grant it received has expired.

The question that prompted this discussion on co-op was why the administration sent notices to the student's bank saying he was no longer a full-time student. The student's bank requires that he start repaying his guaranteed student loan if he were no longer in school, but the student had earlier been told co-ops were full-time students. When that student went to the administration building he was told by someone that they did not know that co-op students were considered full-time. This also stemmed a discussion on the lack of communication at STI.

The president was also asked by the manager of the radio station why when he sent a new freshman who was registered for five hours to pay his student activity fee (which is a voluntary fee if you are registered for less than six hours) the student was told that he had to pay a 22.50 late fee on a 21.00 student activity fee. The president said that he felt that was a bit extreme and he gave some philosophy on the subject, but the main idea was that he would definitely check the situation out.

On the question about lack of communication, the president said that he felt there was definitely a problem with communication at the college. The problem even goes back as far as administrators not communicating with each other. Dr. Cheshier said that sometimes each administrator gets so caught up in the workings of his department that he doesn't let the other administrators know what he is doing. As far as the communication with students, the president said the only means of communicating with the students is through the campus radio station WGHR, the STIng newspaper, and the Student Government association. He said that he would try to make sure that these three organizations were well informed about the happenings on the campus.

Over all this was a very good forum. Most of the students went away feeling a lot better about some of the problems at STI. This was sponsored by the student government association and was broadcast live on WGHR (102 FM) and was rebroadcast last week. President Cheshier was assisted in answering questions by Dean Charles Smith, Dean of Students; Dr. Travis Harris, Vice President of Academic Affairs,

The Student Government Speaks . . .

Student Government Opportunities

There are still many positions available in the Student Government Association for those qualified students (2.0 GPA, 35 hours) who are interested. Included are CO-OP representative (2), representative at Large, (3), and AET representative, a CET representative, a MET representative, a TET representative, and a Night School representative. Anyone interested needs to pick up a petition from the SGA Vice President's office, fill it out, and return the completed form through the slot in the Vice President's door. Also, all members and interested students must attend the next meeting Thursday, 12 August 1982 (location to be announced).

From Tobin's Desk

The "Ask the President" session held by Dr. Cheshier on the 19th of July was very productive. If you missed it, he will be conducting another one on August 18 at noon in Ballroom A in the Student Center. Be there if you have had any problems with the STI system or have any questions that you would like to ask our President.

More From Tobin's Desk

The lobbying efforts of Dr. Cheshier, STI's President, and his staff have succeeded in getting the Board of Regents to approve an allocation for the design money for a new academic building for our school. This is a very important first step in actually getting the building built. The project is budgeted for $3.5 million. The new building would be more than twice as any of our current academic buildings. LOOKS GOOD!!

STI's enrollment rose 12.7% in 1982 as compared to 1981.

The Student Government Association thanks Dean Smith, Sue Konrad, Barbara Anderson, and Nancy Schmidt for taking part in our recent goals workshop.

and J.R. Robertson, Vice President of Business and Finance. If you are interested in hearing the program again, WGHR will broadcast it one last time on Wednesday, August 4 at 2:00 p.m.

Castellucis For Congress

On Wednesday of this week Richard Castellucis, Republican candidate for U.S. Congress in the Seventh Congressional District, held a political rally here at the Rock. Many turned out in support of Castellucis and were impressed with his views on how our national problems should be addressed.

'What Would You Ask The President?'

by Monica T. Durden

This reporter set out to find out what people thought of the "Ask the President" session. Administrators and student leaders, alike, are concerned about the lack of communication and publicity at Southern Tech.

- 1) Was the session publicized enough?
- 2) Had you known about it, would you have been there?
- 3) Are such informal talks a good idea?
- 4) Are there any specific questions you would have asked the president?

Here are the responses:

Ms. Ann Westlake: "I thought it (the session) was very interesting. I listened to the whole thing. I think it should be done more often. I think the students feel better, even if they get the type of answer that they don't want, at least they can ask the question. I think a lot of the students have the same questions and if someone asks it, they're all relieved. I have been at Southern Tech a long time, and I have seen many students very frustrated because they just didn't know who to complain to when they had a problem. This method of questions and answers is a great method of relieving the student of his bitterness and misunderstanding of many situations on campus. We should have these sessions periodically."

Charles Wilson: "I didn't hear anything about it until the day of the event. Had I known, I would have gone. I was not aware it was broadcast a second time on Thursday. I think the sessions are a good idea. Students can get first hand information rather than just hearsay. Attendance will improve once the students realize you get first hand information from the administration. If I had been there, I would have asked about fee changes, but what I would really like to see is a regular column in the paper from the president...a sort of a 'state of the affairs' sort of thing."

Scott Roberson: "Yes, I knew about the session. It really doesn't do any good but I suppose it's good for the students to be able to air their grievances. There is a severe communication problem at Southern Tech. Communication is lacking even between the administration and the faculty....Perhaps, if I had been there I would have asked about the policy on alcohol."

Kim Craig: "Yes, I think the event was well publicized. It was in the Sting and on the radio. The talk was beneficial in that it got a lot of things straightened out and emphasized the communication problems. I don't think you should have them (the sessions) as frequently as once a month. Students need time to judge the progress. If I had been there I would have asked why there was a late charge on a volun-

WHGR Announcement

Attention!!!!

The original "Ask the President" session will be rebroadcast in its entirety, for the third time on:

It will be broadcast courtesy of WHGR 102 FM, Your Radio Station! Don't Miss It!

STI Enrollment up in Spring Quarter

Enrollment at Southern Tech increased by 12.7% for spring quarter, 1982, as compared to the same time last year. The total number of students enrolled was 2,753, compared to 2,443 in Spring, 1981.

Of the 18 senior colleges and Universities in the Georgia system, only Albany State College (18.1%) and Kennesaw College (12.8%) grew faster than STI. Georgia State and Georgia Tech saw no change.

Throughout the 33-unit system, enrollment increased by 46% to 123,194. The University of Georgia is still the state's largest institution, with 23,657 enrolled for spring quarter. Georgia State was second with 19,262. Southern Tech ranks 12th.

New Academic Building slated for STI

The design for an academic building at Southern Tech has been approved by the Board of Regents. The building will include classrooms, labs, faculty offices and lecture halls. The budget for the structure is listed at 3.5 million dollars.

Several outstanding facts convinced those concerned that the building is needed. Current buildings were designed for 1800 students, while the student population is expected to top 3,000 this fall. Enrollment has increased by about 10% in each of the last two years. This will be the first new building at STI since 1965.

Design of the project has been tary activity fee payment. Also I'd like to see a more predominant women in Technology Society...one with a more sophisticated orientation program, incorporating high school students, so women will know what to expect from the institution."

Morey Grimes: (Night School) "I didn't know anything about it. I think they should have a session for night school students. Night school students are somewhat neglected although we pay student activity fees. We're usually not interested in extracurricular activities....just work and school. If I had been there I would have addressed these concerns:

1) as a CET student, I want to take mechanical courses as technical electives, but can only get architectural courses; 2) the availability of courses at night. I needed only one course for an associates and it's finally being offered again at night; 3) an organizational chart posted somewhere would help students to know who everybody is and possibly where to seek help."

Barry Bynum: "I think the president ignored the problem of the raising of the fees this quarter trying to help the students out. He kind of went contracted to Haley and Howard Architects Planners, Incorporated of Marietta.

News and Regulations from Campus Safety

ATTENTION ALL STUDENTS: Due to the many complaints of illegal parking, parking in faculty reserved spaces, and driving of unregistered cars, vehicles with three violations will be impounded at owners expense. This result in an impound fee and ticket for the violation, both of these must be paid before the vehicle will be released. Students will not be allowed to park in reserved spaces during working hours 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Also there are several lots on campus that have reserved spaces 24 hrs. a day, these spaces are clearly marked with a wide yellow line at the rear of the space. There will be no parking in these spaces at anytime.

If you have recieved a ticket this quarter and have failed to take care of it, your grades will be frozen and you will be unable to register for Fall Quarter. Tickets may be paid in the Police Dept. Monday thru Friday 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Cashiers Office Monday thru Friday 10:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

NOTICE TO STUDENT driving an unregistered vehicle. If you have a registered vehicle but need for some reason to drive another vehicle for a few days you must come by the Police Dept. and pick up a Temporary Permit.

The Police Dept. has several lost and found articles, if you have lost articles in the last few months please stop by the Police Dept. and check; Monday thru Friday 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

around that. The fact that we had our fees raised, then came back and had two days after we found out to pay this increase. Sure we knew the increase was coming but we kind of didn't put it in dollars and cents until we got back and saw that little blue slip in our boxes. And I think there should have been some way for the students to be given a few weeks to pay the increase, instead of charging us that late fee. But overall I think the session was very good. The president listened to it and a lot of things were covered in that session. One thing I've seen come out of it already is the fact that the communication was good, which seems to have been the biggest problem. Students not knowing what's going on in the administration building."

These are the opinions of a few thoughtful individuals. Why not form your own opinion. The "Ask the President" sessions are open to the students, faculty and staff at Southern and will be broadcast live on WHGR radio station.

From The Heart

Touching

Touching and being touched
Helps a person grow and survive,
It has a calming, peaceful effect
And lets you know you are alive.

It does not have to be sexual
The gentle caress of a hand
To simply stroke a lover's shoulder
Says more than many words can.

For a man to touch a woman
Or a woman to touch a man
Is to show that one truly cares,
That one loves and understands.

Yet it's difficult for strangers to do
And sometimes even for friends,
But the feeling is so very needed
I wish it would never end.

For when there is no touching People become shallow and depressed,
The meaning of life collapses
And you feel nothing but loneliness.

W.S.R.

Fawn Michelle Shelton

An enchanting lady she is
Her body absolutely divine,
But what really turns me on
Is the beauty of her mind.

The strange thing is
We are only good friends,
But I love being with her
And hate it when our time ends.

When I used to have my apartment
She would come over from time to time,
We would party alot together
And she would totally blow my mind.

My dad told me not to see her
You see, she is of another race
He threatened to cut off my inheritance

And all I could do was laugh in his face.

For if I could only marry this girl
Money we would never need,
We could easily live off our love for each other
And on ourselves joyfully feed.

On "Ask The President"

Bruce Bowen

Monday July 19th President Cheshier hosted an informal gathering of students in the Student Center Ballroom. The major topic of discussion was the enormous increase in the student parking fee. (Effective Fall Quarter student parking will jump from $6 per year to $10 Per Quarter). The president said that the current $6/yr. fee was "ridiculously low" and it "Didn't allow us to do anything." He told the students that the Drive-in had been purchased in June and although STI students had been parking there for several years (at not charge to the school) there were many "improvements" to be made now that it was school property. Some of the "improvement" he mentioned include a security fence, removal of the poles, leveling, lighting, cleaning emergency call boxes, and increased security patrols. He added that the whole police force funding came from parking and student fees; and that all money collected ($10 x 3 Qtrs. x 3000 students = $90,000) will be spent on the afore mentioned improvements (That should be quite a fence.)

President Cheshier went on to say that the new academic computer will free the administrative computer which will hopefully speed up registration. He also told of plans to move the Bookstore into a temporary building (read "trailer" behind the student center.

Hero At Large

Last week without regard to his own personal well-being, David Triple risked life and limb to rescue a 1979 Ford Mustang from drowning in a rain storm. David is a classic example of the self-less, courageous individuals to be found here at STI. His foresight and Determination will stand as a testimonial to all of us . . . who have ever left our windows down and it rained!
