STING Awarded a First Place in 1984 GCPA Better Newspaper Contest

Stephen Hoofnagle, Editor

The STING was awarded First Place for Best Campus Community Service - Sports Coverage for a Senior College with Enrollment under 7,000. Second Place was awarded to Morehouse College's The Maroon Tiger and Third Place to Georgia Southern's The George-Anne.

Judging was based on service rendered the campus community through the use of sports stories, with emphasis on depth and quality of reporting. Style, originality, and initiative were also weighed.

The awards were made at this year's Georgia College Press Association, GCPA, Workshop and Better Newspaper Contest Award Banquet, held at the Georgia Center for Continuing Education in Athens, Georgia. The Awards Banquet took place on Saturday, February 23, 1985.

This is the first such award for the STING and the first time the STING has entered the event. Plans are already under way to enter next years competition: The 1985 GCPA Better Newspaper Contest.

Student's Editorial Gets Results

Stephen Hoofnagle, Editor

An editorial entitled "Parking Blues", written by Karen Smith, appeared in the 2-12-85 issue of the STING. In this editorial Karen made a humorous and accurate point: It's difficult to remember where you parked in the front lot! Her suggestion was that "letters be pasted-up on the light poles in the parking lot".

Below, I have reproduced a memo sent to me by President Cheshier:

To: Mr. J.R. Robertson, Vice President for Business and Finance, and Mr. Jim Brown, Director of the Physical Plant

From: S.R. Cheshier

I am enclosing a copy of an article written by Ms. Karen Smith which appeared in the February 12, 1985, issue of the Sting.

Ms. Smith has an excellent idea regarding signing the parking area. I would appreciate your implementing an attractive, yet obvious signing system for all of our student parking lots. You may choose to use the lightpoles or painted letters or numbers on the asphalt or both. Please advise me as soon as possible your plan to implement this idea and the schedule for completion.

Thanks.

I can't think of a better example for reinforcing the reason for student involvement with the STING: progress! If you have a message or idea, you can make yourself heard all the way to the top.

Karen is a member of the STING staff, but letters and guest editorials are welcome from ALL members of the Southern Tech community! Information on how to submit letters may be found on page two of this and future issues of the STING.

Congratulations Karen!!!

I'm also proud to announce that Karen will become the STING Editor effective Summer Quarter, 1985. Terri Holland will be the new Assistant Editor beginning next quarter. I have every confidence that the STING and Southern Tech will prosper under their editorships.

Visitation Day

Plans are underway for Southern Tech's Visitation Day to be Friday, April 12 from 9:30 am to 2:15 pm on campus. Announcements are being sent to most high schools in the state; and, special invitations are being sent to those students who have expressed special interest in Southern Tech.

The visitation day schedule is designed to orient prospective students and parents to the academic, social, and extracurricular activities at the college.

A "Women In Technology" Day is also being planned. This event will be on Friday, April 27. This program is designed to acquaint high school women of the Atlanta area to the many opportunities available to them in the field of technology.

Southern Tech students who know of any prospective students that should be invited to the visitation days should contact the Admissions Office.

Comes The Spring

Snows cease, cold fades and warm grows the days.
Warmth chases winter's chills
Spring wings o'er the hills
Here comes the Spring
And happiest of days.

Sun beams across the floor.
Wind chills spirits no more
Birds in flight, on wing
Newness of life, colored in

Comes the Spring.

Hustle, bustle renewed

Letters

Dear Editor,

Of course there has been quite a bit of controversy over the skit night incident during homecoming festivities. Unfortunately, many people are unaware of what we're referring to because it has been so ineffectively resolved and "swept under the carpet" so I can speak. Let us clarify.

During the skit night performance, comedian Grant Turner used a racial slur while telling a joke that insulted Southern Tech's Black student body. Well, the Black Student Association and the NAACP responded by sending a letter to the administrator and student group who they felt were responsible. In that letter, they asked for a retraction to be entered in the Sting. As we read the February 26th issue, we ran upon this meek title article on the inside of the front page. The small article was sitting in the center of white space with no heading, no title, and not surprisingly, no signature from the responsible party. Of course, we know what was supposedly intended through the article, but the article would be very unclear and very vague to someone unfamiliar with the situation. The staff, faculty and other students have a right to know what's going on in this type situation.

It seems like the guilty person and student group are evading the real issue. The remark was directed at Black students, not several STI students. Plus the remarks made were ethnic, not ethnical, which seems to read as "ethical" in the article. The apology should first go directly to our Black student body and then to everyone else for such a insensitive boob-up. The article should be rephrased, and the responsible party could at least accept the responsibility for the mistake made. They are not being blamed for their choice of the comedian, but for not acting directly with the situation and handling it better. What ever happened to a good old direct apology? This entire matter could have been easily avoided if the person(s) could have admitted to this mistake up front, properly resolved it by directly apologizing to the Black students, and by putting a much better retraction in the paper.

Hopefully, the controversy will spark the individual(s) responsible to be more effective in dealing with this type situation the next time. However, we hope there won't be a next time for such an unexcusable, poorly handled situation.

Sincerely,
Angry, Frustrated and Very Dissatisfied

Dear Editor,

The letter in the last issue of Sting, WHO IS OUR HOMECOMING QUEEN concerns me. First of all, I didn't even go to the Homecoming dance and I knew who won the contest that evening and I congratulate Miss Slaughter. I'm sure she is one of the most personable, charming, intelligent, and lovely young ladies on Southern Tech's Campus.

What bothers me is the mere statement "Unfortunately, this years tradition was altered. "Why? Could it be because this year's queen is black? Is this a valid statement or is it just another excuse to try to prove that everyone is out to screw black people?"

If anyone should get mad about racism, it should be the white people. Black people have their Black History Month, their Black Music Awards, their Black Miss America, their United Negro College fund, their own fraternities and sororities, their own Black Student Association and the list goes on and on.

If someone gets mad at a mere probable misunderstanding, I wonder what the blacks think if the whites had a White History Month, White Music awards, White Miss America, United White College fund, our own white fraternities and sororities and our own White Student Association. Of course I have no inclination to start any such racial organizations.

My colleagues and I do not consider ourselves prejudiced, but we are concerned about those who might think we are. I would appreciate if the next time a mild informality occurs such as this, it might be handled differently instead of involving racism.

Signed,
BOTHERED

Dear Pondering,

This is a response to your letter in February's Sting. As a student who chose to go directly to Steve Holtz for my inquiries, I know the answers to your questions.

Since you haven't gone to Steve Holtz, directly, with your questions, and have so much to complain about, maybe you should go try to find another place to live for $275 a quarter.

Signed,
"Informed and Contented"
Buddy Jones

P.S. I'm even not afraid to sign my name.

Dear Editor,

Work out? Certainly not at Southern Tech. The STI weight room is a sight to behold; it is equipped with one outdated universal weight machine, one lat. pull machine, and one universal leg machine. No student could ever possibly receive a decent workout from this poor, obsolete gym equipment. Everyone knows in order to get physically in shape he has to pump real free-weight iron.

Southern Tech has well over 1,000 students enrolled in its classes. How can a 10 by 40 foot homely weight room accommodate the workout desires of these students? The students have started one free weight room located at Norton Dorm. The weights are tolerable to use, but the room is about the size of a compact form room. This undersized room is too small to accommodate more than five people at a time; furthermore, there are not enough weights or benches to go around.

Just recently the school has installed an unnecessary heating and air conditioning split system in the so-called STI weight room. I know this system must have cost over $2,000 -- what a waste of money. For what the school paid for this equipment, it could have bought the best line of free weights and several different types of weight benches.

To solve the problem the school needs to either find or build a bigger weight room to serve the students' physical needs. If the school can furnish offices to all the different types of organizations, why doesn't the school have a weight room to serve all students? Something should be done to solve this problem because I don't want to walk around looking like a hopeless case of anorexia.

Signed,
The Savage

Dear "Pondering"

JERKS like you should keep their mouth shut and live somewhere else!

Poolology 101

Upon returning from the southern-most reaches of the U.S. or the comforts of the family rooms in their homes, several Roanoke College students returned from Spring Break '80 to face one of the most enjoyable classes taught at Roanoke with one of the toughest tests. The class is Poolology 101. The teacher is, Jack White. The test is the annual Jack White Pool Tournament, and the years tournament was as grueling as ever.

During his visit, Jack White, the internationally famous pocket billiards and trick shot artist, entertained many members of the college community with classes in the fundamentals of pool, demonstrations of the world's best trick shots (now under study by the world famous Physics department at Roanoke College) and his very own, unique sense of humor. In the midst of his entertainment, he held a three-day pool tournament which boiled down to a 14½ hour round-robin playoff for the 12 male finalists, and 5 hours for the women. The winners of the Women's Division were: 1st place, PAGE (Page Kenyon); 2nd place, FOXY LADY (Kris Anderson), FRANK BOMB (Frank Greenbaum) placed first in the Men's Division followed by: BAD JAMES (James Dennis), 2nd place; and JAY BIRD (Jay Miller) taking 3rd place. Each of the male finalists played over sixty-four games in their 14-hour debut.

To the upper-classmen at Roanoke College, Jack's annual appearance has become another sign of spring. Although his poolhall candor may scare some of the ladies away, all who participated in his program really like the guy. Jack was born in New York City and raised in Pittsburgh by a family of professionals in the pool business. At 15, he was the youngest touring professional pool player in the world. He has played such celebrities as Minnesota Fats, Jackie Gleason, and BAD JAMES of R.C. The only pool player ever to be invited to the White House, Jack also holds an honorary "Doctor of Poolology" degree from Notre Dame University. The frills go on—but not as far as his talent. His high run in pocket billiards is 319 balls; he claims a perfect 147 point snooker game and a high run of 12 balls in three-cushion billiards. Believe it or not, his warmth and concern for young people even goes further. Jack loves visiting colleges and universities and he certainly enjoys coming to Roanoke, as is proven by his ability to remember our names and his willingness to make new friends, not to mention his rap with the babes.

At The Movies

Ed Puglia, Staff Writer

Sylvester, the movie debut of Melissa Gilbert, is about a small town girl in Marfa, Texas, who's life dream is to train horses. When Carlie Railsberg (Melissa Gilbert) is confronted with having to put her two brothers in a boys home because of her parents' deaths, she turns to John Foster (Richard Farnsworth) for help. After sorting out a few problems, Farnsworth and Gilbert come to an agreement where Farnsworth will teach Gilbert to compete in the Three Day Eventing. Through good and bad times, Matt Grey (Michael Schoeffling) sticks with Gilbert to the end.

Gilbert adds a special feeling to the movie because of her lack of "Little House on the Prairie" character involved in the picture. Melissa Gilbert adds a new yet familiar role to the movie. Richard Farnsworth is a veteran of the business who adds a sense of professionalism to the film. Michael Schoeffling does a superb job of playing the helpful and caring boyfriend, who has difficulty getting his point across to Gilbert.

A very touching movie about a girl's determination to prove to everyone she can make it on her own. It is as inspiring as Rocky. It makes you want to go horseback riding. Sylvester will be premiering in six major cities March 15 and nationwide on April 12.

Sometime later the two get married, and the trouble starts to roll in.

The Slugger Wife was a well directed and finely produced film that portrays the life of an Atlanta Brave trying to cope with an on the go wife. Michael O'Keefe and Rebecca De Mornay bring to life a funny yet caring picture that captures the audience's attention from the beginning to the end. This movie definitely rates four stars on my list; it's a must see. If you had to choose one film to see all year, I would suggest the Slugger's Wife.

Thanks

A big thanks to all the organizations who entered the Homecoming competitions! The school was well represented with entries from six fraternities: Lambda Chi Alpha, Pi Kappa Phi, Sigma Nu, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Sigma Pi, and Tau Kappa Epsilon; both sororities: Alpha Delta Pi and Gamma Phi Beta; the Baptist Student Union, the Black Student Association, the Student Government Associations, the STI Log, WGHR-Radio, the Women's Basketball team, Norton Dorm, Executive Round Table, and Associated Builders and Contractors.

Congratulations to Gamma Phi Beta who really shined this year by winning the first place trophy in Skit Night and first place in the Banner Contest. Also, congratulations to the Black Student Association who picked a winner with Ms. Radianne Slaughter, our Homecoming Queen, 1985. Best Wishes Radianne! The outstanding '85 Homecoming Court also includes Ms. Denneen Sorrells, 1st runner up, sponsored by BSU; Ms. Georgiana Conger, 2nd runner up, sponsored by Gamma Phi Beta; Ms. Leslie Smith, 3rd runner up, sponsored by Pi Kappa Phi; and Ms. Lynn Fielder, 4th runner up, sponsored by Alpha Delta Pi and Sigma Pi.

Also to be recognized for their hard work are Tau Kappa Epsilon, 2nd place, Skit Night and 2nd place, Banner Contest; and Alpha Delta Pi, 3rd place, Skit Night; and Sigma Nu, 3rd place, Banner Contest.

The CAB appreciates any suggestions that you have made and has already planned some changes to make the Homecoming Week programs even better next year! Thanks again for your support.

CAB Presents Regency

Karen Smith, Staff Writer

A few short weeks ago, Southern Tech was paid a visit by a singing group called "Regency". Regency specializes in gospel and other forms of classical music. The five member group has a sound that resembles the "Temptations". Also they sing several classics by the "Temptations".

Dressed in white-striped, navy blue jogging suits, Regency jogged onto the stage. After fine-tuning their voices, they began singing.

Their bass singer was like their beat because the tempo of their songs revolved around him. One of the first songs they performed was in a spotlight dedication of "Happy Birthday" -- in "Temptation" style.

After the dedication, the lead went back on stage, and the bass kicked off a new beat which turned out to be the renowned, "My Girl". Along with this "Temptation" classic, they synchronized some of the "Temptation's" basic moves. Next, the bass changed pace to lead into "Please Don't Leave Me Girl", followed by "It Was Just My Imagination". While singing this song, they decided to let their imagination flow. They did so by humorously conversing with a chosen person in the audience.

Their next dedication was to all the "good men in the house." The leader, at this time, told the audience what he thought a good woman was. Naturally, this was probably the most responsive segment of the performance. In this biased review, the speaker made a good woman sound like a turtle. He stated that, "a good woman would forgive her man if he stayed out late at night," and that "a good woman would cook, clean, take care of the kids, and never ask for money." There was more to the characteristics of a so-called "good woman", but the speaker felt a little guilty and decided to ask a woman what a good man was. One response was that a "good man" would cook, clean, and help the wife. Immediately, there were rejections, and the bass singer started a new beat. The next song was entitled, "I Don't Want Her".

After having sung and laughed through nearly an hour of time, they committed themselves to the requests of the audience. They ended their performance with songs by the Platters, "Pretending", Earth, Wind and Fire, Duke Earl, Prince and The Time must say that for anyone who missed Regency's performance, not only missed their good sounds, but also missed lots of laughs. For those who attended, I'm sure they all left on a natural high.

How Not To Buy A Used Car

Ralph Ellis, Staff Writer

About one year ago, I bought a used car. This purchase was something of a mistake because one year later, this car has yet to serve as transportation. At greatest, it's an eyesore. In order to save others from similar tragedies, I'll recap the events of this mistake.

First, the basic rules:

1. Really need a car.
2. Buy a relatively common car.
3. Buy a car that can easily be repaired.
4. Buy a car that is as fully functional as possible.
5. Buy a car that runs decently if not well.
6. Test drive the car and make sure it doesn't shimmy, shake or vibrate.
7. Buy a car with as good a body as possible including no rust, dents, bondo and never having been wrecked.

If you follow these basic rules, you'll probably have a pretty good car. If it needs repair, it probably won't cost much. Used cars can be a blessing or a curse. In some cases it's difficult to tell one from the other.

Well I broke most of those rules and although I don't regret it actually, I know I could have done better. If you see my present car, you'll know I need a car. I didn't really need the car I bought though. I bought a 1976 Mazda Cosmo. Broken Rule No. 2: This isn't a very common car. As a matter of fact, the car was made three years, 76-78 and was replaced in 1979 by the Mazda RX-7. I own the first model, a 1976. It's a bit of a white elephant if you ask me. I've found the car is pretty easily repaired, but parts can be a little expensive. This breaks another rule. It was mostly functional when I bought it, at least electrically. The left side blinkers and taillights didn't work, but a new fuse fixed that. The radio has a short in it that makes operation erratic at best. Such features as power steering, power brakes, electric windows, four-wheeled disk brakes, five-speed transmission, electric fuel pump, four-barreled carburetor and rotary engine sold me on it. However, it did not run well. It was hard starting the engine, it needed a long time to warm up, and it wouldn't accelerate well. One tire was low on air which caused front-end vibration, but a stop at the gas station for air cured that problem. Finally, the body and paint job were in pretty good shape. There were no major dents (though a few dings), no bondo, no cracked glasses, nice interior and basically a solid car that nobody else wanted.

I never figured out what was wrong with the car in time to fix it. The next thing I knew, the engine "OVERHEAT" light was on. In the manual it said to kill the engine immediately if that light came on. I didn't. I kept the engine running while my brother put water in the radiator. It ran for a while and then choked down. Steam came from the exhaust system. I had rebuilt the carburetor in an effort to get it to run. I found out later when asking a friend that the idle adjustment screw on the carburetor needed adjusting in order to get it to run. It was too late though; I needed an engine.

I really like this car, which is one reason I bought it even though I was not totally familiar with the total nature of the beast. It's an attractive, unique and handsomely styled automobile. So far I have spent $677 for purchase and licensing, $16 for spark plugs, $5 for gas, $18 for carburetor rebuild kit, and $365 for an engine rebuild kit which includes two major engine components, for a total expenditure of $1081. I don't think this is too bad considering the rare nature of this car. However, $1081 could be used for many other things. I still need a clutch and a pressure plate. Oh well...

Because of the nature of some automobiles, any price paid for them would be justifiable. Some examples are American muscle cars, pre-60's machinery in good condition, and of course the foreign names of Ferrari, Porsche, BMW, Mercedes, Maserati and Volkswagon. Strangely, a Bug in decent shape can bring a good price after a routine clean-up.

With the automobile market being erratic and biased towards certain makes and models, some caution must be taken. And, if you see a car you don't recognize and can afford it, buy it anyway; it may be one of a kind. However, if it isn't a popular automobile, you'd better be happy with your purchase. Automobiles can be a two-way street.

CAREER WEEK 1985

Southern Tech

BE A WINNER IN THE JOB MARKET

There ARE good jobs available to Southern Tech graduates. Companies large and small have come to recognize STI as a leading college in the field of engineering technology. That means that as undergraduates looking for co-op sites and as juniors and seniors planning your careers, your Southern Tech education will help you enter the job market on solid ground. But just getting into the job market is no guarantee that you will land the job of your choice. The competition for good positions is keen; and, while your affiliation with STI is a good beginning, getting the job is up to you.

There are several steps involved in selling yourself to a prospective employer. The first of these is assessing your skills. Secondly, you have to get your foot in the door with a good resume. Finally, you have to use good interviewing skills to convince your prospective employer(s) that you are the right person for the job.

STI CAREER WEEK 1985, outlined on these pages, is geared towards helping you learn how to take these basic steps towards getting the job or co-op site that you want. The steps will be covered in the workshops on Skills Assessment, Resume Critiquing, Dress for Success, and Interviewing Skills.

SKILLS ASSESSMENT: "WHAT MAKES YOU SO SPECIAL?"

8 There are many skills needed to be successful in any job. In general, the skills that engineering technology employers are looking for can be divided into two categories: technical skills and non-technical skills. Your technical skills consist of what you have learned in the classroom. To a great extent, they are the "givens" in a job application situation--that is, there are certain technical skills that are prerequisites for a given job, and every applicant the company is considering has them. So, the question is, "What makes you so special? Why should the employer hire you instead of someone else?"

We all have talents and skills that we use every day without even realizing it. The SKILLS ASSESSMENT WORKSHOP can help you identify your non-technical skills and learn now to present them to prospective employers.

RESUME CRITIQUING SESSION

Once you have assessed your experience and your various skills, you need to put them into a resume which you will use to get your foot in the door. The RESUME CRITIQUING SESSION will be an opportunity for you to bring in your resume and have it critiqued by representatives from local industries and members of various departments on campus. It will be an excellent opportunity to find out how to turn your resume into a key that will open the doors of prospective employers.

DRESS FOR SUCCESS: YOU ARE WHAT YOU WEAR

What you look like when you walk into a interview says a lot to the interviewer about who you are and what kind of an employee you would be. This workshop will be a combination of lecture and fashion presentation--for men and women--focusing on how you can incorporate a confident, responsible image with your own personality and flair.

WINNING THE INTERVIEW GAME

You did it! You submitted a resume and the company liked it! They have set up an interview with you! Hundreds of butterflies are fluttering madly in your stomach and the thought keeps running through your mind, "An interview! I'm going to make a fool of myself. They'll never hire me. What am I go to do?"

The answer to that question is easy: come to one of the workshops on interviewing skills. Interviewing can be a game where both the interviewer and the applicant win. Come learn how to rise to the challenge and be a winner!

The workshop will be led by members of the Counseling Center and Placement staff, with special guest representatives from local industry who will conduct mock interviews with students.

All Career Week activities are being sponsored by Co-op, Placement, and the Counseling Center.

CAREER DAY!!!

9:00 am - 2:00 pm)

Come talk to more than 15 representatives of Atlanta area high tech companies. Get information! Make contacts! Ballroom, Student Center)

Why should all students visit the industry booths?

- 1) To gain career information about different types of work.
- 2) To begin the job search/establishing a communications network.
- 3) To seek related summer work programs.
- 4) To inquire or stimulate co-op programs for career/academic development.
- 5) To seek an internship work program related to the degree.

Above are a few of the primary objectives for the Annual Career Day which hopefully will assist Southern Tech students in preparing for their careers.

BSU

Greetings again faithful readers. As you have probably noticed, winter quarter is ever so rapidly drawing to a close, and spring quarter is right around the corner. With spring quarter comes officer elections for next years council and the annual Spring Conference. Since these events occur rather early next month, it seems wise to bring them up in this final winter quarter issue.

The nomination forms are due at the luncheon on March 14. The election will take place at the luncheon on April 11. The four week time span will allow the nominees to be contacted concerning their willingness to accept a position. If you are willing to serve as an officer, please fill out the nomination form. If there is someone you would like to see in a council position, please turn in their name. Remember, they cannot be considered if they are not nominated.

The annual BSU Spring Conference will be held on the weekend of April 26,27 and 28. Deadline for registration is Wednesday, April 17. Cost will be a little over $30.00, depending on which meal plan is chosen. This cost includes the Conference registration fee, housing for two nights, and meals for Friday evening through Sunday lunch. There will be seminars on a wide range of topics. Ample time will be available Saturday afternoon for recreation. Also, the 1985 Summer Missionaries will be commissioned. Our own Ron Kilgore has been accepted as a summer missionary, and will be a part of the commissioning service.

Let's make an impressive showing at the conference. Please make plans to attend. The new officers are especially encouraged to attend since many activities at the Conference focus on preparing new officers for their positions.

To kick off spring quarter, we are planning a cookout at Laurel Park on Monday, April, 8. There will be games and plenty of food, so make plans to attend. Further details will be announced at the meetings: Monday at 7:30 pm, Rm. 119, and Thursday at 12:00 Noon, Ballroom A.

During the spring break, 11 members of the BSU will travel to Americus on a mission trip. The details were given in the last issue, but this time I am equipped with a list of those participating. The list includes Bill Posey, Steve Matthews, Ron Kilgore, Daryl Abney, Richard Kennedy, Melissa Master, Jeff Pettit, Mark Hinton, Robby Martin, and yours truly, Jeff Brooks. We will be accompanied by our fearful leader Rev. Johnny Pierce. We'll appreciate your prayers as we make our journey to south Georgia.

Thank you for your faithful support during this rather cruel winter quarter, and we look forward to your continued support for next quarter. Remember prayer changes things (even GPA's) and remember each other in prayer during finals.

Jeff Brooks
Publicity Chairman

AIIE

Dear Fellow IE's,

The quarter is quickly coming to an end. Graduating seniors do not forget to transfer your membership to the professional level. The blue transfer forms are available from the following: the AIIE Bulletin Board, Professor Aft Vice President Neal Cordelle Secretary Robert Faizo, and President Chris Ordway. The cost is $12.50. Remember that it could cost you $60 if you join the IIE after you graduate, so join now.

In addition freshmen sophmores, and juniors don't forget to join AIIE. Don't miss out on interesting speakers and plant trips.

Sincerely,
Chris Ordway
STI AIIE Chapter President

Monday and Wednesday evenings at 7:30 in the Student Center Ballroom

Brinkley's Wave Becomes a Flood

Brad Austin, Staff Writer

Atlanta was graced with more than just another pretty face on Monday the 18th; the face belongs to Ms. Christie Brinkley. Ms. Brinkley was in town to promote her new clothes line. Atlanta was the first of an 18 city, three week tour for Christie. To meet Christie Brinkley, nearly 2,000 adoring fans crawled and climbed all over each other just to get a glimpse or an autograph of the super model. For the lucky few, there were free, bright yellow t-shirts with the words, "MAKE WAVES", Brinkley's catch phrase, on the front.

Even though the crowd was pleased to be able to see the charming model, there was a great deal of complaining due to the organization by Davison's. Actually, that should be a lack of organization. There were far too few security guards, and not nearly enough preparation to handle the mass of fans who were shoved, pushed and yelled at by the guards and other fans. The crowded conditions made for a perfect kleptomaniac's heaven. People were knocking over clothes racks as well as the feeble 10 feet of guard rail that attempted to form an orderly access line to Ms. Brinkley. This was easily trampled and disregarded. Although the security guards tried their best to regain order, it took almost an hour and a half just to make a walkway for the everyday shoppers.

"This is unbelievable," Francesca Casciaro, Ms. Brinkley's long time aide, said to Don Horning, a vice president of the Christie Brinkley Division of Ross Togs. She was referring to the huge crowds. "And this is only Atlanta. What's New York going to be like? L.A.? We need additional security, like 25 people."

With a worried expression Mr. Horning replied, "We have 30."

At 2:00 sharp Ms. Brinkley was snatched from her seat and escorted to a private suite. At this suite Christie held a private press conference. This is the first chance she had had in an hour and a half just to sit and relax away from thousands of fans. At the conference Christie answered questions about her clothes line, as well as her future plans.

She made a few references to her upcoming wedding to Billy Joel, who she said, enjoys her clothes as much as she does. Before she was swept away by her entourage, Christie told of the "major fashion event" that she will be co-ordinating that will raise money for the famine victims of Ethiopia. Even with the troubles caused by the crowds, all of Christie's fans enjoyed themselves. At the press conference, this reporter found Ms. Brinkley as delightful and personable as she is attractive. All in all, meeting Christie was well worth the fight with the 2,000 people.

Students Lobby to End Arms Race

College students, faculty and staff from across the country will gather in Washington on Thursday, April 18th for the 1985 University Lobby to End the Arms Race. They will meet with Members of Congress to inform them of widespread campus support for policies that would halt the nuclear arms race.

Participants in the Lobby Day will discuss four legislative priorities with their legislators: restricting funds for nuclear explosives testing and resuming negotiations for a comprehensive test ban treaty; stopping appropriations for extremely accurate, potentially first-strike weapons such as the MX, Trident D-5 and Pershing II missiles; continuing a moratorium on testing of anti-satellite weapons, supporting efforts to reduce funding for Strategic Defense Initiative (Star Wars) research and supporting efforts to maintain the existing ABM treaty in force; and finally, supporting legislation for a comprehensive bilateral freeze on the testing, production and deployment of nuclear weapons. The lobby day will feature briefings by Washing ton arms control lobbyists, meetings with legislators and a chance to share experiences with campus delegations from around the country.

The national sponsor of Lobby Day is United Campuses to Prevent Nuclear War (UCAM), an organization founded in 1982. UCAM presently has 60 campus chapters and contacts on 700 campuses in all 50 states and Canada. Students for Nuclear Disarmament, Yale University, will lead the field organizing effort to encourage participation in Lobby Day. Yale and national UCAM will be assisted in their efforts by UCAM chapters and independent campus groups throughout the country.

Last year, 700 participants from 65 campuses gathered for the first Lobby Day. Students spoke with their Members of Congress and were addressed by national arms control experts. Michael Wishnie, a key Lobby Day organizer at Yale University summarizes the objectives of the lobby day: "We hope to spark a renewed effort to curb the spiraling nuclear competition by demonstrating the presence of a well-informed and active campus movement for arms control." UCAM's Field Director Phil Antweiler says that he "expects this year's event to be much larger. Interested student groups have been calling from around the country and the organizing effort is well ahead of last year's pace."

Lobby Day organizers are currently seeking contact with persons or groups interested in learning more about the event. Even campuses unable to send delegations to Washington, D.C. are urged to support the aims of Lobby Day by collecting signed proxy statements which will be delivered by participants to Members of Congress.

WHEN IS ORIENTATION '85 PLANNED?

This year Orientation promises to be one of the best and biggest ever. The Orientation Planning Committee (OPC) is planning three over-night sessions during the summer for this coming 1985 Fall Quarter, and a one day session at the beginning of fall quarter. For winter, spring and summer quarters, Orientation will be a one day session.

WHO IS AN ORIENTATION LEADER?

An Orientation leader is someone like you who is knowledgeable about STI's way of life and who is comfortable enough to help a new student in his or her transition here at STI.

WHY DO I WANT TO BE AN ORIENTATION LEADER?

Because being an Orientation leader, I have the chance to practice my group leadership skills and my public speaking skills; I also will have the opportunity to make a lot of new friends.

HOW CAN I BECOME AN ORIENTATION LEADER?

TKE

This has been a busy few weeks for Xi-Chi chapter. We would like to thank the Appalachian State Tekes, Omicron-Alpha chapter, for hosting us on our annual ski trip to Boone, North Carolina. We all shared a great time together, skiing and partying with the Omicron-Alpha Tekes. Thank you Lord for bringing us all home safe and without casualties.

Actives beat the Alumni 72 to 64 in our annual Alumni Basketball Game. The old boys just couldn't hang with us this time, but they vowed to get even in our upcoming Alumni Softball Game. Speaking of softball, TKE is gearing up for this spring. We've already begun practice and the team is looking good. Thanks to those brothers who participated in intramural basketball this quarter. Great Effort!

Doug Carter and Chris Lindsey represented our chapter at the Regional Conference on February 9. They got some really good ideas from various seminars, and we're already putting some of those ideas to work for our chapter.

Our Little Sister organization has elected new officers. These young ladies are:

- Stacey Hisey-President
- Garnett Long-Secretary/Educator
- Kathy Dixon-Treasurer

At our 12th annual R.C.B., many brothers and little sisters were honored with awards. Doug Carter got a well deserved Top Teke Award and was also our Top Chapter Scholar. David Miller got Top Athlete for the second year in a row and Mike Durham was awarded Top Associate Member. Tommy Miles received an Outstanding Chapter Advisor award and Mike Sprayberry was given the Top Alumni Award for his many hours spent helping out the chapter. Hal Moore had the most improved grades for this year and Ken Boggs received the Tommy Crumley Achievement Award. Laura Willham is our well-deserving new Little Sister Sweetheart and Garnett Long worked hard to support the fraternity and earn Top Little Sister. Congratulations everyone!

Thanks to Les Wilkenson for making all the necessary arrangements and to Mark Garret for the Awards Ceremony. And Freddie, we know you felt like you had to prove you earned your award, but how 'bout keeping your clothes on next time, OK?

Our chapter is really moving along with big plans for this Spring Quarter. Spring Fest is not too far away, and we're all looking forward to getting together with the other Teke chapters and having a great time. We've got several rush parties planned and with all kinds of activities going on this spring, TKE is the place to be.

Pi Kappa Phi

As Winter quarter draws to a close here at Southern Tech, we Pi Kapps are anxiously preparing for a super Spring. Three big RUSH parties have already been planned for the upcoming quarter which should prove to be one of Epsilon Kappa's best.

The road trip to Tallahassee and the Area III Conclave was great. Brothers, Associate Members and Little Sisters from Epsilon Kappa joined in with the Pi Kapps from Georgia and Florida for a weekend of learning and partying and attending the seminars! Needless to say, everyone had a blast partying and attending the seminars!

Thanks goes out to the Alpha Delta Pis for a wonderful social. I really enjoyed seeing you fine ladies in your P. J.'s. Extra special thanks to those Alpha Delta Pis who planned or helped out with the party.

Congratulations to the Pi Kappa Basketball team who had a big victory over the Sigma Nu squad, only to lose the following game to a tough Geechees team. Their record is now 3-2. Keep it up guys!

March birthday wishes go out to Jungle Jon-8, Eddie-10, Beaker - 13, Son - 17. Best Wishes from Epsilon Kappa.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

The Georgia ETA Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon had a great time at our Regional Leadership Academy at the Westin Peachtree Plaza. All of the brothers who attended the meetings learned a great deal for spring rush. Not only were the meetings informative, but well organized and interesting. The evening activities included partying, partying, and more partying with other chapters throughout the southeast. The largest of the turnout was a chapter from Florida Alpha who brought 140 members, 30 of which were little sisters.

This made for a great time at Fitzgeralds, which will never be the same again.

The following weekend, we broke in the softball season with a great practice. We are looking forward to the upcoming softball games.

This spring break, we are also looking forward to the brothers retreat at one of the local lakes. Some of the brothers are going to invade the beaches of Florida and take in the sun, booze, and women! ETA!

As for spring quarter, Sigma Phi Epsilon's Spring

Rush activities include:

- "Barbecue"-April 3, Wed., between the dorms
- "School's Beach Party"-April 8, Mon.
- "Boxer Rebellion Party"-April 11, Thurs., Wear your boxers and t-shirts
- "Pimp-n-Prostitute Party"-April 12, Fri., College Commons

All parties start at 8:00 pm.

ARE YOU TOUGH ENOUGH TO WEAR A BERET?

It's not just the physical toughness. It's mental toughness and emotional toughness. It's a combination of abilities and skills. And those indefinable things like courage and honor and integrity.

It takes somebody special to wear the beret of the Rangers, Special Forces or Airborne. If you think you want the kind of action you'll get in a swamp, on a remote beach or snow plain or on a mountainside, stop in or call.
